14TH YEAR. NO. 188.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., WEDNESDAY, JAN. 18, 1899.

TWO CENTS

THE FOURTH PAID.

Mustering Out of Coit's Command Commenced.

DEDUCTION WAS NOT MADE.

Acting Paymaster General Carey Sent an Order to Major Guild Not to Do It—A Decision Modified by Comptroller Tracewell.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18.—The Fourth Ohio was paid at noon and mustered out. The men were paid in full. Major Guild, the paymaster here, having received the following order from Acting Paymaster General Carey:

"No stoppage or deduction will be made in soldiers' pay on account of any payment made to him by the governor of a state or state authorities as a militiaman before his acceptance into volunteer service of the United States. Deductions required by general order No. 1 of 1898 should not be made."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Comptroller Tracewell of the treasury has modified a former decision regarding the pay of volunteer soldiers, in which he held that:

"No deductions should be made by the pay department from the pay that would be due a soldier under the act of July 7, 1898, on account of any payment that may have been made under the state militia law to him by the governor or state authorities from the date of his enrollment or joining for duty to the date of his acceptance into the volunteer army of the United States."

"The governor or state authorities make this payment to him as a state soldier, and because congress has seen fit by the act of July 8, 1898, to reimburse the governor or state for these payments is no sufficient reason for the government, by indirection, to take away from the soldier what had been paid him by a state, and no sufficient reason why the act of July 7, 1898 should be evaded."

SHERIFF LAW UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

State Supreme Court Ousts All of the Interim Appointees.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18.—The Ohio supreme court declared unconstitutional the law changing the time of commencement of term of sheriffs from January to September on the ground that the legislature has no power to provide an interval between the term of a sheriff and the one elected to succeed him.

The decision affirms the title of the duly-elected sheriffs, ousting all appointees for the interim. The law has caused confusion in nearly every county and in some a conflict between the newly elected sheriff and his predecessor who sought to hold over until September.

Wished He Could Punish Powell Too.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 18.—Wallace Bennett and his wife who, it was claimed, "badgered" several men out of money, among them William Powell, a New York traveling man, were fined $200 each and sentenced to serve six months in the workhouse by Judge Fiedler, at the Central police court. In passing sentence the judge said: "I do not wish to be misunderstood when I sentence these people. It is not to satisfy Powell; it is to satisfy society. So far as Powell is concerned, I am sorry that I can not punish him."

A PEACEFUL OPENING.

Joint Convention of Operators and Miners Convened.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 18.—A show of good feeling attended the opening of the second annual joint convention of coal operators and miners at Carnegie hall, Allegheny. M. D. Ratchford, the retiring president of the United Mine Workers of America, called the convention to order. He said that peace and good feeling had prevailed thus far under the Chicago agreement, and expressed the hope that the contract would be renewed at the present conference on such terms as to continue this condition and avoid all strikes.

As a representative of the miners he nominated Operator Alexander Dempster of Pittsburgh as permanent chairman of the joint convention. Operator S. M. Dalzell of Illinois seconded the nomination and Mr. Dempster was elected unanimously.

As the well-known Pittsburgh operator came forward to take his proper place in the convention Mr. Ratchford extended his hand and congratulated him, while the convention applauded. Mr. Dempster stated his appreciation of the honor, and expressed the hope that peace would follow the conference.

MINERS ELECTED OFFICERS.

Mitchell Chosen President and Davis Vice President.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 18.—The miners' convention elected these officers:

President—John Mitchell, Indianapolis, Ind. Vice President—T. W. Davis, Indianapolis, Ind.

Executive Board—Fred Dilcher, Nelsonville, O.; H. Stephenson, East Bank, W. Va.; Edward McKoy, Buena Vista; James Boston, DuQuoin.

Ill. George W. Purcen, Terre Haute, Ind.; W. R. Fairley, Pratt City, Ala.

Delegates to the American Federation of Labor Convention—John Mitchell, Indianapolis, Ind.; W. C. Pearce, Indianapolis, Ind.; John M. Hunter, St. Louis, Mo.; Fred Dilcher, Nelsonville, O.; Alternates, William Warner, Pittsburg; Patrick Dolan, Pittsburg; J. H. Kennedy, Terre Haute, Ind.; William Dodds, Pittsburg.

LIBRARIAN YOUNG DEAD.

Died at His Residence in Washington From Bright's Disease and Complications and Overwork.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—John Russell Young, librarian of the congressional library, died at his residence here after an illness of several weeks.

There were with him at his death Mrs. Young, Berkeley Young, his son; Dr. Frear, his physician, and Ralph J. Meeker, one of the old newspaper friends of the librarian.

Dr. Frear, the attending physician, made a brief written statement that death was due to "acute Bright's disease, with complications. Overwork and too much brain work."

John Russell Young was born in Downingtown, Chester county, Pa., Nov. 20, 1841. The family moved to Philadelphia and he was educated in the public schools of that city. Later he went to New Orleans, where an uncle lived, and continued his school work in the new Orleans high school. Returning to Philadelphia he secured a place on the Philadelphia Press in 1867 as copy boy, and from this

JOHN RUSSELL YOUNG.

dated his newspaper work. When John W. Forney came to Washington in 1861, to become secretary of the senate, he brought along Young, who, by that time, had become a fluent writer. While acting as Colonel Forney's private secretary Mr. Young continued his writings to the Philadelphia Press, and it was by his description of the first battle of Bull Run that he won his spurs as a war correspondent, at which he continued for a time.

On returning he became managing editor of the Philadelphia Press, which he resigned in 1865 to start The Morning Post, which, however, was not a success.

In 1866 Young became managing editor of the New York Tribune. At that time Young was only 25 years old. His leisure time he devoted to the study of the law, and in 1867 was admitted to the bar in New York city. In 1870 he again tried the establishment of a newspaper of his own, this time The Standard. About this time, however, Secretary of the Treasury Boutwell induced Young to go abroad to look into financial affairs. While abroad on this mission the awful days of the Paris commune occurred and Mr. Young's account of the rise and fall of the commune, and of the stirring days through which the French capital passed is regarded as one of the best examples of English descriptive writing.

In 1872 he became the European representative of the New York Herald and spent two years in London and Paris and another year in work and travel on the continent. In 1877 Grant started upon his memorable trip around the world, and on his invitation Mr. Young joined the party. After the return Mr. Young wrote "Around the World with General Grant."

During this trip Mr. Young was specially interested in China, to which country President Arthur sent him in 1882 as United States minister. He remained in China until the opening of the first Cleveland administration, when he returned to this country and engaged in literary and business pursuits.

When the new library of congress was completed, President McKinley named Mr. Young on July 1, 1897, as librarian, which place he retained until his death.

The funeral will be held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at St. John's Episcopal church in this city. The service will be rendered by Rev. Alexander Mackay-Smith. The interment will be in Washington and will be private.

SOLDIER MAY DIE.

Private Hughes Understood to Have Been Found Guilty by a Courtmartial.

HAVANA, Jan. 18.—The trial of private Joseph Buckley, Company E, Second Louisiana volunteers, for the killing of private John D. Hughes of the same company on January 7, was concluded at Marianao. It is understood that the finding of the court is for the death of the accused, but the verdict will not be announced until it has been reviewed in the usual way. In answering Buckley's plea of insanity the prosecution brought forward officers of the regiment and Buckley's comrades, who testified that his behavior prior to the killing had shown no signs that he was mentally unbalanced.

Of the four hundred policemen who have been provisionally accepted for service in Havana in the reconstituted force no fewer than one hundred, it is said, are Spaniards. Chief of Police Menocal has decided to appoint his three brothers as inspectors.

QUAY AGAINST FIELD.

Losch and Shaw of the Anti-Quayites Voted For Quay—All Democrats Except Timlin Cast Their Ballots For Jenks. Anti-Quayites Divided Votes.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 18.—The end of the first day's fight in the battle for United States senator leaves the result very much in doubt. It is Senator Quay against the field and the indications are that there will be a deadlock lasting some days at least. The Republicans are divided between Mr. Quay and eight "favorite sons," and the Democrats are united on George A. Jenks. The senate and house voted separately and they will take a ballot today in joint session.

There was no election and should the ballot show no election today the balloting will continue daily until election is made. Senator Quay's total strength in both houses was 112 votes, 16 less than the number necessary to elect on joint ballot assuming that the full membership of 254 is present, a condition that does not seem possible, as there are several on the sick list now.

The first ballot showed that there was practically no break in the line of either of the Republican factions. Of the original signers to the anti-Quay pledge Senator Samuel A. Losch of Schuylkill and Representative John I. Shaw of Allegheny voted for Senator Quay. Representative Frank L. Snyder of Luzerne, who was too ill to qualify when the legislature organized, took his seat. He was claimed by both factions and pleased neither by voting for Alvin Markle, the Hazleton millionaire coal operator and banker.

The 51 Republican senators and members who signed the second anti-Quay pledge voted as they promised. Representative Clinton Rogers Woodruff of Philadelphia, who was opposed to Senator Quay, but declined to act with his opponents, voted for President Judge Charles E. Rice of the superior court. This made 52 votes which the anti-Quay leaders claim Senator Quay cannot get while he is a candidate. Representative Timlin (Dem.) of Lackawanna, cast his ballot for Superior Court Judge Peter P. Smith of Scranton. He was the only Democrat who failed to vote for Jenks, the party choice.

The essence of the situation is that so long as the anti-Quay Republicans are united and the Democrats vote for Jenks, Senator Quay cannot be re-elected. His friends are confident, however, that he will steadily gain votes after today, while the leaders of the other side are just as confident that he has reached the high-water mark. Governor Stone is the senator's friend and is aiding him in his campaign. The senator is on the ground managing his canvass, and expects to stay during the early stages of the contest.

The anti-Quay Republican senators and members agreed to meet daily until the fight is settled. They are divided on congressmen Dalzell and Stone and other independent Republicans. Their leaders say it is too early to concentrate on one candidate against Senator Quay. There does not seem to be any prospects of a combination between the anti-Quay Republicans and the Democrats on the senatorship. Although not a single vote was cast in either house for Senator Chris L. Magee of Pittsburg, he is regarded as a most important factor in the contest.

He has for years been opposed to Senator Quay's control of the state, but he declined to stay away from the Republican caucus, of which he was made the nominee, and voted for him during the balloting. The Pittsburg senator and his friends took part in the caucus and showed their opposition to Mr. Quay by voting for B. F. Jones of Pittsburg. Before the vote was announced Mr. Magee moved to make Senator Quay's nomination unanimous. The motion carried, and the Pittsburg senator has since abided by the decision of the caucus. This has made him popular with the friends of Senator Quay and did not apparently diminish his popularity with the anti-Quay Republicans. Many of Senator Magee's friends in both factions are predicting that their favorite will be chosen to succeed Senator Quay in the event of it being demonstrated that the latter cannot win.

When the senate met Lieutenant Governor Gobin announced that agreeable to the constitution the chamber must proceed with the election of a United States senator. The chamber was crowded to suffocation.

The balloting resulted as follows:

Matthew Stanley Quay of Beaver, 27; George A. Jenks of Jefferson, 12; John Dalzell of Pittsburg, 3; George A. Huff of Westmoreland, 1; Charles Emory Smith of Philadelphia, 1; Colonel E. A. Irwin of Clearfield, 1; Charles W. Stone of Warren, 1; John Stewart of Franklin, 1.

The members lined up as follows:

For Quay—Messrs. Brown of Philadelphia, Brown of Lawrence, Brown of Westmoreland, Crawford, Cummings, Eby, Gibson, Grady, Hardenburg, Hertzler, Hummel, Losch, McCarrill, Magee, Meredith, Merrick, Mitchell of Bradford, Mitchell of Jefferson, Muelhbrunner, Osborn, Scott of Luzerne, Scott of Philadelphia, Snyder, Stinson, Stober, Vare and Vaughan—total 27.

For Dalzell—Messrs. Flynn, Henry and Martin—total 3.

For Huff—Mr. Rice.

For Smith—Mr. Sproul.

For Colonel Irwin—Mr. Holzworth.

For Stone—Mr. Weller.

For Judge Stewart—Mr. Chisholm.

Matthew S. Quay—Ackerman, Adams, Ebenzer, Adams, James W.; Aiman, Baldwin, Bare, Bricker, Britton, Cassel, Chew, Christian, Clark, Colville, Crittenden, Dempsey, Fahey, Garvin, Gransback, Harris, Heidelbaugh, Henderson, Hersch, Hossack, Hoskins, Keiper, Keyser, Klump, Kreps, Leard, Lewis, Lloyd, McAnlis, McClain, McConnell, McFarlane, McLarn, McNeese, McWhinney, MacIver, Mackey, Marshall, Meads, Meyer, Miller, Milliken, Morrison, Mulkie, Murdoch, Nisbet, Noblit, Parrshall, Peoples, Reitzel, Richmond, Riebel, Robinson, Rutherford, Salter, Schoffstall, Scheur, Scott, Seal, Seidel, Selby, Shaw, Simon, Slater, Smith, Albert, M.; Srodes, Stevens, Stubb, Thompson, Horace J.; Tiffany, Todd, Towler, Turner, Voorhees, Weaver, Whittingham, Williams, Wilson, Henry J.; Yates, Youngson, Zerbe, Farr (speaker)—total, 85.

George Jenks, Democrat—Anderson, Boyle, Brooks, Brown, Francis E.; Brown, Thomas; Burnett, Castner, Chrisman, Constain, Craig, Cressy, Christie, Cutshall, Dayarmon, Dixon, Doty, Drase, Dumbauld, Engler, Fay, Fisher, Foster, Fow, Grover, Guenther, Haag, Hasson, Heil, Hersch, Hock, Hoy, Johnson, Kayler, Kegan, Kessler, Kramlich, Larzelore, Ling, McAndrews, Macomber, Maloney, Manning, Miller, B. Frank; Meyer, Myers, Nafzinger, Noecker, O'Brien, Osler, Palm, Pratt, Ralston, Reiff, Rosenberry, Roth, Rothrock, Sheridan, Shutt, Skinner, Smith, John H.; Smith, Jos. W.; Smith, Sylvester; Spalz, Squier, Sterner, Stewart, Samuel E.; Stranahan, Thompson, John H.; Tighe, Wetzel—total, 70.

John Dalzell—Dindinger, Edmiston, Edwards, Fetterolf, Ford, Foster, McCandless, McElhany, Manley, Moore, Stradling, Wilkinson and Winner—total, 13.

Charles W. Stone—Caldwell, Keater, Kendall, Norton, Sexton, Shane, Stall, Stewart and William F. Wadsworth—total, 9.

John Stewart—Abrams, Allen, Bliss, Clarence, Jeffries, Koontz, Nyce and Rendall—total, 8.

George F. Huff—Hargrave, Reed, Savage, and William Wilson—total, 4.

Charles E. Rice—Coray, Woodruff—total 2.

Alvin Markle—Snyder.

Charles Tubbs—Laubach, Martin, Smith, Frederick B.; Young—total 4.

Gausha A. Grou—Robb.

Peter P. Smith, Democrat—Timlin.

E. A. Irwin—Alexander, Linton—total 2.

Absent and not voting—Brophy, Cole, Dutera, Harrold—total 4.

Necessary to a choice, 101.

Of the members marked absent and not voting, the first three are Democrats and the fourth Republican.

The house adjourned after the speaker had announced the result of the vote until 11 o'clock today.

JENKS FOR FUSION.

Willing to Throw His Strength to Any One Who Can Beat Quay.

BRADFORD, Jan. 18.—Hon. George A. Jenks, who had been looking after the interests of one of his clients in the court of McKean county, left this evening for Harrisburg. In a chat with a reporter Mr. Jenks expressed himself in favor of the fusion idea in his senatorial fight.

"If the Democrats and anti-Quay Republicans stand together in this contest," he said, "I believe Quay can be defeated. I will go to Harrisburg and if I find that any one of the various candidates can muster enough strength to overcome the Quay vote, I will certainly throw my strength to such candidate. I believe that it is my duty to the state and the country to do this."

TROOPS ABOARD TRANSPORT.

The Grant, With Lawton and Troops, Expected to Get Under Way Today.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Amid the waving of handkerchiefs and general farewells the United States army transport Grant, with Major General W. Lawton and 1,800 troops on board, bound for Manila, pulled out from pier 22, East river, Brooklyn, last night and proceeded to a point off Liberty island, where she dropped anchor to remain until today.

General Robert A. Hall of the Fourth regiment will be in command of all the troops on board the transport, Major General Lawton and his staff going as passengers. A few of the men on board managed to obtain a short leave of absence and two of them failed to return within the time limit. They were taken in custody by the police of the Fifty-third precinct and brought to the vessel in a patrol wagon.

They were given in charge of the corporal of the guard and consigned to the guardroom at once.

General Lawton arrived about the same hour, and was followed soon after by the members of his staff. There were four Red Cross nurses aboard.

Members of the house and senate committees, Adjutant General Corbin and several other army officers reached the city early this morning, boarded the Grant and made a thorough inspection.

Gift to Copenhagen.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 18.—Carl Jacobson, the well-known brewer, notified the municipal authorities here of his intention to present the city with his splendid collection of art treasures, valued at over 5,000,000 crowns ($1,750,000) on condition that a suitable building is provided for their care and display.

ARREST FOR EAGAN.

An Army Officer to Serve Notice on Him Today.

HE WILL BE COURT-MARTIALED.

This Action Decided Upon by the President—General Merritt Spoken of as Probable President of the Board—Dismissal Likely the Penalty.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The president announced to the cabinet that he had decided to order a courtmartial to try Commissary General Eagan for the abusive and violent language he had used respecting Major General Nelson A. Miles while on the witness stand before the war investigating commission last Thursday.

Before the cabinet session he held a conference with the secretary of war and Adjutant General Corbin. It was not long in duration, but the action to follow General Eagan's utterances was decided and when the cabinet met the president announced that he had reached his decision in the matter. He said he had determined that there was only one course to adopt and that was to order a courtmartial to be convened at once to try General Eagan. The decision met the unanimous approval of the members of the cabinet. Three of the president's official advisers, Secretary Alger, Secretary Wilson and Postmaster General Emory Smith, were absent, but in each instance their views are known to coincide thoroughly with the president's decision.

The mention of General Merritt's name as probable president of the court was due to the fact that he is the only available major general of the regular army, the others being General Brooke in Cuba and General Miles here, neither regarded as available. The friends of General Merritt are hoping that he will not be elected, fearing that he will be accused of prejudice by one or perhaps both sides. The penalty for the offense with which General Eagan probably will be tried, conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman, is one of the most severe known in the army, being dismissal.

Prior to the cabinet meeting General Miles made a rather unusual call upon two members of the cabinet, Secretaries Hay and Long. He had just returned to the city from New York and when spoken to with reference to the Eagan case adhered to his original declaration that this was not a time for him to act, if at all, leaving the implication that if the commission did not act, or the administration, it would then be time for him to take some step.

The commissary general, prior to the cabinet meeting, said that he was prepared to accept loyally whatever action the president might decide to take.

Secretary Alger confirmed the announcement made by members of the cabinet that a courtmartial for the trial of Commissary General Charles P. Eagan would be ordered.

He made this statement as he was leaving the White House, with Adjutant General Corbin, after a conference of half an hour with the president. As to the charges to be preferred against the commissary general, the secretary declined to say anything nor would he talk respecting the personnel of the court, adding that this would be announced tonight about 9 o'clock. General Eagan has not yet been relieved of his duties in anticipation of his prospective trial, but it is understood that the order for his arrest preparatory to trial will of itself carry with it his relief from official duties. It was said at the war department that the order for arrest may be served on General Eagan by an officer of the army some time during the official day today.

QUIET IN PHILIPPINES.

General Otis Cabled Good News—McKinley's Commission Named.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Advices were received from Manila that the situation on the islands is very quiet.

At Iloilo affairs are progressing satisfactorily, and a gratifying fact reported in the cablegram was that the officers aboard our ships and the individual insurgents were fraternizing freely on shore, and that there was no sign of trouble.

President McKinley announced during the session that he had finally passed on the personnel of the commission to visit and report on the Philippine islands as follows: Messrs. Schurmann, Dewey, Otis, Denby and Worcester.

New United States Senators.

These United States senators were chosen: Minnesota, Cushman K. Davis; Indiana, Albert J. Beveridge; Missouri, Francis Marion Cockrell; New York, Chauncey M. Depew; Massachusetts, Henry Cabot Lodge.

Weather Forecast.

The first ballot showed that there was practically no break in the line of either of the Republican factions. Of the original signers to the anti-Quay pledge Senator Samuel A. Loach of Schuylkill and Representative John I. Shaw of Allegheny voted for Senator Quay. Representative Frank L. Snyder of Luzerne, who was too ill to qualify when the legislature organized, took his seat. He was claimed by both factions and pleased neither by voting for Alvin Markle, the Hazleton millionaire coal operator and banker.

The 51 Republican senators and members who signed the second anti-Quay pledge voted as they promised. Representative Clinton Rogers Woodruff of Philadelphia, who was opposed to Senator Quay, but declined to act with his opponents, voted for President Judge Charles E. Rice of the superior court. This made 52 votes which the anti-Quay leaders claim Senator Quay cannot get while he is a candidate. Representative Timlin (Dem.) of Lackawanna, cast his ballot for Superior Court Judge Peter P. Smith of Scranton. He was the only Democrat who failed to vote for Jenks, the party choice.

The essence of the situation is that so long as the anti-Quay Republicans are united and the Democrats vote for Jenks, Senator Quay cannot be re-elected. His friends are confident, however, that he will steadily gain votes after today, while the leaders of the other side are just as confident that he has reached the high-water mark. Governor Stone is the senator's friend and is aiding him in his campaign. The senator is on the ground managing his canvass, and expects to stay during the early stages of the contest.

The anti-Quay Republican senators and members agreed to meet daily until the fight is settled. They are divided on congressmen Dalzell and Stone and other independent Republicans. Their leaders say it is too early to concentrate on one candidate against Senator Quay. There does not seem to be any prospects of a combination between the anti-Quay Republicans and the Democrats on the senatorship. Although not a single vote was cast in either house for Senator Chris L. Magee of Pittsburg, he is regarded as a most important factor in the contest.

He has for years been opposed to Senator Quay's control of the state, but he declined to stay away from the Republican caucus, of which he was made the nominee, and voted for him during the balloting. The Pittsburg senator and his friends took part in the caucus and showed their opposition to Mr. Quay by voting for B. F. Jones of Pittsburg. Before the vote was announced Mr. Magee moved to make Senator Quay's nomination unanimous. The motion carried, and the Pittsburg senator has since abided by the decision of the caucus. This has made him popular with the friends of Senator Quay and did not apparently diminish his popularity with the anti-Quay Republicans. Many of Senator Magee's friends in both factions are predicting that their favorite will be chosen to succeed Senator Quay in the event of it being demonstrated that the latter cannot win.

When the senate met Lieutenant Governor Gobin announced that agreeable to the constitution the chamber must proceed with the election of a United States senator. The chamber was crowded to suffocation.

The balloting resulted as follows: Matthew Stanley Quay of Beaver, 27; George A. Jenks of Jefferson, 12; John Dalzell of Pittsburg, 3; George A. Huff of Westmoreland, 1; Charles Emory Smith of Philadelphia, 1; Colonel E. A. Irwin of Clearfield, 1; Charles W. Stone of Warren, 1; John Stewart of Franklin, 1.

The members lined up as follows:

For Quay—Messrs. Brown of Philadelphia, Brown of Lawrence, Brown of Westmoreland, Crawford, Cummings, Eby, Gibson, Grady, Hardenberg, Hertzler, Hummel, Loach, McCarrell, Magee, Meredith, Merrick, Mitchell of Bradford, Mitchell of Jefferson, Muehlbrunner, Osborn, Scott of Luzerne, Scott of Philadelphia, Snyder, Stunsman, Stober, Vane and Vaughan—total 27.

For Jenks—Messrs. Boyd, Cochran, Haines, Heinle, Kemmerer, Lee, Miller of Berks, Miller of Cumberland, Neeley, Stiles, Washburn and Wentz—total 12.

For Dalzell—Messrs. Flynn, Henry and Martin—total 3.

For Huff—Mr. Rice.

For Smith—Mr. Sproul.

For Colonel Irwin—Mr. Holzworth.

For Stone—Mr. Weller.

For Judge Stewart—Mr. Chisholm.

Matthew S. Quay—Ackerman, Adams, Eberzer, Adams, James W.; Aiman, Baldwin, Bare, Bricker, Britton, Cassel, Chew, Christian, Clark, Colville, Crittenden, Dempsey, Fahey, Garvin, Gransback, Harris, Heidelberg, Henderson, Hersch, Hossack, Hoskins, Kleyp, Keyser, Klump, Kreps, Leard, Lewis, Lloyd, McAnlis, McClain, McConnell, McFarlane, McIarn, McNeese, McWhinney, MacIver, Mackey, Marshall, Meals, Meyer, Miller, Miliken, Morrison, Mulkie, Murdock, Nisbet, Noblitt, Parshall, Peoples, Reitzel, Richmond, Riebel, Robison, Rutherford, Salter, Schoffstall, Scheur, Scott, Seal, Seidel, Selby, Shaw, Simon, Slater, Smith, Albert M.; Srodes, Stevens, Stubb, Thompson, Horace J.; Tiffany, Todd, Towler, Turner, Voorhees, Weaver, Whittingham, Williams, Wilson, Henry J.; Yates, Youngson, Zerbe, Farr (speaker)—total, 85.

Frank; Moyer, Myers, Naftzinger, Noecker, O'Brien, Osler, Palm, Pratt, Ralston, Raiff, Rosenberry, Roth, Rothrock, Sheridan, Shutt, Skinner, Smith, John H.; Smith, Jos. W.; Smith, Sylvester; Spalz, Squier, Sterner, Stewart, Samuel E.; Stranahan, Thompson, John H.; Tighe, Wetzel—total, 70.

John Dalzell—Dindinger, Edmiston, Edwards, Fetterolf, Ford, Foster, McCandless, McElhany, Manley, Moore, Stradling, Wilkin-son and Winner—total, 13.

Charles W. Stone—Caldwell, Keater, Kendall, Norton, Sexton, Shane, Stall, Stewart and William F. Wadsworth—total, 9.

John Stewart—Abrams, Allen, Bliss, Clarence, Jeffries, Koontz, Nyce and Rendall—total, 8.

George F. Huff—Hargrave, Reed, Savage, and William Wilson—total, 4.

Charles E. Rice—Coray, Woodruff—total 2.

Alvin Markle—Snyder.

Charles Tubbs—Lambach, Martin, Smith, Frederick B.; Young—total 4.

Ganusha A. Grow—Robb.

Peter P. Smith, Democrat—Timlin.

E. A. Irwin—Alexander, Linton—total 2.

Absent and not voting—Brophy, Cole, Dut-tera, Harold—total 4.

Necessary to a choice, 101.

Of the members marked absent and not voting, the first three are Democrats and the fourth Republican.

The house adjourned after the speaker had announced the result of the vote until 11 o'clock today.

BRADFORD, Jan. 18.—Hon. George A. Jenks, who had been looking after the interests of one of his clients in the court of McKean county, left this evening for Harrisburg. In a chat with a reporter Mr. Jenks expressed himself in favor of the fusion idea in his senatorial fight.

"If the Democrats and anti-Quay Republicans stand together in this contest," he said, "I believe Quay can be defeated. I will go to Harrisburg and if I find that any one of the various candidates can muster enough strength to overcome the Quay vote, I will certainly throw my strength to such candidate. I believe that it is my duty to the state and the country to do this."

TROOPS ABOARD TRANSPORT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Amid the waving of handkerchiefs and general farewells the United States army transport Grant, with Major General W. Lawton and 1,800 troops on board, bound for Manila, pulled out from pier 22, East river, Brooklyn, last night and proceeded to a point off Liberty island, where she dropped anchor to remain until today.

General Robert A. Hall of the Fourth regiment will be in command of all the troops on board the transport, Major General Lawton and his staff going as passengers. A few of the men on board managed to obtain a short leave of absence and two of them failed to return within the time limit. They were taken in custody by the police of the Fifty-third precinct and brought to the vessel in a patrol wagon.

They were given in charge of the corporal of the guard and consigned to the guardroom at once.

General Lawton arrived about the same hour, and was followed soon after by the members of his staff. There were four Red Cross nurses aboard.

Members of the house and senate committees, Adjutant General Corbin and several other army officers reached the city early this morning, boarded the Grant and made a thorough inspection.

Gift to Copenhagen.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 18.—Carl Jacobson, the well-known brewer, notified the municipal authorities here of his intention to present the city with his splendid collection of art treasures, valued at over 5,000,000 crowns ($1,750,000) on condition that a suitable building is provided for their care and display.

ARREST FOR EAGAN.

An Army Officer to Serve Notice on Him Today.

HE WILL BE COURT-MARTIALED.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The president announced to the cabinet that he had decided to order a courtmartial to try Commissary General Eagan for the abusive and violent language he had used respecting Major General Nelson A. Miles while on the witness stand before the war investigating commission last Thursday.

Before the cabinet session he held a conference with the secretary of war and Adjutant General Corbin. It was not long in duration, but the action to follow General Eagan's utterances was decided and when the cabinet met the president announced that he had reached his decision in the matter. He said he had determined that there was only one course to adopt and that was to order a courtmartial to be convened at once to try General Eagan. The decision met the unanimous approval of the members of the cabinet. Three of the president's official advisers, Secretary Alger, Secretary Wilson and Postmaster General Emory Smith, were absent, but in each instance their views are known to coincide thoroughly with the president's decision.

The mention of General Merritt's name as probable president of the court was due to the fact that he is the only available major general of the regular army, the others being General Brooke in Cuba and General Miles here, neither regarded as available. The friends of General Merritt are hoping that he will not be elected, fearing that he will be accused of prejudice by one or perhaps both sides. The penalty for the offense with which General Eagan probably will be tried, conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman, is one of the most severe known in the army, being dismissal.

Prior to the cabinet meeting General Miles made a rather unusual call upon two members of the cabinet, Secretaries Hay and Long. He had just returned to the city from New York and when spoken to with reference to the Eagan case adhered to his original declaration that this was not a time for him to act, if at all, leaving the implication that if the commission did not act, or the administration, it would then be time for him to take some step.

The commissary general, prior to the cabinet meeting, said that he was prepared to accept loyally whatever action the president might decide to take.

Secretary Alger confirmed the announcement made by members of the cabinet that a courtmartial for the trial of Commissary General Charles P. Eagan would be ordered.

He made this statement as he was leaving the White House, with Adjutant General Corbin, after a conference of half an hour with the president. As to the charges to be preferred against the commissary general, the secretary declined to say anything nor would he talk respecting the personnel of the court, adding that this would be announced tonight about 9 o'clock. General Eagan has not yet been relieved of his duties in anticipation of his prospective trial, but it is understood that the order for his arrest preparatory to trial will of itself carry with it his relief from official duties. It was said at the war department that the order for arrest may be served on General Eagan by an officer of the army some time during the official day today.

QUIET IN PHILIPPINES.

General Otis Cabled Good News—McKinley's Commission Named.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Advices were received from Manila that the situation on the islands is very quiet.

At Iloilo affairs are progressing satisfactorily, and a gratifying fact reported in the cablegram was that the officers aboard our ships and the individual insurgents were fraternizing freely on shore, and that there was no sign of trouble.

President McKinley announced during the session that he had finally passed on the personnel of the commission to visit and report on the Philippine islands as follows: Messrs. Schurmann, Dewey, Otis, Denby and Worcester.

New United States Senators.

Weather Forecast.

Western Pennsylvania and Ohio—Threatening, followed by fair; much colder; brisk northerly winds.

EVENING NEWS REVIEW.

14TH YEAR. NO. 188.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., WEDNESDAY, JAN. 18, 1899.

THE FOURTH PAID.

Mustering Out of Coit's Command Commenced.

DEDUCTION WAS NOT MADE.

Acting Paymaster General Carey Sent an Order to Major Guild Not to Do It—A Decision Modified by Comptroller Tracewell.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18.—The Fourth Ohio was paid at noon and mustered out. The men were paid in full. Major Guild, the paymaster here, having received the following order from Acting Paymaster General Carey:

"No stoppage or deduction will be made in soldiers' pay on account of any payment made to him by the governor of a state or state authorities as a militiaman before his acceptance into volunteer service of the United States. Deductions required by general order No. 1 of 1898 should not be made."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Comptroller Tracewell of the treasury has modified a former decision regarding the pay of volunteer soldiers, in which he held that:

"No deductions should be made by the pay department from the pay that would be due a soldier under the act of July 7, 1898, on account of any payment that may have been made under the state militia law to him by the governor or state authorities from the date of his enrollment or joining for duty to the date of his acceptance into the volunteer army of the United States."

"The governor or state authorities make this payment to him as a state soldier, and because congress has seen fit by the act of July 8, 1898, to reimburse the governor or state for these payments is no sufficient reason for the government, by indirection, to take away from the soldier what had been paid him by a state, and no sufficient reason why the act of July 7, 1898 should be evaded."

SHERIFF LAW UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

State Supreme Court Ousts All of the Interim Appointees.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18.—The Ohio supreme court declared unconstitutional the law changing the time of commencement of term of sheriffs from January to September on the ground that the legislature has no power to provide an interval between the term of a sheriff and the one elected to succeed him.

The decision affirms the title of the duly-elected sheriffs, ousting all appointees for the interim. The law has caused confusion in nearly every county and in some a conflict between the newly elected sheriff and his predecessor who sought to hold over until September.

Wished He Could Punish Powell Too.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 18.—Wallace Bennett and his wife who, it was claimed, "badgered" several men out of money, among them William Powell, a New York traveling man, were fined $200 each and sentenced to serve six months in the workhouse by Judge Fiedler, at the Central police court. In passing sentence the judge said: "I do not wish to be misunderstood when I sentence these people. It is not to satisfy Powell; it is to satisfy society. So far as Powell is concerned, I am sorry that I can not punish him."

A PEACEFUL OPENING.

Joint Convention of Operators and Miners Convened.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 18.—A show of good feeling attended the opening of the second annual joint convention of coal operators and miners at Carnegie hall, Allegheny. M. D. Ratchford, the retiring president of the United Mine Workers of America, called the convention to order. He said that peace and good feeling had prevailed thus far under the Chicago agreement, and expressed the hope that the contract would be renewed at the present conference on such terms as to continue this condition and avoid all strikes.

As a representative of the miners he nominated Operator Alexander Dempster of Pittsburgh as permanent chairman of the joint convention. Operator S. M. Dalzell of Illinois seconded the nomination and Mr. Dempster was elected unanimously.

As the well-known Pittsburgh operator came forward to take his proper place in the convention Mr. Ratchford extended his hand and congratulated him, while the convention applauded. Mr. Dempster stated his appreciation of the honor, and expressed the hope that peace would follow the conference.

MINERS ELECTED OFFICERS.

Mitchell Chosen President and Davis Vice President.

President—John Mitchell, Indianapolis, Ind. Vice President—T. W. Davis, Indianapolis, Ind. Secretary-Treasurer—W. C. Pearce, Indianapolis, Ind. Executive Board—Fred Dilcher, Nelsonville, O.; H. Stephenson, East Bank, W. Va.; Edward McKoy, Buena Vista; James Boston, DuQuoin.

Ill. George W. Furcen, Terre Haute, Ind.; W. R. Fairley, Pratt City, Ala.

Delegates to the American Federation of Labor Convention—John Mitchell, Indianapolis, Ind.; W. C. Pearce, Indianapolis, Ind.; John M. Hunter, Strator, Ill.; Fred Dilcher, Nelsonville, O.; Alternates, William Warner, Pittsburg; Patrick Dolan, Pittsburg; J. H. Kennedy, Terre Haute, Ind.; William Dodds, Pittsburg.

LIBRARIAN YOUNG DEAD.

Died at His Residence in Washington From Bright's Disease and Complications and Overwork.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—John Russell Young, librarian of the congressional library, died at his residence here after an illness of several weeks.

There were with him at his death Mrs. Young, Berkeley Young, his son; Dr. Frear, his physician, and Ralph J. Neeker, one of the old newspaper friends of the librarian.

Dr. Frear, the attending physician, made a brief written statement that death was due to "acute Bright's disease, with complications. Overwork and too much brain work."

John Russell Young was born in Downingtown, Chester county, Pa., Nov. 20, 1841. The family moved to Philadelphia and he was educated in the public schools of that city. Later he went to New Orleans, where an uncle lived, and continued his school work in the New Orleans high school. Returning to Philadelphia he secured a place on the Philadelphia Press in 1857 as copy boy, and from this

JOHN RUSSELL YOUNG.

dated his newspaper work. When John W. Forney came to Washington in 1861, to become secretary of the senate, he brought along Young, who, by that time, had become a fluent writer. While acting as Colonel Forney's private secretary Mr. Young continued his writings to the Philadelphia Press, and it was by his description of the first battle of Bull Run that he won his spurs as a war correspondent, at which he continued for a time.

On returning he became managing editor of the Philadelphia Press, which he resigned in 1865 to start The Morning Post, which, however, was not a success.

In 1866 Young became managing editor of the New York Tribune. At that time Young was only 25 years old. His leisure time he devoted to the study of the law, and in 1867 was admitted to the bar in New York city. In 1870 he again tried the establishment of a newspaper of his own, this time The Standard. About this time, however, Secretary of the Treasury Boutwell induced Young to go abroad to look into financial affairs. While abroad on this mission the awful days of the Paris commune occurred and Mr. Young's account of the rise and fall of the commune, and of the stirring days through which the French capital passed is regarded as one of the best examples of English descriptive writing.

In 1872 he became the European representative of the New York Herald and spent two years in London and Paris and another year in work and travel on the continent. In 1877 Grant started upon his memorable trip around the world, and on his invitation Mr. Young joined the party. After the return Mr. Young wrote "Around the World with General Grant."

During this trip Mr. Young was specially interested in China, to which country President Arthur sent him in 1882 as United States minister. He remained in China until the opening of the first Cleveland administration, when he returned to this country and engaged in literary and business pursuits.

When the new library of congress was completed, President McKinley named Mr. Young on July 1, 1897, as librarian, which place he retained until his death.

The funeral will be held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at St. John's Episcopal church in this city. The service will be rendered by Rev. Alexander Mackay-Smith. The interment will be in Washington and will be private.

SOLDIER MAY DIE.

Private Hughes Understood to Have Been Found Guilty by a Courtmartial.

HAVANA, Jan. 18.—The trial of private Joseph Buckley, Company E, Second Louisiana volunteers, for the killing of private John D. Hughes of the same company on January 7, was concluded at Mariano. It is understood that the finding of the court is for the death of the accused, but the verdict will not be announced until it has been reviewed in the usual way. In answering Buckley's plea of insanity the prosecution brought forward officers of the regiment and Buckley's comrades, who testified that his behavior prior to the killing had shown no signs that he was mentally unbalanced.

Of the four hundred policemen who have been provisionally accepted for service in Havana in the reconstituted force no fewer than one hundred, it is said, are Spaniards. Chief of Police Menocal has decided to appoint his three brothers as inspectors.

QUAY AGAINST FIELD.

Losch and Shaw of the Anti-Quayites Voted For Quay—All Democrats Except Timlin Cast Their Ballots For Jenks. Anti-Quayites Divided Votes.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 18.—The end of the first day's fight in the battle for United States senator leaves the result very much in doubt. It is Senator Quay against the field and the indications are that there will be a deadlock lasting some days at least. The Republicans are divided between Mr. Quay and eight "favorite sons," and the Democrats are united on George A. Jenks. The senate and house voted separately and they will take a ballot today in joint session.

There was no election and should the ballot show no election today the balloting will continue daily until election is made. Senator Quay's total strength in both houses was 112 votes, 16 less than the number necessary to elect on joint ballot assuming that the full membership of 254 is present, a condition that does not seem possible, as there are several on the sick list now.

The first ballot showed that there was practically no break in the line of either of the Republican factions. Of the original signers to the anti-Quay pledge Senator Samuel A. Losch of Schuylkill and Representative John I. Shaw of Allegheny voted for Senator Quay. Representative Frank L. Snyder of Luzerne, who was too ill to qualify when the legislature organized, took his seat. He was claimed by both factions and pleased neither by voting for Alvin Markle, the Hazleton millionaire coal operator and banker.

The 51 Republican senators and members who signed the second anti-Quay pledge voted as they promised. Representative Clinton Rogers Woodruff of Philadelphia, who was opposed to Senator Quay, but declined to act with his opponents, voted for President Judge Charles E. Rice of the superior court. This made 52 votes which the anti-Quay leaders claim Senator Quay cannot get while he is a candidate. Representative Timlin (Dem.) of Lackawanna, cast his ballot for Superior Court Judge Peter P. Smith of Scranton. He was the only Democrat who failed to vote for Jenks, the party choice.

The essence of the situation is that so long as the anti-Quay Republicans are united and the Democrats vote for Jenks, Senator Quay cannot be re-elected. His friends are confident, however, that he will steadily gain votes after today, while the leaders of the other side are just as confident that he has reached the high-water mark. Huff of Westmoreland, 1; Charles Emory Smith of Philadelphia, 1; Colonel E. A. Irwin of Clearfield, 1; Charles W. Stone of Warren, 1; John Stewart of Franklin, 1.

The members lined up as follows: For Quay—Messrs. Brown of Philadelphia, Brown of Lawrence, Brown of Westmoreland, Crawford, Cummings, Ely, Gibson, Grady, Hardenburg, Hertzler, Hummel, Losch, McCarell, Magee, Meredith, Merrick, Mitchell of Bradford, Mitchell of Jefferson, Muehlbroner, Osborn, Scott of Luzerne, Scott of Philadelphia, Snyder, Stinson, Stober, Vane and Vaughan—total 27.

For Dalzell—Messrs. Flynn, Henry and Martin—total 3.

For Huff—Mr. Rice.

For Smith—Mr. Sprout.

For Colonel Irwin—Mr. Holzworth.

For Stone—Mr. Weller.

For Judge Stewart—Mr. Chisholm.

Matthew S. Quay—Ackerman, Adams, Ebnzer, Adams, James W., Aiman, Baldwin, Bare, Bricker, Britton, Cassel, Chew, Christian, Clark, Colville, Crittenden, Dempsey, Fahey, Garvin, Gransback, Harris, Heidelberg, Henderson, Hersch, Hossack, Hoskins, Keiper, Keyser, Klump, Kreps, Leard, Lewis, Lloyd, McAnlis, McClain, McConnell, McFarlane, Mc Larn, McNeas, McWhinney, MacIver, Mackey, Marshall, Meals, Meyer, Miller, Milliken, Morrison, Mulkie, Murdock, Nisbet, Noblit, Parshall, Peoples, Reitzel, Richmond, Riebel, Robison, Rutherford, Salter, Schoffstall, Scheur, Scott, Seal, Seidel, Selby, Shaw, Simon, Slater, Smith, Albert M.; Srodes, Stevens, Stubb, Thompson, Horace J.; Tiffany, Todd, Towler, Turner. Voorhesse, Weaver, Whittingham, Williams, Wilson, Henry J.; Yates, Youngson, Zerbe, Farr (speaker)—total, 85.

George Jenks, Democrat—Anderson, Boyle, Brooks, Brown, Francis E.; Brown, Thomas; Barnet, Castner, Chrisman, Constein, Craig, Cressy, Christie, Cutshall, Dayarnon, Dixon, Doty, Drase, Dumbauld, Engler, Fay, Fisher, Foster, Gow, Grover, Guenther, Haag, Hasson, Heil, Hersch, Hock, Hoy, Johnson, Kayler, Keegan, Kessler, Kramlich, Larzelore, Ling, McAndrews, Macomber, Maloney, Manning, Miller, B. WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The president announced to the cabinet that he had decided to order a courtmartial to try Commissary General Eagan for the abusive and violent language he had used respecting Major General Nelson A. Miles while on the witness stand before the war investigating commission last Thursday.

Before the cabinet session he held a conference with the secretary of war and Adjutant General Corbin. It was not long in duration, but the action to follow General Eagan's utterances was decided and when the cabinet met the president announced that he had reached his decision in the matter. He said he had determined that there was only one course to adopt and that was to order a courtmartial to be convened at once to try General Eagan. The decision met the unanimous approval of the members of the cabinet. Three of the president's official advisers, Secretary Alger, Secretary Wilson and Postmaster General Emory Smith, were absent, but in each instance their views are known to coincide thoroughly with the president's decision.

The mention of General Merritt's name as probable president of the court was due to the fact that he is the only available major general of the regular army, the others being General Brooke in Cuba and General Miles here, neither regarded as available. The friends of General Merritt are hoping that he will not be elected, fearing that he will be accused of prejudice by one or perhaps both sides. The penalty for the offense with which General Eagan probably will be tried, conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman, is one of the most severe known in the army, being dismissal.

Prior to the cabinet meeting General Miles made a rather unusual call upon two members of the cabinet, Secretaries Hay and Long. He had just returned to the city from New York and when spoken to with reference to the Eagan case adhered to his original declaration that this was not a time for him to act, if at all, leaving the implication that if the commission did not act, or the administration, it would then be time for him to take some step.

The commissary general, prior to the cabinet meeting, said that he was prepared to accept loyally whatever action the president might decide to take.

Secretary Alger confirmed the announcement made by members of the cabinet that a courtmartial for the trial of Commissary General Charles P. Eagan would be ordered.

He made this statement as he was leaving the White House, with Adjutant General Corbin, after a conference of half an hour with the president. As to the charges to be preferred against the commissary general, the secretary declined to say anything nor would he talk respecting the personnel of the court, adding that this would be announced tonight about 9 o'clock. General Eagan has not yet been relieved of his duties in anticipation of his prospective trial, but it is understood that the order for his arrest preparatory to trial will of itself carry with it his relief from official duties. It was said at the war department that the order for arrest may be served on General Eagan by an officer of the army some time during the official day today.

QUIET IN PHILIPPINES.

General Otis Cabled Good News—McKinley's Commission Named.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Advices were received from Manila that the situation on the islands is very quiet.

At Iloilo affairs are progressing satisfactorily, and a gratifying fact reported in the cablegram was that the officers aboard our ships and the individual insurgents were fraternizing freely on shore, and that there was no sign of trouble.

President McKinley announced during the session that he had finally passed on the personnel of the commission to visit and report on the Philippine islands as follows: Messrs. Schurmann, Dewey, Otis, Denby and Worcester.

New United States Senators.

Weather Forecast.

Western Pennsylvania and Ohio—Threatening, followed by fair; much colder; brisk northerly winds.

OFFERS WERE QUICKLY REFUSED

Some One Was After the Kitchel Property, and a Good Offer Was Made For the Home of Henry C. Deidrick—Another Wanted the Fisher Block.

The parties who are after local real estate continue to select what land they want in the business section and offer large prices, but to the present it has not been learned that any deal of considerable proportions has been made.

From a reliable source it is learned that within a week an offer was made to purchase the residence property of F. D. Kitchel in Fifth street at a price not far from $14,000. The offer was promptly refused. At the same time some one decided he wanted the property owned by Henry C. Deidrick in the same street, and tendered $10,000. This offer too was refused. The last of the list is the Fisher block for which $26,000 was offered, but the deal was not consummated, as it is understood it is not in the market.

The names of the parties who are back of this movement cannot be learned, further than that they are local capitalists who have idle money and desire to put it in real estate.

On the River.

Some rain fell in the upper valleys last night, and this will cause the river to remain at a good stage for some days. Much colder weather than that of today is predicted, and it is difficult to tell just what effect this will have on the river. The boats on their way up are making fast trips in order that they may turn south on the present rise with tows.

The coal fleet commenced to pass this morning, and during the day the following boats went south: Mariner, Tom Lysle, Dave Wood, Fallie, Relief and Tom Reese.

Pleasant Events.

Prominent among the most pleasant events of the social season was the fancy work party given by Mrs. E. H. Sebring at her home in Sixth street yesterday afternoon. Almost 40 young ladies were present, and amusements other than that announced added materially to the pleasure of the occasion. A dainty lunch was served.

Mrs. Healy entertained a number of ladies in East End yesterday afternoon, and Mr. and Mrs. Healy had as their guests a large number of young people last evening. Whist served to pass the time pleasantly, the party being brought to the city after midnight by special car.

BABOON ON A MAD DRUNK.

Omaha Stage Wrecked, and Employees Flee For Their Lives.

People in the Creighton theater were treated to the spectacle of a big baboon in a drunken frenzy the other day. He was at liberty for 20 minutes, and during that time caused more damage about the arcade of the building and on the stage of the theater than three men could in that time. Three long pier mirrors in as many dressing rooms were broken by the beast. These mirrors were the objects of his special fury.

The baboon belonged to a performing troupe of dogs and monkeys. He is usually chained in a dressing room by himself. The other morning, when the stage hands, headed by Stage Manager Stewart, entered the stage they were confronted by the animal, who sprang at them. Not being able to bite, being heavily muzzled, the beast twined his arms about Stewart's legs and threw him down, and then jumped for the next man, Stage Carpenter Landon, but he fled through the door, with the baboon in hot pursuit. Landon dodged him, and the baboon entered the Lewis saloon through an arcade door.

As he jumped on to the bar the bartender fled. A bottle of whisky and two bottles of beer were on the bar. The baboon grasped them and fled into his dressing room. On the way he met Manager Rosenthal, who had come out of his office to see what the trouble was. A bottle of beer shied at Rosenthal's head caused him to run for safety. Instead of getting into his own room the baboon got into Miss Maud Bael Price's room, where he drank a portion of the whisky and threw the bottle through the mirror. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Milton Royle's room and that of Labelle Wilmas were next visited, and both the mirrors were broken and general havoc wrought with clothing and grease paints. The baboon had his own way until Professor Kart, who had been sent for, arrived. The drunken baboon was soon sleeping off his frolic with a towel about his head.—Chicago Record.

NEW FLYING MACHINE MAN.

C. E. Hite Thinks He Has Solved Problem in a Dirigible Balloon.

To a Philadelphian may fall the honor of solving the problem of aerial navigation. Charles E. Hite, a young inventor who has a laboratory in Philadelphia, believes he has even now a dirigible balloon that will travel in the air under perfect control. He says he believes it will revolutionize the methods of warfare and make the navies of the powers to all intents and purposes useless.

More than a year ago Mr. Hite experimented in relation to power applied to a series of disk fans as propellers. Contrary to certain theories and calculations, the efficiency of a fan as a propelling agent he found to be increased by inclosing the fan in the forward end of a tube of about the same length as the diameter, forcing the air backward through the tube.

Dr. W. P. Wilson of the Philadelphia museums, who saw Mr. Hite's experiments, remarked that he could see nothing to prevent the successful working of a practical machine, and he believes Mr. Hite will accomplish valuable results. Mr. Hite has nearly completed a machine of such size that it will carry four or five persons. This is now at his workshop in Trenton. Mr. Hite expects soon to make a trial of his balloon, assisted by Samuel A. King of Philadelphia.—Special New York Press.

FAST TIME BY ST. BERNARDS.

Welsh's Record Trip From Dawson to Skaguay by Dog Team.

The speediest winter trip by dog team from Dawson City to Skaguay has recently been accomplished by W. H. Welsh, who made it in 17 days with three St. Bernards. Some dashes made by this trio of snow racers were as follows: From Five Finger Rapids to Little Salmon, a distance of 50 miles, ten hours; from the foot of Lake La Barge to Canyon hotel, White Horse, 69 miles, 12 hours; from the foot of March lake to Caribou Crossing, 46 miles, one day, although they had to break trail all the way, and over the 30 long miles of Thirty-Mile river, ten hours.

A speed test was made on the ten miles from Lake Bennett to Log Cabin and over the roughest part of the trail. The distance was covered in 1 hour and 55 minutes.—New York Sun.

Skated Down a Cataract.

James Hindmarsh, aged 14 years, of Galt, Ont., had a frightful experience at noon the other day, and his escape from death was marvelous indeed. He was skating across the dam above the falls, with his coat opened as a sail, when he was blown by a strong wind, which sprang up suddenly, clear over the falls, descending in the cold, foaming river. The alarm was at once given, and two lads named Thomas Elliott and John Daniels ran to the water's edge at the upper bridge and, wading in the river up to their shoulders, caught Hindmarsh as he came floating down, half drowned and unconscious. His escape from death was a very close one.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

MILLIONAIRES IN THE SENATE

They Are Not Especially Numerous. Though the Higher Body Is Called Their Club—President's Inquiry Into How the News of Secretary Bliss' Resignation Got Out—Hotel of the Presidents.

The senate is popularly known as "the Millionaires' club," but when one gets down to the point of looking over carefully the list of senators not more than 15 out of the 90 require seven figures to indicate their actual wealth.

John P. Jones of Nevada is perhaps the richest man in the senate. The other millionaires are Hanna of Ohio, Aldrich of Rhode Island, Elkins of West Virginia, Hale of Maine, Wetmore of Rhode Island, Stewart of Nevada, Smith of New Jersey, Sewell of New Jersey, Platt of New York, Perkins of California, McMillan of Michigan, Mitchell of Wisconsin and possibly Fairbanks of Indiana.

A score or more of others are comfortably fixed, at least a dozen counting their earthly possessions up in the hundreds of thousands. But there are more poor men in the senate than rich. It may be that a senate seat is a purchasable commodity, but there are a number of men in the senate who if informed that the capitol were to be sold at auction couldn't hear the bell ring.

The president would like to know how the news of Secretary Bliss' retirement from the cabinet became public at the time it did. He had hoped to keep the matter quiet until a successor to the present secretary was found and so informed his cabinet family when Mr. Bliss' positive wish was made known. For at least a week after the resignation was handed in the secret was kept.

The day before the news of the resignation leaked out a correspondent, who had a private tip on the matter, asked a cabinet officer as to its authenticity. So careful was he to guard the secret well that he poohpoohed the suggestion and talked about the rumor in a humorous strain.

The following day the president and his cabinet started on their southern tour. When they awoke the next morning and the Atlanta papers were brought into the car, it was found that the fact that Mr. Bliss had asked leave to retire had been published. The president was among the first to see it. Members of the cabinet were seated around him, reading the news, when the president removed his glasses, and, looking around the car, said: "It's out. The newspapers have got on to Bliss' resignation." Then he squared himself in his chair, and, pointing his glasses at Secretary Gage, said jokingly:

"Speak up, Gage. What do you know about this?" The laugh went around, and the cabinet ministers all assured the president humorously that they had not "leaked." The president pointed to each man and asked for an explanation, but he was not enlightened. That put the laugh on the president, who was told that it would be impossible to keep such an important bit of news from the press.

In all the large cities of the country where a political pot boils the year round there is always some one hotel or barroom or clubhouse where politicians congregate. In New York, for instance, the Fifth Avenue hotel is known as political headquarters for the Republicans, while the Hoffman House is the meeting place of Democrats.

The Jefferson in Richmond, the Tremont in Boston, the Great Northern in Chicago, the Southern in St. Louis, the Brown Palace in Denver, the St. Charles in New Orleans, the Palace in San Francisco, the Portland in Portland, Or.; the Kimball in Atlanta, the Norris in Birmingham, Ryan's in St. Paul, the Burnett in Cincinnati, the Reed House in Chattanooga, the Peabody in Memphis, the Walton in Philadelphia, the Plankinton in Milwaukee—these are but a few of the most prominent hotels in the United States where a political atmosphere prevails.

The most noted political hotel in the country, apart from the old Fifth Avenue, is perhaps the Arlington, in Washington. For more than a quarter of a century this hotel has been famous throughout the country as the rendezvous of politicians, senators and representatives. It is known as the presidents' hotel, because every president in the past 20 years, save McKinley, has lived there during the three or four days prior to inauguration.

The lobby of the Arlington is always crowded after nightfall with legislators and camp followers of congress. A half dozen senators—Platt of Connecticut, Platt of New York, Smith of New Jersey, Aldrich of Rhode Island, Simon of Oregon and Wilson of Washington—live there, while a dozen or more representatives make this hotel their home during the sessions of congress.—Special New York World.

Some rain fell in the upper valleys last night, and this will cause the river to remain at a good stage for some days. Much colder weather than that of today is predicted, and it is difficult to tell just what effect this will have on the river. The boats on their way up are making fast trips in order that they may turn south on the present rise with tows.

The marks at the wharf this morning registered 21 feet and stationary.

Pleasant Events.

Prominent among the most pleasant events of the social season was the fancy work party given by Mrs. E. H. Sebring at her home in Sixth street yesterday afternoon. Almost 40 young ladies were present, and amusements other than that announced added materially to the pleasure of the occasion. A dainty lunch was served.

Mrs. Healy entertained a number of ladies in East End yesterday afternoon, and Mr. and Mrs. Healy had as their guests a large number of young people last evening. Whist served to pass the time pleasantly, the party being brought to the city after midnight by special car.

BABOON ON A MAD DRUNK.

Omaha Stage Wrecked, and Employees Flew For Their Lives.

People in the Creighton theater were treated to the spectacle of a big baboon in a drunken frenzy the other day. He was at liberty for 20 minutes, and during that time caused more damage about the arcade of the building and on the stage of the theater than three men could in that time. Three long pier mirrors in as many dressing rooms were broken by the beast. These mirrors were the objects of his special fury.

The baboon belonged to a performing troupe of dogs and monkeys. He is usually chained in a dressing room by himself. The other morning, when the stage hands, headed by Stage Manager Stewart, entered the stage they were confronted by the animal, who sprang at them. Not being able to bite, being heavily muzzled, the beast twined his arms about Stewart's legs and threw him down, and then jumped for the next man, Stage Carpenter Landon, but he fled through the door, with the baboon in hot pursuit. Landon dodged him, and the baboon entered the Lewis saloon through an arcade door.

As he jumped on to the bar the bartender fled. A bottle of whisky and two bottles of beer were on the bar. The baboon grasped them and fled into his dressing room. On the way he met Manager Rosenthal, who had come out of his office to see what the trouble was. A bottle of beer shied at Rosenthal's head caused him to run for safety. Instead of getting into his own room the baboon got into Miss Maud Bael Price's room, where he drank a portion of the whisky and threw the bottle through the mirror. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Milton Royle's room and that of Labelle Wilmas were next visited, and both the mirrors were broken and general havoc wrought with clothing and grease paints. The baboon had his own way until Professor Kart, who had been sent for, arrived. The drunken baboon was soon sleeping off his frolic with a towel about his head.—Chicago Record.

NEW FLYING MACHINE MAN.

C. E. Hite Thinks He Has Solved Problem in a Dirigible Balloon.

To a Philadelphian may fall the honor of solving the problem of aerial navigation. Charles E. Hite, a young inventor who has a laboratory in Philadelphia, believes he has even now a dirigible balloon that will travel in the air under perfect control. He says he believes it will revolutionize the methods of warfare and make the navies of the powers to all intents and purposes useless.

More than a year ago Mr. Hite experimented in relation to power applied to a series of disk fans as propellers. Contrary to certain theories and calculations, the efficiency of a fan as a propelling agent he found to be increased by inclining the fan in the forward end of a tube of about the same length as the diameter, forcing the air backward through the tube.

Dr. W. P. Wilson of the Philadelphia museums, who saw Mr. Hite's experiments, remarked that he could see nothing to prevent the successful working of a practical machine, and he believes Mr. Hite will accomplish valuable results. Mr. Hite has nearly completed a machine of such size that it will carry four or five persons. This is now at his workshop in Trenton. Mr. Hite expects soon to make a trial of his balloon, assisted by Samuel A. King of Philadelphia.—Special New York Press.

FAST TIME BY ST. BERNARDS.

Welsh's Record Trip From Dawson to Skaguay by Dog Team.

The speediest winter trip by dog team from Dawson City to Skaguay has recently been accomplished by W. H. Welsh, who made it in 17 days with three St. Bernards. Some dashes made by this trio of snow racers were as follows: From Five Finger Rapids to Little Salmon, a distance of 50 miles, ten hours; from the foot of Lake La Barge to Canyon hotel, White Horse, 69 miles, 12 hours; from the foot of March lake to Caribou Crossing, 46 miles, one day, although they had to break trail all the way, and over the 30 long miles of Thirty-Mile river, ten hours.

A speed test was made on the ten miles from Lake Bennett to Log Cabin and over the roughest part of the trail. The distance was covered in 1 hour and 55 minutes.—New York Sun.

Skated Down a Cataract.

James Hindmarsh, aged 14 years, of Galt, Ont., had a frightful experience at noon the other day, and his escape from death was marvelous indeed. He was skating across the dam above the falls, with his coat opened as a sail, when he was blown by a strong wind, which sprang up suddenly, clear over the falls, descending in the cold, foaming river. The alarm was at once given, and two lads named Thomas Elliott and John Daniels ran to the water's edge at the upper bridge and, wading in the river up to their shoulders, caught Hindmarsh as he came floating down, half drowned and unconscious. His escape from death was a very close one.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

MILLIONAIRES IN THE SENATE

They Are Not Especially Numerous. Though the Higher Body Is Called Their Club—President's Inquiry Into How the News of Secretary Bliss' Resignation Got Out—Hotel of the Presidents.

The senate is popularly known as "the Millionaires' club," but when one gets down to the point of looking over carefully the list of senators not more than 15 out of the 90 require seven figures to indicate their actual wealth.

John P. Jones of Nevada is perhaps the richest man in the senate. The other millionaires are Hanna of Ohio, Aldrich of Rhode Island, Elkins of West Virginia, Hale of Maine, Wetmore of Rhode Island, Stewart of Nevada, Smith of New Jersey, Sewell of New Jersey, Platt of New York, Perkins of California, McMillan of Michigan, Mitchell of Wisconsin and possibly Fairbanks of Indiana.

A score or more of others are comfortably fixed, at least a dozen counting their earthly possessions up in the hundreds of thousands. But there are more poor men in the senate than rich. It may be that a senate seat is a purchasable commodity, but there are a number of men in the senate who if informed that the capitol were to be sold at auction couldn't hear the bell ring.

The president would like to know how the news of Secretary Bliss' retirement from the cabinet became public at the time it did. He had hoped to keep the matter quiet until a successor to the present secretary was found, and so informed his cabinet family when Mr. Bliss' positive wish was made known. For at least a week after the resignation was handed in the secret was kept.

The day before the news of the resignation leaked out a correspondent, who had a private tip on the matter, asked a cabinet officer as to its authenticity. So careful was he to guard the secret well that he poohpoohed the suggestion and talked about the rumor in a humorous strain.

The following day the president and his cabinet started on their southern tour. When they awoke the next morning and the Atlanta papers were brought into the car, it was found that the fact that Mr. Bliss had asked leave to retire had been published. The president was among the first to see it. Members of the cabinet were seated around him, reading the news, when the president removed his glasses, and, looking around the car, said: "It's out. The newspapers have got on to Bliss' resignation." Then he squared himself in his chair, and, pointing his glasses at Secretary Gage, said jokingly:

"Speak up, Gage. What do you know about this?" The laugh went around, and the cabinet ministers all assured the president humorously that they had not "leaked." The president pointed to each man and asked for an explanation, but he was not enlightened. That put the laugh on the president, who was told that it would be impossible to keep such an important bit of news from the press.

In all the large cities of the country where a political pot boils the year round there is always some one hotel or barroom or clubhouse where politicians congregate. In New York, for instance, the Fifth Avenue hotel is known as political headquarters for the Republicans, while the Hoffman House is the meeting place of Democrats.

The Jefferson in Richmond, the Tremont in Boston, the Great Northern in Chicago, the Southern in St. Louis, the Brown Palace in Denver, the St. Charles in New Orleans, the Palace in San Francisco, the Portland in Portland, Or.; the Kimball in Atlanta, the Norris in Birmingham, Ryan's in St. Paul, the Burnett in Cincinnati, the Reed House in Chattanooga, the Peabody in Memphis, the Walton in Philadelphia, the Plankinton in Milwaukee—these are but a few of the most prominent hotels in the United States where a political atmosphere prevails.

The most voted political hotel in the country, apart from the old Fifth Avenue, is perhaps the Arlington, in Washington. For more than a quarter of a century this hotel has been famous throughout the country as the rendezvous of politicians, senators and representatives. It is known as the presidents' hotel, because every president in the past 20 years, save McKinley, has lived there during the three or four days prior to inauguration.

The lobby of the Arlington is always crowded after nightfall with legislators and camp followers of congress. A half dozen senators—Platt of Connecticut, Platt of New York, Smith of New Jersey, Aldrich of Rhode Island, Simon of Oregon and Wilson of Washington—live there, while a dozen or more representatives make this hotel their home during the sessions of congress.—Special New York World.

Manufacturers Believe Work Will Then Begin.

OLD COMPACT PRICE ADOPTED

Circulars Were Mailed Yesterday Afternoon to All Concerns in the Combination Bearing Instructions Regarding Selling Rate.

The belief is general throughout the city that every pottery will be in operation next Monday.

"Everything points in that direction," said a well informed manufacturer this morning, "and I can see no reason why anyone should be disappointed. No definite instructions have come as yet, but they should not long be delayed. A glance over the situation will show you there is reason for the belief. Appraisements have been made, and, I understand, papers have been sent east covering almost all the potteries, while the others will soon be ready. There will be no start, in my opinion, until the settlement is made. But that should be done in a few days at farthest. Everybody expects it, and would not be surprised to see the order come at any time."

THE OLD LIST

Manufacturers Receive an Order From the Trust.

The managers of all potteries connected with the American Potteries company yesterday evening received an order regarding the future selling price of ware. It was in the form of a circular letter, and was mailed in this place.

The letter provides that ware shall be sold according to the schedule adopted by the White Granite association organized here last January. There are a few changes, but they are unimportant, the object of the management evidently being to stick to the old list as closely as possible.

The announcement at this time of the prices that are to prevail is taken as an indication that the day of starting is not far distant.

Trenton People, Not in the Pottery Deal, Fear Results.

The Crockery Journal seems to reflect upon the intelligence of Trenton when it says:

"The inhabitants of the old town of Trenton who are outside of the pottery deal wag their heads in a doubting way when the subject of trust and syndicate is up for discussion, and many of them have become so pessimistic that they predict the direct disaster to the town, for they argue that many good and useful citizens will find their occupations gone. That is more than probable, for it is within the purpose of the organization to exercise the utmost economy, and to put it bluntly, its executive officers are bound to get rid of every stick of dead wood, whether it is in Trenton or in East Liverpool. The long and short of it is that they must make a profit on $27,000,000 if they are to pay dividends; and if they do it by economical management they will not do much harm to the town in general. A few individuals may have to gaze upon their terminus, but beyond that the change will not be noticeable. If the American Potteries company should employ more people at the bench the change would be for the better."

Sent Out Some Mail.

Yesterday an uptown pottery sent through the postoffice over 1,300 pieces of mail. The majority of the pieces contained two cent stamps, while on many 5 and 10 cent stamps were used. The cost of mailing the matter for this firm for the day was in excess of $100.

Water Twenty Cents a Glass and Other Things in Proportion.

Passengers who have occasion to go to and from Hongkong and Manila are loud in their complaint about the exorbitant charges for the 60 hours' run and the scandalous treatment on board the steamers. In one German steamer, after charging $125 passage on deck, because cabins were not available, they had to pay 20 cents per glass for water. The regular lines have raised their fares to $75, but take such a quantity of passengers in excess of the accommodation that first class passengers are obliged to pay an extra $30 for one of the officers' cabins or else go down into the hold, where canvas screens have been erected to give the place an appearance of a cabin. Servants are charged $20, children under 12 years $40.

A family who went from Singapore to Hongkong by one of the mail lines paid in all $900 for their passage. The same family from Hongkong to Manila paid $1,215, with cabins for the ladies and children only! Passengers bound from Hongkong for Manila would do well to have a proper understanding with the Hongkong agents before embarking, or they may become victims of these agents' informality.—Hong Kong Cor. BELASCO'S NEW PLAY.

"Zaza" a Drama of Tremendous Human Power.

DARING THEATRICAL REALISM.

The Play Is Adapted From the French of Berton and Simon—Mrs. Leslie Carter Achieves a Veritable Triumph in the Title Role—Story of the Play.

In "Zaza," as bold and daring a play as the metropolitan boards have harbored in many a day, but a drama of tremendous human power, Mrs. Leslie Carter at the Garrick theater in New York the other night achieved a veritable dramatic triumph. It is no superfluous praise to say that Bernhardt herself could not have surpassed the stupendous effect which Mrs. Carter created at the close of the fourth act. The audience applauded and cheered her until the curtain had been raised and lowered a dozen times. Belasco, who adapted the play from the French of Berton and Simon, made a speech in which he extolled the grit and determination of his pupil, and the star herself murmured a few words of grateful thanks.

"Zaza," like "Camille," has a coquette for its heroine. Her social status, however, is lower than that of the Dame aux Camelias. She is a chanteuse eccentric in a provincial music hall. Coarse, vulgar, seductive, imperious and violent tempered, she is withal generous and kind to those in need of sympathy and help.

The first act takes place upon the stage of the theater. On the left is the star's dressing room. The mysteries of the stage are exploited, and with almost brutal frankness the laxities of professional life, Gallic at least, are openly revealed. The realism here is daring. The manner in which it is worked out technically is marvelous in its detail.

To Zaza is introduced a Bernard Dufrene. He is a man of 38, a typical Frenchman. Zaza with her composer makes a bet that she will force him to take her out to supper. Beneath her seductive blandishments the weak man yields, and when the curtain next goes up on the couple at St. Etienne Zaza for six weeks has for the first time realized true happiness. She loves and is beloved. But the happiness is short lived. When her lover departs, she hears that he is a married man. For herself she will learn the truth, and to Paris she goes, jealous and vindictive, to revenge herself upon the wife. There shall be a scene, she promises the friend who accompanies her, but her wild rage melts away when instead of the wife she meets—his child. There is some good left in Zaza, and the innocent prattle touches the heart of the woman of the gutter, and she silently withdraws.

Back to the little house at St. Etienne the scene next shifts. Broken hearted at her lover's perfidy she returns. She will give him up. No; she will look upon what she has learned as a dream. With comforting sophistry she persuades herself that that is the best course for all concerned. Dufrene comes back. Why did he not tell her he was married? He excuses himself. He never dreamed of the relations they were to enter upon when he met her for the first time. It was his fault. But who could withstand her charm and smile?

She mentions his wife and the daughter Toto. When he learns that she has dared to enter his home, he upbraids her with a violence almost personal. Jealous and mad with rage, she retorts. In the interchange of recrimination Zaza realizes her true position. Real love for her there was none. She was his plaything, now despised, and with a sweep of passion, volcanic in force, she drives him from the house. In the final act Zaza has become a successful star. Paris is at her feet. Again Dufrene crosses her path and urges her to elope with him. "Let us become again what we were to each other," he says. "No," she replies. "Kiss Toto for me. We part forever."

"Zaza" will hereafter take its place in the theatrical repertory as one of the great test parts. It is a creation as complete in its depth, variety, power, humor and emotional force as "Camille" and "Frou-Frou" combined. What Mrs. Carter did with this exacting role is to say that she realized its every subtle point and meaning. Here is an impersonation that will rank with Bernhardt's Marguerite Gautier or Duse's rendering of Cesarine in "La Femme de Claude."

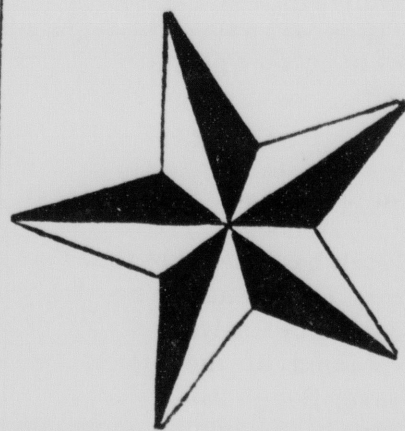

"Zaza" is the dramatic sensation of the season.—New York World.

To Uncle Sam.

"We're gloomy o'er your future," Says the European state. "In fact, we have been gloomy Ever since you have been great. We have offered, very kindly, Our advice, which went astray, For you won't consent to run things In our dear, old fashioned way."

"You have broken quite abruptly From this long respected crowd, And you've prospered so completely We're afraid you may grow proud, And that's the explanation Of the way we plead and fret. The more you are successful, Why, the gloomier we get."

BELASCO'S NEW PLAY.

"Zaza" a Drama of Tremendous Human Power.

DARING THEATRICAL REALISM.

The Play Is Adapted From the French of Berton and Simon—Mrs. Leslie Carter Achieves a Veritable Triumph in the Title Role—Story of the Play.

In "Zaza," as bold and daring a play as the metropolitan boards have harbored in many a day, but a drama of tremendous human power, Mrs. Leslie Carter at the Garrick theater in New York the other night achieved a veritable dramatic triumph. It is no superfluous praise to say that Bernhardt herself could not have surpassed the stupendous effect which Mrs. Carter created at the close of the fourth act. The audience applauded and cheered her until the curtain had been raised and lowered a dozen times. Belasco, who adapted the play from the French of Berton and Simon, made a speech in which he extolled the grit and determination of his pupil, and the star herself murmured a few words of grateful thanks.

"Zaza," like "Camille," has a cote for its heroine. Her social status, however, is lower than that of the Dame aux Camelias. She is a chanteuse eccentric in a provincial music hall. Coarse, vulgar, seductive, imperious and violent tempered, she is withal generous and kind to those in need of sympathy and help.

The first act takes place upon the stage of the theater. On the left is the star's dressing room. The mysteries of the stage are exploited, and with almost brutal frankness the laxities of professional life, Gallic at least, are openly revealed. The realism here is daring. The manner in which it is worked out technically is marvelous in its detail.

To Zaza is introduced a Bernard Dufrene. He is a man of 38, a typical Frenchman. Zaza with her composer makes a bet that she will force him to take her out to supper. Beneath her seductive blandishments the weak man yields, and when the curtain next goes up on the couple at St. Etienne Zaza for six weeks has for the first time realized true happiness. She loves and is beloved. But the happiness is short lived. When her lover departs, she hears that he is a married man. For herself she will learn the truth, and to Paris she goes, jealous and vindictive, to revenge herself upon the wife. There shall be a scene, she promises the friend who accompanies her, but her wild rage melts away when instead of the wife she meets—his child. There is some good left in Zaza, and the innocent prattle touches the heart of the woman of the gutter, and she silently withdraws.

Back to the little house at St. Etienne the scene next shifts. Broken hearted at her lover's perfidy she returns. She will give him up. No; she will look upon what she has learned as a dream. With comforting sophistry she persuades herself that that is the best course for all concerned. Dufrene comes back. Why did he not tell her he was married? He excuses himself. He never dreamed of the relations they were to enter upon when he met her for the first time. It was his fault. But who could withstand her charm and smile?

She mentions his wife and the daughter Toto. When he learns that she has dared to enter his home, he upbraids her with a violence almost personal. Jealous and mad with rage, she retorts. In the interchange of recrimination Zaza realizes her true position. Real love for her there was none. She was his plaything, now despised, and with a sweep of passion, volcanic in force, she drives him from the house. In the final act Zaza has become a successful star. Paris is at her feet. Again Dufrene crosses her path and urges her to elope with him. "Let us become again what we were to each other," he says. "No," she replies. "Kiss Toto for me. We part forever."

"Zaza" will hereafter take its place in the theatrical repertory as one of the great test parts. It is a creation as complete in its depth, variety, power, humor and emotional force as "Camille" and "Frou-Frou" combined. What Mrs. Carter did with this exacting role is to say that she realized its every subtle point and meaning. Here is an impersonation that will rank with Bernhardt's Marguerite Gautier or Duse's rendering of Cesarine in "La Femme de Claude."

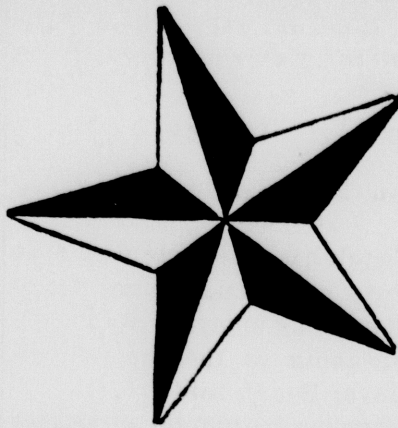

"Zaza" is the dramatic sensation of the season.—New York World.

IT'S NEXT MONDAY NOW

Manufacturers Believe Work Will Then Begin.

OLD COMPACT PRICE ADOPTED

Circulars Were Mailed Yesterday Afternoon to All Concerns in the Combination Bearing Instructions Regarding Selling Rate.

The belief is general throughout the city that every pottery will be in operation next Monday.

"Everything points in that direction," said a well informed manufacturer this morning, "and I can see no reason why anyone should be disappointed. No definite instructions have come as yet, but they should not long be delayed. A glance over the situation will show you there is reason for the belief. Appraisements have been made, and I understand, papers have been sent east covering almost all the potteries, while the others will soon be ready. There will be no start, in my opinion, until the settlement is made. But that should be done in a few days at farthest. Everybody expects it, and would not be surprised to see the order come at any time."

THE OLD LIST

Manufacturers Receive an Order From the Trust.

The managers of all potteries connected with the American Potteries company yesterday evening received an order regarding the future selling price of ware. It was in the form of a circular letter, and was mailed in this place.

The letter provides that ware shall be sold according to the schedule adopted by the White Granite association organized here last January. There are a few changes, but they are unimportant, the object of the management evidently being to stick to the old list as closely as possible.

The announcement at this time of the prices that are to prevail is taken as an indication that the day of starting is not far distant.

STILL AFRAID.

Trenton People, Not in the Pottery Deal, Fear Results.

The Crockery Journal seems to reflect upon the intelligence of Trenton when it says:

"The inhabitants of the old town of Trenton who are outside of the pottery deal wag their heads in a doubting way when the subject of trust and syndicate is up for discussion, and many of them have become so pessimistic that they predict the direct disaster to the town, for they argue that many good and useful citizens will find their occupations gone. That is more than probable, for it is within the purpose of the organization to exercise the utmost economy, and to put it bluntly, its executive officers are bound to get rid of every stick of dead wood, whether it is in Trenton or in East Liverpool. The long and short of it is that they must make a profit on $27,000,000 if they are to pay dividends; and if they do it by economical management they will not do much harm to the town in general. A few individuals may have to gaze upon their terminus, but beyond that the change will not be noticeable. If the American Potteries company should employ more people at the bench the change would be for the better."

IN TWO WEEKS

Secretary Kling Will Be Here to Talk Association Matters.

Secretary Platts today received a letter from State Secretary Kling stating that he would be here Monday, Jan. 30, unless something happened to change his plans.

When the secretary arrives he will hold a conference with the board of trustees and Ladies' auxiliary, and expects to spend a day in the city.

Sent Out Some Mail.

Yesterday an uptown pottery sent through the postoffice over 1,300 pieces of mail. The majority of the pieces contained two cent stamps, while on many 5 and 10 cent stamps were used. The cost of mailing the matter for this firm for the day was in excess of $100.

The Grip Holding On.

A leading physician stated this morning that the grip still had a firm hold on the city, and scores of people were suffering, but he knew of none where the patient was in danger.

—John Shrader, of Chester, was a Pittsburg visitor today.

HIGH TRAVELING PRICES.

Water Twenty Cents a Glass and Other Things in Proportion.

Passengers who have occasion to go to and from Hongkong and Manila are loud in their complaint about the exorbitant charges for the 60 hours' run and the scandalous treatment on board the steamers. In one German steamer, after charging $125 passage on deck, because cabins were not available, they had to pay 20 cents per glass for water. The regular lines have raised their fares to $75, but take such a quantity of passengers in excess of the accommodation that first class passengers are obliged to pay an extra $80 for one of the officers' cabins or else go down into the hold, where canvas screens have been erected to give the place an appearance of a cabin. Servants are charged $20, children under 12 years $40.

A family who went from Singapore to Hongkong by one of the mail lines paid in all $900 for their passage. The same family from Hongkong to Manila paid $1,215, with cabins for the ladies and children only! Passengers bound from Hongkong for Manila would do well to have a proper understanding with the Hongkong agents before embarking, or they may become victims of these agents' informality.—Hongkong Cor. UNION PAPERS.

All Union papers of East Liverpool are known to the various craft and unions of the city by the printing of the above Union Labels at the head of their columns

ANDREW CARNEGIE is keeping strangely silent these days. So much the better for Andrew.

EVIDENCES of prosperity under the Dingley law continue to multiply, and the year is well started with prospects that have never before been equaled. If this is not the banner year in the history of the country, even the calamity criers will be disappointed.

THE establishing of schools in Cuba goes steadily on and a great many American teachers are going to the island. They have a great work to do and under the guiding hand of the government will doubtless accomplish much before the troops are withdrawn—if that time ever comes.

BRYAN is now talking silver in the west. He should come east where the unconverted are said to reside if he believes he can accomplish anything for his cause. A better view, perhaps, is that he will be satisfied to hold old ground rather than attempt failure in more sensible sections of the country.

GENERAL EAGAN cannot complain, it matters not what may be the verdict of the court martial by which he is to be tried. He knows the laws and usages of military sufficient to have realized before he appeared before the commission the result of his highly colored language. He can blame no one but General Eagan.

THE reorganization of the army is a most important matter and one which should not be undertaken unless there is a determination to make it what it ought to be—a perfect military organization and not a political machine. There are few who believe the latter even a possibility, for the thorough American soldier is less politician than anything else. Sometimes he is unfortunate in possessing overzealous friends.

THE REPORT.

The statement is made that President McKinley will soon be in possession of the report of the war commission, and that it will tell the whole truth as near as the members have been able to determine from the vast amount of testimony placed at their disposal.

That is what the public desires. So much has been said and so many names have been involved that millions of American citizens are interested in knowing whether the stories of neglect and incompetency were true, together with the names of the responsible parties. They want no whitewashing, no cutting down of one man's shortcomings in order that they may be placed upon the back of another, perhaps some overloaded officer with a burden already too great to be borne with ease and comfort. Americans are always fair. They have no sympathy with injustice, and when convinced that injury has been done a public official they would see reparation made. The men who comprise the commission are citizens of this class, selected as much for that quality as for their knowledge of military affairs. It is therefore but reasonable to believe they will place the blame where it belongs, and show to the world what officers of the American army can be trusted and what dangers are to be avoided in time of war. Their duty was made to them very plain.

MUST WORK.

Tramps Can no Longer Live Here in Idleness.

Mayor Bough has been notified that in the future all tramps who desire work can have it by applying at his office. In speaking of the matter this morning Mayor Bough said:

"There have been a number of tramps sheltered in jail recently, and they were turned out the following morning. They are very numerous about the city, and seldom does a night pass but what a number of them are given lodging. When an officer asks them where they are going they say to Pittsburg, Washington or some other eastern city in search of work. They all claim they came from the west and were unable to secure work in any of the towns they have visited. In the future these men will be put to work on the streets and a man has been secured to keep their time, and they will have steady work all year. If there had been a stone pile in the city these men would be placed at work there, but on the streets the men will benefit the town more."

No one was given lodging last night, but as the weather is becoming colder it is probable several will be given work within a short time.

FRIENDS SURPRISED.

Solicitor M. J. McGarry and Mrs. Clara B. Hamerickhouse Married.

M. J. McGarry and Mrs. Clara B. Hamerickhouse left the city this morning on the 8 o'clock train for the east, and when they return in a few days they will have been married. They will be at home to their friends after Tuesday, Jan. 24.

Mr. McGarry is the well known attorney, at present city solicitor, and his bride is well and popularly known in society. While their marriage comes as a surprise to many of their friends, the congratulations they will receive will be none the less hearty and sincere.

ABANDONED THE PROJECT.

Baseball Cranks Believed That Spring Had Come.

The warm weather of the last two days caused the ardor of the baseball cranks to blossom forth, and they commenced to talk of holding a meeting to organize for the season of 1899. The cold weather today dampened their spirits and the proposed meeting has been abandoned. It is probable nearly all the players who were members of minor leagues last year and received their release before the season was over will be delegated to stay at home this year, and the city should have a good amateur team.

NO MORE FOOTBALL

Will Be Played by the Rovers Until They Have a Winning Team.

The Rovers have almost decided to play no more association football in the city.

The season was not a success to them financially, and probably never will be until a winning team can be secured. With the loss of Captain Stanway they lose their best player and he was rated one of the best men in the league. They would not have a chance to win any of the remaining games of the schedule, and knowing this the management have about decided to quit.

YOUNG BOY IS MISSING

When Last Seen Was Going Toward Pittsburg.

HIS PARENTS ARE MYSTIFIED

They Cannot Imagine What Would Prompt Him to Leave His Home--Big Crowd Heard Amanda Smith Last Evening--All the News.

The family of Frank Chandler, of West End, are very much exercised over the absence of their 15-year-old son.

A gentleman who knows the boy reports that he saw him yesterday a short distance above Smith's Ferry making his way toward Pittsburg. The cause for the disappearance of the boy is not known as he seemed very well contented at home and evidenced no desire to try his fortunes in new fields. It is expected he will follow the example of all runaway youngsters and return home in a few days.

Kicked the Wrong Boy.

William Carpenter complains to Mayor Dennis that Florence Bisman wilfully laid violent hands on his 9-year-old son. No action has yet been taken.

The cause of the encounter was chalk marks that had been put upon Bisman's coat, in passing a crowd of boys, but Mr. Carpenter says the wrong boy, his son, was seized and made to suffer for the act of another.

To Settle a Question.

The Sorosis Literary society, of Congo, met last night. A large crowd and a full literary program was given.

Arrangements were made for a debate on the subject of "Expansion" for the next meeting which will be in two weeks. A. C. Vandyke and Samuel Thorn, of Wellsville, together with two gentlemen from West Virginia will participate in the debate.

Returned to the Hospital.

Conductor George Packer, who was badly injured while coupling cars at Smith's Ferry recently, returned to the West Penn hospital at Pittsburg yesterday afternoon. He has been spending several days with his family at Wellsville, and the hospital physicians have given out the word his arm can be saved and within a few months will be as firm as before the accident.

Big Crowd Present.

Amanda Smith last evening occupied the pulpit at the Methodist Episcopal church and preached to an enormous crowd, the church being filled to overflowing. She talked on the old style religion and delivered an excellent discourse, pleasing the entire audience. If possible, she will hold another meeting in the church this evening.

Postponed an Entertainment.

High school students have been preparing for an entertainment to be given on Friday next, but finding it impossible to complete arrangements they have postponed the entertainment until the following Friday, when they expect to give one of the best entertainments ever presented in town.

Paid For Being Drunk.

Yesterday afternoon William Black was arrested by Officer Mick in the alley near city hall for being drunk and disorderly. This morning he was brought before Mayor Dennis where he pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $4.60. He paid and received his liberty.

News of Wellsville.

ANDREW CARNEGIE is keeping strangely silent these days. So much the better for Andrew.

EVIDENCES of prosperity under the Dingley law continue to multiply, and the year is well started with prospects that have never before been equaled. If this is not the banner year in the history of the country, even the calamity criers will be disappointed.

THE establishing of schools in Cuba goes steadily on and a great many American teachers are going to the island. They have a great work to do and under the guiding hand of the government will doubtless accomplish much before the troops are withdrawn—if that time ever comes.

BRYAN is now talking silver in the west. He should come east where the unconverted are said to reside if he believes he can accomplish anything for his cause. A better view, perhaps, is that he will be satisfied to hold old ground rather than attempt failure in more sensible sections of the country.

GENERAL EAGAN cannot complain, it matters not what may be the verdict of the court martial by which he is to be tried. He knows the laws and usages of military sufficient to have realized before he appeared before the commission the result of his highly colored language. He can blame no one but General Eagan.

THE reorganization of the army is a most important matter and one which should not be undertaken unless there is a determination to make it what it ought to be—a perfect military organization and not a political machine. There are few who believe the latter even a possibility, for the thorough American soldier is less politician than anything else. Sometimes he is unfortunate in possessing overzealous friends.

THE REPORT.

The statement is made that President McKinley will soon be in possession of the report of the war commission, and that it will tell the whole truth as near as the members have been able to determine from the vast amount of testimony placed at their disposal.

That is what the public desires. So much has been said and so many names have been involved that millions of American citizens are interested in knowing whether the stories of neglect and incompetency were true, together with the names of the responsible parties. They want no whitewashing, no cutting down of one man's shortcomings in order that they may be placed upon the back of another, perhaps some overloaded officer with a burden already too great to be borne with ease and comfort. Americans are always fair. They have no sympathy with injustice, and when convinced that injury has been done a public official they would see reparation made. The men who comprise the commission are citizens of this class, selected as much for that quality as for their knowledge of military affairs. It is therefore but reasonable to believe they will place the blame where it belongs, and show to the world what officers of the American army can be trusted and what dangers are to be avoided in time of war. Their duty was made to them very plain.

MUST WORK.

Tramps Can no Longer Live Here In Idleness.

Mayor Bough has been notified that in the future all tramps who desire work can have it by applying at his office. In speaking of the matter this morning Mayor Bough said:

"There have been a number of tramps sheltered in jail recently, and they were turned out the following morning. They are very numerous about the city, and seldom does a night pass but what a number of them are given lodging. When an officer asks them where they are going they say to Pittsburgh, Washington or some other eastern city in search of work. They all claim they came from the west and were unable to secure work in any of the towns they have visited. In the future these men will be put to work on the streets and a man has been secured to keep their time, and they will have steady work all year. If there had been a stone pile in the city these men would be placed at work there, but on the streets the men will benefit the town more."

No one was given lodging last night, but as the weather is becoming colder it is probable several will be given work within a short time.

MRS. STEWART IS DEAD

She Fell and Was Injured Six Weeks Ago.

HAD LIVED HERE MANY YEARS

The Lady Has Been In a Serious Condition Since the Accident Occurred, but It Was Not Believed Her Life Was In Danger Until Recently.

Mrs. Susan Stewart died last evening at 5:40 o'clock at her home in Sixth street.

About six weeks ago Mrs. Stewart started for church, and in going out of the gate slipped and fell, fracturing her hip. The fracture was reduced and the bone had knit and she would have been able to walk in a few weeks, but owing to her advanced age the strain was too great for her nervous system and she gradually weakened and last evening she passed away.

Mrs. Stewart was 73 years of age, and was born in Madison township, and had been a resident of the county all her life. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Croft, and on December 24, 1850, was united in marriage to W. C. Stewart, her husband dying in 1873. Shortly after their marriage the happy couple took up their residence on the Stewart farm about two miles north of the city where she resided until 1882, when she moved to this city and has since resided here.

Deceased was very well known to many residents of the city and was highly respected by all. She was a member of the First U. P. church and had been an earnest Christian all her life, being prominently identified with all church work that would tend to the upbuilding of the Master's kingdom. No children are left to mourn her loss, but the relatives have the satisfaction of knowing that she has passed into the sunshine of the Master's presence.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock from her late residence, Dr. J. C. Taggart, officiating. Interment will be made at the Calcutta U. P. cemetery. The remains can be viewed this evening from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Many Tramps Are in Town These Days.

An unusually large number of tramps were in town yesterday and today, and several when questioned said they were bound for Pittsburg. One claimed he was a paper maker, and had made his way from Indiana. They were a hard looking lot and the majority seemed like professionals since they begged from house to house as though the occupation was by no means new.

A Strange Tale.

A laughable story is told of a resident of Jefferson street. Yesterday a lady acquaintance was passing the house in question, and noticed what was supposed to be a crepe hanging on the door. Going in the house next door she inquired who had died. The two women then went in the home in question, and upon inquiry found no one dead, but on the front door was hung a pair of her husband's trousers.

Inquiry failed to find the person who placed them there.

PROF. O. S. REED

Has Resigned the Pastorate of the Christian Church.

At a called meeting of the official board of the Christian church, held last night, Prof. O. S. Reed handed in his resignation as pastor, and the same was accepted. The reverend gentleman will remain in East Liverpool for some time, and will preach the dedicatory sermon of the new edifice now being builded by the congregation.

It is not positively known as to the future movements of Rev. Reed, but rumor has it that he may enter the lecture field, while the same authority speaks of him as taking charge of a church in Steubenville.

Professor Reed has a host of friends in our city who will hear with regret of his decision to depart from among us. He is an able and fearless man, doing the right as God gives him to see the right. He has been a power for good in East Liverpool. His record was that of a gallant soldier during the Civil war, and he is fully as fearless in his onslaughts upon sin and evil communications. The News Review, in company with a host of friends, wishes him success wherever he may go.

DROPPED DEAD.

Prominent Resident of St. Clair Township Passed Suddenly Away.

Alexander Calhoun, a well known resident of Calcutta, dropped dead last evening at the home of his nephew, Robert Whitehill.

Deceased was well up in years and has been making his home the last few weeks with his nephew near Calcutta. He has been enjoying good health, and last Wednesday evening attended prayer meeting and lead in prayer. He had been staying with H. V. Meeks over Sunday, and yesterday went to the home of his nephew, Robert Whitehill, who lives about one mile from Calcutta. When he arrived he made no complaint of not feeling well, and in the evening was playing with the children and said he felt cold and pulled his chair closer to the fire. He then threw out his arms and in three minutes was dead. He leaves no children, but has a brother in Texas. The arrangements for the funeral have not been made. The remains will probably be interred in Long's Run cemetery.

The report is one of the most complete that has yet been submitted to the board of education, notwithstanding that the report includes two weeks' vacation.

Lander's Retort at School.

One day in full school Master Lander had an apple of singular size and beauty. He had his Livy in one hand and this apple in the other and read and read and munched and munched till the sound struck the doctor. He espied the delinquent and ordered him to bring that apple to him. He put it on his desk, coram populo, and then, half relenting, said: "There, sir. Now, if you want that again you had better go and sit down and make me a short line on the occasion." "Oh, I can do that and stand here," says Master Lander. "Do it then." The boy thought a moment, and soon obliged him with a pentameter, "Esuriens doctor dulcia poma rapit."

"Hum!" says Dr. James. "And pray, sir, what do you mean by e-su-riens doctor?" "The gormandizing doctor." "Take it, sir. You are too hard for me, you are too hard for me," said the doctor, delighted with his pupil. "Rouse's History of Rugby School."

Steel Balls.

The largest center in the world for the manufacture of steel balls for ball bearings is situated at Schweinfurt, in Bavaria. A couple of factories there, owned by one firm, produce close upon 300,000,000 balls annually with the labor of 600 men working ten hours daily. The total production of Germany is stated to be about 650,000,000, while England and France combined turn out only about 70,000,000 additional.

DECEMBER REPORT IN

Professor Rayman Wound It Up Yesterday.

NOT A DEATH IN THE MONTH

But There Was a Notable Increase in the Number of School Children Who Are Ill. While Truancy Was Marked--Best Report of the Year.

Superintendent R. E. Rayman has completed his statistical report for the month of December. It is as follows:

New enrollment, males, 39, females, 38; entire enrollment, males, 1359, females, 1351; monthly enrollment, males, 1239, females, 1223; re-enrollment No. 1, males, 19, females, 15; re-enrollment No. 2, males, 7, females, 4; average daily attendance, males, 1032, females, 1032; per cent attendance, males, 93, females, 92; promoted, 1. Last month several were promoted. Demoted, none; pupils absent, males, 770, females, 743; pupils withdrawn, males, 51, females, 44; cases of tardiness, males, 168, females, 106; cases of truancy, males 10, females 2; corporal punishment 40; teachers absent 3; visits by patrons, males 25, females 109; visits by board, 3; cases of sickness, males 333, females 313. This report shows an increase of several hundred cases of sickness over the report of last year. Visits by superintendent, 101; deaths, none; roll of honor, males 418, females 451.

Landor's Retort at School.

One day in full school Master Landor had an apple of singular size and beauty. He had his Livy in one hand and this apple in the other and read and read and munched and munched till the sound struck the doctor. He espied the delinquent and ordered him to bring that apple to him. He put it on his desk, coram populo, and then, half relenting, said: "There, sir. Now, if you want that again you had better go and sit down and make me a short line on the occasion." "Oh, I can do that and stand here," says Master Landor. "Do it then." The boy thought a moment, and soon obliged him with a pentameter, "Esuriens doctor dulcia poma rapit."

"Hum!" says Dr. James. "And pray, sir, what do you mean by e-su-riens doctor?" "The gourmandizing doctor." "Take it, sir. You are too hard for me, you are too hard for me," said the doctor, delighted with his pupil. "Rouse's History of Rugby School."

Steel Balls.

The largest center in the world for the manufacture of steel balls for ball bearings is situated at Schweinfurt, in Bavaria. A couple of factories there, owned by one firm, produce close upon 300,000,000 balls annually with the labor of 600 men working ten hours daily. The total production of Germany is stated to be about 650,000,000, while England and France combined turn out only about 70,000,000 additional.

Some Councilmen Will Be on the Ticket Again, But There Promises to Be Contests in the First and Second Wards, Some Other Positions.

The time for holding the spring primaries is not so far away, but candidates are not fast in making their appearance.

There is a councilman to be elected in each ward, as the terms of James Chellis, First ward; W. C. Stewart, Second ward; George Peach, Third ward; George Olmhausen, Fourth ward, expire in April. The gentlemen have been interviewed as to whether they would be candidates for re-election, and with the exception of Mr. Olmhausen, they expressed an opinion that it was too early to discuss the matter. Mr. Olmhausen stated most emphatically that he would not stand for re-election. Numerous candidates have been suggested, and it is probable the fight for councilmen in the First and Second wards will be hotly contested, but there has not as yet been any candidate announced for the Third ward. The retirement of Mr. Olmhausen in the Fourth ward will no doubt bring forth numerous candidates from the second precinct of that ward and a vigorous campaign can be expected.

There is also a constable to be elected, and the first candidate to announce himself is Leo Golden, who was a candidate three years ago. There will no doubt be the usual large number of applicants for this office, and it will probably be the only canvass in which a great deal of interest is taken. The other office to be filled is that of justice of the peace.

The time for holding the primaries has not yet been set, but will probably take place Saturday, March 18.

AT EAST END

The Appraisers Looked Carefully Over the Plant.

George C. Murphy, William Cartwright and Mr. Kleber have completed the inspection of the East End pottery, checking the inventory made a few days ago.

The work of going over the potteries is rapidly drawing to a close, but much of the clerical work remains to be done. The force at the Thompson House are hard at it until a late hour every night, and the end is not yet in sight. A great many papers have been forwarded to New York, and a number are still unfinished.

Packing is going on in almost all the potteries, and a large number of decorators are employed, but the clay departments are still shut down.

Association News.

The Young Men's Christian Association glee club met last evening and held a rehearsal.

The religious work committee will meet this evening at 9 o'clock.

A new clock has been placed in the office and the old one now occupies a place on the wall in the gymnasium.

Attended a Funeral.

Baggage-master George B. Smith, of the passenger station, left at midnight for Salineville, where he today attended the funeral of his uncle, Peter Smith, who died at his home near that place Monday. He will return to the city this evening.

Observing an Anniversary.

Next Sunday at St. Stephen's Episcopal church the first anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. Edwin Weary will be observed. A lengthy program for the occasion is being prepared which will also include special music.

River Man Very Ill.

Charles Laughlin, of Georgetown, chief steward of the towboat Fred Wilson, is seriously ill at his home suffering with pneumonia. His condition is considered critical.

A Disputed Hero.

"I suppose that Whittier is a great hero in your community," said a Detroit to a friend from one of the interior towns.

"Oh, I don't know!" "Don't know? Why, man, his bravery was remarkable! I read all about it in the papers. When his store was on fire, he rushed to the scene, disregarded the warnings shouted to him, pushed his way through the blinding smoke and seething flames and dropping firebrands to his office, dropped on his knees in the live coals before the safe, worked the hot knob until the combination caused the glowing doors to open, seized a valuable paper, rammed it beneath his vest to protect it from the raging element and staggered forth again from the consuming caldron. It was one of the most thrilling acts of bravery I ever heard of."

"Do you happen to know what that paper was for which Whittier risked his life?"

"No, but it must have been a very important document. No man would incur such danger without his very fortune was at stake."

"You'd think so, wouldn't you? Well, sir, that paper was the pedigree of Whittier's trotting horse that never beat 2:28 and never will."—Detroit Free Press.

Hope of a Disturbance.

He had been tossed about uncomfortably for 30 years. He had agitated, contemplative, book reading disposition, was fond of pretty things, good manners and repose. But he had had to work hard at things which ruffled his spirit. "Intolerable" was the word most frequently on his lips. But now he has an easy, salaried position, congenial work, and for the time is comfortable.

The other evening he sat in his cheerful apartment, with a warm dressing gown about him, and talked to a friend about how the troubles of life had fallen away from him, how at last he had arrived in the haven. His friend told him that he was just in the condition to experience a new disturbance, deeper than all the others; that this rest was only a lull in the storm.

"What do you mean?" he asked.

The reply was a counter question.

"Are you as much resolved as ever to live alone?" this friend asked.

There was a pause. Then the contemplative man said slowly, "As an abstract proposition marriage doesn't seem as disagreeable to me as it did."

His friend smiled. "You will find that you will be deeply disturbed again before very long," he said.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Convictions, Indeed!

"What a whip likes," says Mr. Labouchere in London Truth, "is a sheep that never opens its mouth and which submissively goes into the pen to which the whip's finger points. Years ago I remember once voting on some very trifling issue against Liberal officialdom. The next time I met the chief whip he glared at me as though I were a monster of iniquity and asked me whether I could give any explanation of my conduct."

"I modestly replied that I had thought that the other side was right. He almost had a fit and gobbled at me like an irate turkey. I asked him whether I was to vote against my own convictions. 'D—n your convictions!' he said. 'A pretty pass things are coming to when one of our lot talks about convictions!'"

Not So Bad.

Brown lived between Gray and Green. Green was as quiet a neighbor as you could wish to have, and so was Gray, for that matter, but he had a barking dog that was the torment of Brown's life. One day in his desperation he told Gray that if he would get rid of the dog he would give him $5.

"All right," said Gray. "I'll do it." Meeting Gray down town that afternoon Brown asked, "Have you done what you agreed to do and got rid of that dog?"

Gray—Yes, I've got rid of him.

Brown—Thank goodness! Now I shall sleep nights. By the way, what did you do with him?

Gray—I sold him to Green. He gave me $3 for him. Not so bad, eh?—Boston Transcript.

He Never Complained.

"I never complained," once said Sa'di, the poet, "of my condition but on a single occasion, when my feet were bare and I had not money to buy shoes, but I saw a man without feet and became instantly contented with my lot."

Being asked from whom he learned his philosophy, Sa'di replied, "From the blind, because they never advance a step until they have tried the ground."

"They asked me," Sa'di writes in the Gulistan, "Of whom didst thou learn manners?" I replied: 'From the unmannerly. Whatever I saw them do which I disapproved of, that I abstained from doing.'"

Scotland's Strange Birds.

From the small island of St. Kilda, off Scotland, 20,000 young gannets and an immense number of eggs are annually collected, and although this bird lays only one egg per annum and is four years in obtaining its maturity its numbers do not diminish. Obviously such birds must reach a great age, or they would long ago have been exterminated.

NEW PERIL TO EYESIGHT

Hot Towels In Barber Shops Breed Microbes.

REFUSE THE FACE TURKISH BATH.

Prominent Young St. Louis Lawyer's Narrow Escape From Blindness. Physicians Sound a Warning Cry Against a Recent Western Innovation Which Has Proved Dangerous.

It behooveth men who get shaved in public places to write down a new "don't" in their "don't books" if they wish to reserve their eyesight. A fresh microbe is abroad in the land. He lives in the towels which some barbers lay across the eyes of the men who get shaved in public places.

He is a hardy microbe, who is not inconvenienced by hot water. He transplants himself from the towel to the eyes of man and sets up a terrible state of things in quick order.

Within the past few weeks many men in St. Louis have come to oculists with eyes in which a virulent irritation had been set up. When they were questioned, all of them said they had been patronizing barber shops where the custom obtains of giving the upper part of the face a sort of Turkish bath by means of a towel which has been dipped in hot water.

The condition was almost identical in each case, an infection so pronounced that a film began forming over the pupil and pus was exuded, and the destruction of the sight was imminent.

There is now at the Baptist sanitarium a young lawyer and politician from the east who came perhaps nearer than anybody else to losing his eyesight. The young man has been passing the holidays in St. Louis visiting friends. The other day his right eye began troubling him. He supposed something had lodged in it which would wash out and the inflammation would subside.

But the irritation became more intense as the day passed. He had engaged to accompany a young lady to the Philharmonic Symphony society concert in the evening. In spite of the severest suffering he called at her home to keep the engagement.

The young lady suggested that he go to see a doctor whose residence was next door. He did so, and the doctor examined the eye carefully. "There is no foreign substance in your eye," he said. "It has become infected in some manner. I advise that you consult a specialist without delay."

Instead of going with him to the concert the young lady accompanied him to the office of a well known oculist near Beaumont street and Washington avenue. The specialist said: "You are in great danger of losing your eyesight. Prompt and thorough treatment is necessary to save it. An operation may be necessary. You will have to go immediately to the Baptist sanitarium."

The doctor dismissed his other patients, and entering the carriage in which the young man had come accompanied him to the sanitarium. It was a bit unusual for a man to go to a hospital in evening dress and high hat, but his sight was more precious to him than a precise regard for the fitness of raiment.

An operation was not necessary, but the use of the knife could not have inflicted more acute pain. The eyeball was swabbed and scraped and cleansed and packed and the young man says, with a shudder, he thinks it was sandpapered and chiseled. The left eye was subjected to like heroic treatment as a precautionary measure, and for 24 hours the young man was in anxious, bandaged darkness.

When the bandages were removed by the surgeon, a hopeful exclamation escaped him. He feels confident now there will be no ill effects, but if surgical interposition had been delayed a few hours longer the sight of one and possibly both eyes would have been destroyed.

The towel microbe has also been at work in Chicago. A few days ago a gentleman was asked in one of the swell shops in St. Louis if he would have a hot towel over his eyes. "Not for anything," he said. "I was blind three months in Chicago as a result of the application of a hot towel to my eyes."

The use of a hot, damp towel seems to be a western innovation. It is not used in eastern barber shops. The young man at the Baptist sanitarium is well known in St. Louis. He withheld permission to use his name because he feared his parents would be unduly alarmed.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Law Against "Hoochinoo."

The name of firewater in Alaska is "hoochinoo," and the other day the house gave its official sanction to the word by enacting that no whisky, beer or "hoochinoo" shall be sold in Alaska. The word indicates a place infested with bears, "hoo" meaning bear and "chinoo" home. When the United States laws established prohibition for Alaska, the natives of that territory began furnishing a mixture of rum and molasses, which has gradually taken the name of "hoochinoo." This is the first legal recognition of the word, and congress is ahead of the dictionary makers.—New York World.

THE NEWS REVIEW

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others? The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours, and union labor employed.

PATRONIZE UNION CLERKS.

All members of the R. C. N. P. A. can show this card. Ask for it when making your purchases. Endorsed by the A. F. of L.

ONE-THIRD ACTUAL SIZE. COLOR IS CHANGED EACH QUARTER. Good only during months named in label and when properly signed, and STAMPED with number of the label.

UNION MADE BOOTS AND SHOES.

The Boot and Shoe Workers' union is the national head of the trade, and is a new combination of all the branches of boot and shoe workers. The above trade-mark when found on the sole or lining of a boot or shoe, is a guarantee that the same is made by union labor. Look for the above design stamped on the sole of every pair of boots or shoes you buy.

The Journeymen Tailors' Label is to be found in the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the under side of the back strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants. It is printed in black ink on white linen.

UNION MADE HATS.

This Label is about an inch and a half square, and is printed on buff-colored paper. It is placed on every union made hat before it leaves the workman's hands. If a dealer takes a label from one hat and places it in another, or has any detached labels in his store, do not buy from him, as his labels may be counterfeit, and his hats may be the product of scab or non-union labor.

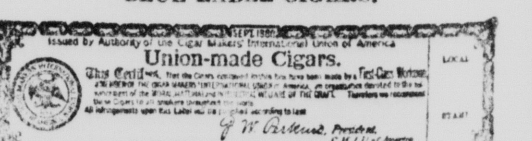

UNION MADE CLOTHES.

You will find the linen label attached by machine stitching to the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the inside of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants.

BICYCLE LABEL

"Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you." You will endorse the "Golden Rule" by buying and riding bicycles bearing this Label. The colors are as follows: The Union shield is in red, white and blue, on a background of pea green, bordered by gold. The Label will be placed on the upper front side of the tube that receives the seat post.

BLUE LABEL CIGARS.

This label is printed in black ink on light blue paper, and is pasted on the cigar-box. Don't mix it up with the U. S. revenue label on the box, as the latter is nearly of a similar color.

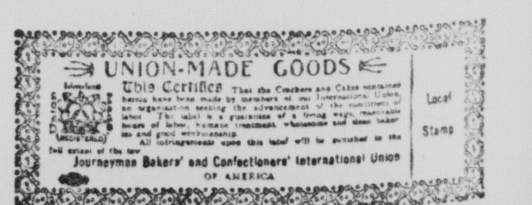

The above Label, printed on blue paper, will be found on all plug tobacco and on the wrappers of chewing tobacco manufactured in union tobacco factories.

UNION BREAD AND CRACKERS

This is a full size facsimile of the Label of the Bakers' and Confectioners' union. It is printed on fine white paper and is pasted on each loaf of union-made bread. It is a guarantee that the bread is made under fair and wholesome conditions.

and in clean and healthy bakeries. Following is the confectioners' and cracker Label:

DO NOT SEEM VERY ANXIOUS

Some Councilmen Will Be on the Ticket Again, But There Promises to Be Contests in the First and Second Wards, Some Other Positions.

The time for holding the spring primaries is not so far away, but candidates are not fast in making their appearance.

There is a councilman to be elected in each ward, as the terms of James O'hallie, First ward; W. O. Stewart, Second ward; George Peach, Third ward; George Olnhausen, Fourth ward, expire in April. The gentlemen have been interviewed as to whether they would be candidates for re-election, and with the exception of Mr. Olnhausen, they expressed an opinion that it was too early to discuss the matter. Mr. Olnhausen stated most emphatically that he would not stand for re-election. Numerous candidates have been suggested, and it is probable the fight for councilmen in the First and Second wards will be hotly contested, but there has not as yet been any candidate announced for the Third ward. The retirement of Mr. Olnhausen in the Fourth ward will no doubt bring forth numerous candidates from the second precinct of that ward and a vigorous campaign can be expected.

There is also a constable to be elected, and the first candidate to announce himself is Leo Golden, who was a candidate three years ago. There will no doubt be the usual large number of applicants for this office, and it will probably be the only canvass in which a great deal of interest is taken. The other office to be filled is that of justice of the peace.

The time for holding the primaries has not yet been set, but will probably take place Saturday, March 18.

AT EAST END

The Appraisers Looked Carefully Over the Plant.

George C. Murphy, William Cartwright and Mr. Kleber have completed the inspection of the East End pottery, checking the inventory made a few days ago.

The work of going over the potteries is rapidly drawing to a close, but much of the clerical work remains to be done. The force at the Thompson House are hard at it until a late hour every night, and the end is not yet in sight. A great many papers have been forwarded to New York, and a number are still unfinished.

Packing is going on in almost all the potteries, and a large number of decorators are employed, but the clay departments are still shut down.

Association News.

The Young Men's Christian Association glee club met last evening and held a rehearsal.

The religious work committee will meet this evening at 9 o'clock.

A new clock has been placed in the office and the old one now occupies a place on the wall in the gymnasium.

Attended a Funeral.

Baggage-master George B. Smith, of the passenger station, left at midnight for Salineville, where he today attended the funeral of his uncle, Peter Smith, who died at his home near that place Monday. He will return to the city this evening.

Observing an Anniversary.

Next Sunday at St. Stephen's Episcopal church the first anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. Edwin Weary will be observed. A lengthy program for the occasion is being prepared which will also include special music.

River Man Very Ill.

Took Her Daughter to Columbus.

Mrs. J. W. Hunter left this morning for Columbus where she went for the purpose of placing her daughter in the Blind asylum. The child has been in the city since Christmas.

Soldier Passed Through.

Oscar Otto, a private in the regular army stationed in Porto Rico, passed through the city last evening going to his home in Toronto. He is home on a furlough.

A Disputed Hero.

"I suppose that Whitem is a great hero in your community," said a Detroit to a friend from one of the interior towns.

"Oh, I don't know!" "Don't know? Why, man, his bravery was remarkable! I read all about it in the papers. When his store was on fire, he rushed to the scene, disregarded the warnings shouted to him, pushed his way through the blinding smoke and seething flames and dropping firebrands to his office, dropped on his knees in the live coals before the safe, worked the hot knob until the combination caused the glowing doors to open, seized a valuable paper, rammed it beneath his vest to protect it from the raging element and staggered forth again from the consuming caldron. It was one of the most thrilling acts of bravery I ever heard of."

"Do you happen to know what that paper was for which Whitem risked his life?"

"No, but it must have been a very important document. No man would incur such danger without his very fortune was at stake."

"You'd think so, wouldn't you? Well, sir, that paper was the pedigree of Whitem's trotting horse that never beat 2:28 and never will."—Detroit Free Press.

Hope of a Disturbance.

He had been tossed about uncomfortably for 30 years. He had a gentle, contemplative, book reading disposition, was fond of pretty things, good manners and repose. But he had had to work hard at things which ruffled his spirit. "Intolerable" was the word most frequently on his lips. But now he has an easy, salaried position, congenial work, and for the time is comfortable.

The other evening he sat in his cheerful apartment, with a warm dressing gown about him, and talked to a friend about how the troubles of life had fallen away from him, how at last he had arrived in the haven. His friend told him that he was just in the condition to experience a new disturbance, deeper than all the others; that this rest was only a lull in the storm.

"What do you mean?" he asked.

The reply was a counter question.

"Are you as much resolved as ever to live alone?" this friend asked.

There was a pause. Then the contemplative man said slowly, "As an abstract proposition marriage doesn't seem as disagreeable to me as it did."

His friend smiled. "You will find that you will be deeply disturbed again before very long," he said.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Convictions, Indeed!

"What a whip likes," says Mr. Labouchere in London Truth, "is a sheep that never opens its mouth and which submissively goes into the pen to which the whip's finger points. Years ago I remember once voting on some very trifling issue against Liberal officialdom. The next time I met the chief whip he glared at me as though I were a monster of iniquity and asked me whether I could give any explanation of my conduct."

"I modestly replied that I had thought that the other side was right. He almost had a fit and gobbled at me like an irate turkey. I asked him whether I was to vote against my own convictions. 'D—n your convictions!' he said. 'A pretty pass things are coming to when one of our lot talks about convictions!'"

Brown lived between Gray and Green. Green was as quiet a neighbor as you could wish to have, and so was Gray, for that matter, but he had a barking dog that was the torment of Brown's life. One day in his desperation he told Gray that if he would get rid of the dog he would give him $5.

"All right," said Gray. "I'll do it." Meeting Gray down town that afternoon Brown asked, "Have you done what you agreed to do and got rid of that dog?"

Gray—Yes, I've got rid of him.

Brown—Thank goodness! Now I shall sleep nights. By the way, what did you do with him?

Gray—I sold him to Green. He gave me $3 for him. Not so bad, eh?—Boston Transcript.

He Never Complained.

"I never complained," once said Sa'di, the poet, "of my condition but on a single occasion, when my feet were bare and I had not money to buy shoes, but I saw a man without feet and became instantly contented with my lot."

Being asked from whom he learned his philosophy, Sa'di replied, "From the blind, because they never advance a step until they have tried the ground."

"They asked me," Sa'di writes in the Gulistan, "Of whom didst thou learn manners?" I replied: 'From the unmannerly. Whatever I saw them do which I disapproved of, that I abstained from doing.'"

Scotland's Strange Birds.

From the small island of St. Kilda, off Scotland, 20,000 young gannets and an immense number of eggs are annually collected, and although this bird lays only one egg per annum and is four years in obtaining its maturity its numbers do not diminish. Obviously such birds must reach a great age, or they would long ago have been exterminated.

NEW PERIL TO EYESIGHT

Hot Towels In Barber Shops Breed Microbes.

Prominent Young St. Louis Lawyer's Narrow Escape From Blindness. Physicians Sound a Warning Cry Against a Recent Western Innovation Which Has Proved Dangerous.

It behooveth men who get shaved in public places to write down a new "don't" in their "don't books" if they wish to reserve their eyesight. A fresh microbe is abroad in the land. He lives in the towels which some barbers lay across the eyes of the men who get shaved in public places.

He is a barmy microbe, who is not inconvenienced by hot water. He transplants himself from the towel to the eyes of man and sets up a terrible state of things in quick order.

Within the past few weeks many men in St. Louis have come to oculists with eyes in which a virulent irritation had been set up. When they were questioned, all of them said they had been patronizing barber shops where the custom obtains of giving the upper part of the face a sort of Turkish bath by means of a towel which has been dipped in hot water.

The condition was almost identical in each case, an infection so pronounced that a film began forming over the pupil and pus was exuded, and the destruction of the sight was imminent.

There is now at the Baptist sanitarium a young lawyer and politician from the east who came perhaps nearer than anybody else to losing his eyesight. The young man has been passing the holidays in St. Louis visiting friends. The other day his right eye began troubling him. He supposed something had lodged in it which would wash out and the inflammation would subside.

But the irritation became more intense as the day passed. He had engaged to accompany a young lady to the Philharmonic Symphony society concert in the evening. In spite of the severest suffering he called at her home to keep the engagement.

The young lady suggested that he go to see a doctor whose residence was next door. He did so, and the doctor examined the eye carefully. "There is no foreign substance in your eye," he said. "It has become infected in some manner. I advise that you consult a specialist without delay."

Instead of going with him to the concert the young lady accompanied him to the office of a well known oculist near Beaumont street and Washington avenue. The specialist said: "You are in great danger of losing your eyesight. Prompt and thorough treatment is necessary to save it. An operation may be necessary. You will have to go immediately to the Baptist sanitarium."

The doctor dismissed his other patients, and entering the carriage in which the young man had come accompanied him to the sanitarium. It was a bit unusual for a man to go to a hospital in evening dress and high hat, but his sight was more precious to him than a precise regard for the fitness of raiment.

An operation was not necessary, but the use of the knife could not have inflicted more acute pain. The eyeball was swabbed and scraped and cleansed and packed and the young man says, with a shudder, he thinks it was sandpapered and chiseled. The left eye was subjected to like heroic treatment as a precautionary measure, and for 24 hours the young man was in anxious, bandaged darkness.

When the bandages were removed by the surgeon, a hopeful exclamation escaped him. He feels confident now there will be no ill effects, but if surgical interposition had been delayed a few hours longer the sight of one and possibly both eyes would have been destroyed.

The towel microbe has also been at work in Chicago. A few days ago a gentleman was asked in one of the swell shops in St. Louis if he would have a hot towel over his eyes. "Not for anything," he said. "I was blind three months in Chicago as a result of the application of a hot towel to my eyes."

The use of a hot, damp towel seems to be a western innovation. It is not used in eastern barber shops. The young man at the Baptist sanitarium is well known in St. Louis. He withheld permission to use his name because he feared his parents would be unduly alarmed.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Law Against "Hoochinoo."

The name of firewater in Alaska is "hoochinoo," and the other day the house gave its official sanction to the word by enacting that no whisky, beer or "hoochinoo" shall be sold in Alaska. The word indicates a place infested with bears, "hoo" meaning bear and "chinoo" home. When the United States laws established prohibition for Alaska, the natives of that territory began furnishing a mixture of rum and molasses, which has gradually taken the name of "hoochinoo." This is the first legal recognition of the word, and congress is ahead of the dictionary makers.—New York World.

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others? The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours, and union labor employed.

PATRONIZE UNION CLERKS.

All members of the R. C. N. P. A. can show this card ask for it when making your purchases.

UNION MADE BOOTS AND SHOES.

The Boot and Shoe Workers' union is the national head of the trade, and is a new combination of all the branches of boot and shoe workers. The above trade-mark when found on the sole or lining of a boot or shoe, is a guarantee that the same is made by union labor. Look for the above design stamped on the sole of every pair of boots or shoes you buy.

He Never Complained.

"I never complained," once said Sa'di, the poet, "of my condition but on a single occasion, when my feet were bare and I had not money to buy shoes, but I saw a man without feet and became instantly contented with my lot."

Being asked from whom he learned his philosophy, Sa'di replied, "From the blind, because they never advance a step until they have tried the ground."

"They asked me," Sa'di writes in the Gulistan, "Of whom didst thou learn manners?" I replied: "From the unmannerly. Whatever I saw them do which I disapproved of, that I abstained from doing."

Scotland's Strange Birds.

From the small island of St. Kilda, off Scotland, 20,000 young gannets and an immense number of eggs are annually collected, and although this bird lays only one egg per annum and is four years in obtaining its maturity its numbers do not diminish. Obviously such birds must reach a great age, or they would long ago have been exterminated.

NEW PERIL TO EYESIGHT

Hot Towels In Barber Shops Breed Microbes.

Prominent Young St. Louis Lawyer's Narrow Escape From Blindness. Physicians Sound a Warning Cry Against a Recent Western Innovation Which Has Proved Dangerous.

It behooveth men who get shaved in public places to write down a new "don't" in their "don't books" if they wish to reserve their eyesight. A fresh microbe is abroad in the land. He lives in the towels which some barbers lay across the eyes of the men who get shaved in public places.

He is a hardy microbe, who is not inconvenienced by hot water. He transplants himself from the towel to the eyes of man and sets up a terrible state of things in quick order.

Within the past few weeks many men in St. Louis have come to oculists with eyes in which a virulent irritation had been set up. When they were questioned, all of them said they had been patronizing barber shops where the custom obtains of giving the upper part of the face a sort of Turkish bath by means of a towel which has been dipped in hot water.

The condition was almost identical in each case, an infection so pronounced that a film began forming over the pupil and pus was exuded, and the destruction of the sight was imminent.

There is now at the Baptist sanitarium a young lawyer and politician from the east who came perhaps nearer than anybody else to losing his eyesight. The young man has been passing the holidays in St. Louis visiting friends. The other day his right eye began troubling him. He supposed something had lodged in it which would wash out and the inflammation would subside.

But the irritation became more intense as the day passed. He had engaged to accompany a young lady to the Philharmonic Symphony society concert in the evening. In spite of the severest suffering he called at her home to keep the engagement.

The young lady suggested that he go to see a doctor whose residence was next door. He did so, and the doctor examined the eye carefully. "There is no foreign substance in your eye," he said. "It has become infected in some manner. I advise that you consult a specialist without delay."

Instead of going with him to the concert the young lady accompanied him to the office of a well known oculist near Beaumont street and Washington avenue. The specialist said: "You are in great danger of losing your eyesight. Prompt and thorough treatment is necessary to save it. An operation may be necessary. You will have to go immediately to the Baptist sanitarium."

The doctor dismissed his other patients, and entering the carriage in which the young man had come accompanied him to the sanitarium. It was a bit unusual for a man to go to a hospital in evening dress and high hat, but his sight was more precious to him than a precise regard for the fitness of raiment.

An operation was not necessary, but the use of the knife could not have inflicted more acute pain. The eyeball was swabbed and scraped and cleansed and packed and the young man says, with a shudder, he thinks it was sand-papered and chiseled. The left eye was subjected to like heroic treatment as a precautionary measure, and for 24 hours the young man was in anxious, bandaged darkness.

When the bandages were removed by the surgeon, a hopeful exclamation escaped him. He feels confident now there will be no ill effects, but if surgical interposition had been delayed a few hours longer the sight of one and possibly both eyes would have been destroyed.

The towel microbe has also been at work in Chicago. A few days ago a gentleman was asked in one of the well shops in St. Louis if he would have a hot towel over his eyes. "Not for anything," he said. "I was blind three months in Chicago as a result of the application of a hot towel to my eyes."

The use of a hot, damp towel seems to be a western innovation. It is not used in eastern barber shops. The young man at the Baptist sanitarium is well known in St. Louis. He withheld permission to use his name because he feared his parents would be unduly alarmed.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Law Against "Hoochinoo."

The name of firewater in Alaska is "hoochinoo," and the other day the house gave its official sanction to the word by enacting that no whisky, beer or "hoochinoo" shall be sold in Alaska. The word indicates a place infested with bears, "hoo" meaning bear and "chinoo" home. When the United States laws established prohibition for Alaska, the natives of that territory began furnishing a mixture of rum and molasses, which has gradually taken the name of "hoochinoo." This is the first legal recognition of the word, and congress is ahead of the dictionary makers.—New York World.

THE NEWS REVIEW

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others? The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours, and union labor employed.

PATRONIZE UNION CLERKS.

All members of the R. C. N. P. A. can show this card. Ask for it when making your purchases.

UNION MADE BOOTS AND SHOES.

The Boot and Shoe Workers' union is the national head of the trade, and is a new combination of all the branches of boot and shoe workers. The above trade-mark when found on the sole or lining of a boot or shoe, is a guarantee that the same is made by union labor. Look for the above design stamped on the sole of every pair of boots or shoes you buy.

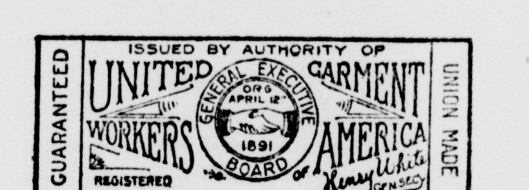

The Journeymen Tailors' Label is to be found in the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the under side of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants. It is printed in black ink on white linen.

UNION MADE HATS.

This Label is about an inch and a half square, and is printed on buff-colored paper. It is placed on every union made hat before it leaves the workman's hands. If a dealer takes a label from one hat and places it in another, or has any detached labels in his store, do not buy from him, as his labels may be the product of scab or non-union labor.

UNION MADE CLOTHES.

You will find the linen label attached by machine stitching to the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the inside of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants.

BICYCLE LABEL

"Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you." You will endorse the "Golden Rule" by buying and riding bicycles bearing this label. The colors are as follows: The Union shield is in red, white and blue, on a background of pea green, bordered by gold. The label will be placed on the upper front side of the tube that receives the seat post.

BLUE LABEL CIGARS.

WILL SEND A DELEGATE

McKinley Club to Be Represented at Dayton.

MEETING TO BE CALLED SOON

The Organization Is Entitled to a Representation of Ten Members, But It Is Believed That Only One Will Go—It Is an Important Political Gathering.

It is probable the old McKinley club will be represented at the annual meeting of the Ohio Republican league, to be held in Dayton Feb. 11.

Each club is entitled to 10 delegates, who will be splendidly entertained by the people of the fortunate town where the convention will be held, but the local organization will be content with one representative. It is understood that one member of the club will attend the meeting, and in order that he may be armed with the proper credentials a meeting of the club will be called in a few weeks to pass the necessary resolution. The McKinley club has long since ceased to exist as an active political factor, but it is listed as a member of the League, and if possible that membership will be retained.

The meeting at Dayton is for the purpose of electing officers and honoring the memory of Lincoln, the last feature taking the form of a banquet where Colonel Roosevelt and other prominent Republicans of state and nation will speak. The session will likely be of interest to those men who are supporting gubernatorial booms.

BROKE THE WHIP.

Deputy Golden Took the Law In His Own Hands.

A few days ago as L. L. Golden, who acts as deputy humane agent, was driving to the city from Wellsville he found a party from the city with a team that had stalled near Brady's cut. The fellow thought the team should be able to pull the load, and made the remark that he would wear the whip out on them, and began to beat his horses.

Golden ordered him to stop, but he refused, and the officer, not knowing whether his jurisdiction extended that far, decided to take the law in his own hands and grabbed the man, and taking the whip from him broke it up and then made him take off a portion of the load.

STEADILY INCREASING.

Crockery Shipments Are Becoming More Gratifying.

Freight business at the depot since Monday has been increasing, and yesterday and today a fair number of cars were loaded and sent out from the outbound platform.

Most of the potteries have resumed packing, and upon their shipments depend the business of the freight platforms. A fair amount of ware was on the platform for shipment this morning. The checkmen on the receiving platform are busier now than they have been for several days.

VERY SUCCESSFUL

Was the Operation Performed Upon the Arm of James Hall.

Mrs. James B. Hall, of Kossuth street, returned last evening from Pittsburgh after spending a few days at the bedside of her husband who is undergoing treatment at the Mercy hospital.

The operation performed upon the arm of Mr. Hall was very successful, and he is fast regaining his health, but it will be some weeks before he is able to be home.

STRANGER ILL.

He Is From Erie and Has Been Here Since Saturday.

Charles C. Hart, a salesman for an Erie, Pa., house, is seriously ill at his rooms in the Thompson House. He came to this city Saturday and was compelled to go to bed immediately. He has been suffering with a severe attack of the grip and malaria. His condition last evening was much improved.

Mr. Jackson In Steubenville.

Presiding Elder Jackson, of the Steubenville district of the Methodist Episcopal church, returned to his home this morning. He had charge of the services in the First M. E. church last evening, and will return to the city this evening to repeat his work of last night.

Steel Going South.

The towboat Relief, which passed this city this morning going south, had in tow three model barges of steel rails from the Carnegie rail mill at Homestead. The rails were consigned to a southern road and are to be delivered at New Orleans.

His Mongoose Experience.

"Although I sold tickets in a red circus wagon for years," continued the dime museum man, "I was badly fooled once in an animal deal. I mean by this that I fooled myself. I got a letter from a collector, who wanted to know if I would buy a mongoose. I wrote back to have it shipped at once, and it was to be in the museum ready for exhibition one Monday morning. I had a rather hazy idea of what the beast looked like, but I was sure that it was something big, with tusks, and I told our artist to go ahead on that idea and spread himself.

"He did. The picture he evolved would catch any one's eye at any range. He took a whole frame of canvas and painted for a background a tropical island, with the mongoose chewing up sailors on the shore.

"The picture was finished Sunday, and I couldn't help but rub my hands when I looked at it. The moment it was hung out people flocked around it, and the early morning attendance Monday was remarkable. The doors were opened before I got down, and as I went up stairs I could hear a subdued growl.

"That's the mongoose," I said to myself. "The idiots haven't fed it." "It wasn't the mongoose. It was the crowd growling like a Roman mob behind the scenes. They had been lured by the picture, and when they got to the cage labeled 'Mongoose' they could not see the beast at all. It had buried itself in the straw."—Chicago Tribune

The Leopard and the Pan.

One day a worthy Kulu housewife came out from her cooking and, standing on the ledge of rock at her door, emptied a pan of boiling water into the rank herbage growing below. It fell, splash, on the back of a sleeping leopard, who jumped perpendicularly into the air as high as the roof of the hut. What might have happened next? Who can say? But the astonished woman dropped the pan with a clang upon the rock, and the leopard took one leap down hill. The pan followed, and the leopard's downward leaps became longer and swifter as the pan bounded after it from rock to rock.

When last seen the leopard had just achieved a leap of about 350 feet to the very bottom of the ravine, thousands of feet below, and the pan had whirled about 500 feet over it on to the opposite side. The leopard would have eaten the old woman with pleasure, but a pan which first scalded half the hide off him and then bounded clanging in his wake from the top of the Himalayas to the plains below was something which he could not face.—Good Words.

Is Your Name Here?

A contributor has been amusing himself by trying to answer the question or series of questions, What man in the history of the world whose name began with A—and after that every other letter of the alphabet in order—exerted the greatest influence upon the thought and conduct of mankind?

Of course there are some letters which are not very prolific in the names of great men, but we think most of our readers will be surprised to see how many of the most illustrious names in history are included and how few are excluded.

In some cases the compiler seems to have selected names quite as much with a view to comprehending in the list men of many countries, as because the name given was that of the greatest man of his time. The list follows:

Aristotle, Baco, Confucius, Darwin, Ezra, Franklin, Goethe, Homer, Isaiah, Justinian, Kant, Luther, Mohammed, Newton, Ossian, Plato, Quintillian, Rousseau, Shakespeare, Tasso, Uhlund, Virgil, Washington, Xavier, Young, Zoroaster.—London Globe.

Dangers of Laughter.

It is surprising to learn from the highest medical authority in England that laughter may be injurious.

Laughter in itself, says the British Medical Journal, cannot very well kill, but it may do harm. Hysterical girls and boys with kindred nervous affections are often given to immoderate laughter, which tends to increase nervous exhaustion.

Dr. Feilchenfeld relates an instructive case in which a little girl suffered from very definite cardiac symptoms after immoderate laughter. The patient was 13 years old and had previously been free from any sign of heart disease. After laughing on and off for nearly an hour with some companions she suddenly felt stabbing pains in the chest and was seized with fits of coughing, followed by cardiac dyspnea, very well marked. Feilchenfeld believes that the cardiac disease directly resulted from immoderate laughing.

Defending His Profession.

"Now," said the attorney for the defense, "let us take up the bill presented by the plaintiff in this case for alleged services rendered to my client. I say alleged services, gentlemen of the jury, because these figures show every indication of having been doctored."

"Would it not be better to say law- yered?" asked an indignant physician who was serving as one of the jurors.—Chicago Tribune.

Washington Bibliophile Pays $125 For a Field Primer.

CHAMP CLARK ACTS AS SALESMAN.

How General Grosvenor Came to Appreciate the Significance of "Crap Terms"—Comedian Francis Wilson Makes a Friend of Ex-Secretary John Sherman.

William E. Curtis, Washington correspondent of the Chicago Record, tells of a remarkable case of barter on the floor of the house recently. Mr. Frank L. Hanvey, a Washington bibliophile, in the presence of Congressmen Cochran and Benton of Missouri, handed Congressman Champ Clark $125, and in return received from Mr. Clark a much worn little book with a blue cover. The book was one of the seven existing copies of the original edition of Eugene Field's "Model Primer" and was the property of Mrs. Bob White of Mexico, Mo.

When subscriptions were being raised in Missouri for the Field monument, J. West Goodwin, the well known Missouri editor, conceived the idea of reprinting the Field "Model Primer" and selling facsimiles. In writing an account of the manner in which he proposed to raise a Field monument fund he related how he had secured a copy of the first edition from Mrs. White. Mr. Goodwin's story fell into the hands of Mr. Hanvey of this city, and he at once opened a correspondence with Mrs. White. She did not care to part with her treasure, but when Mr. Hanvey told her he was willing to have her name her own price she referred him to Congressman Clark.

An interview took place during the holidays at which Mr. Hanvey offered $125. The book arrived the other day, and the next morning Mr. Hanvey met Mr. Clark on the floor of the house by appointment just before the opening of the session, handed him the check for $125 and received the book. Mr. Hanvey told Mr. Clark he would not feel perfectly satisfied the book was genuine until after he had shown it to Francis Wilson, the comedian, who is an authority upon the works of Eugene Field. Mr. Clark assured Mr. Hanvey that if Mr. Wilson did not pronounce the book a copy of the original edition he would, of course, return him the money. Mr. Hanvey is a contractor at 213 Twelfth street, Washington.

"Come seben," "come 'leben," "big Joe's my point," "got you faded," "fever in de souf," and a few similar expressions are perfectly plain English to General Grosvenor now. They were not before the other afternoon, says the Washington Post.

The story of how he came to appreciate the significance of those terms the whole house of representatives knows. The house was considering penal laws when the instructing of the general took place. The proposed law prohibits all gambling "with cards or dice" particularly. The general arose to move an amendment so as to include the seductive game called "craps." The Buckeye statesman went on to explain that he understood that craps was one of the worst gambling games ever invented. He thought the youth and manhood of the frozen territory should be protected. Therefore he proposed that the prohibition should be extended to include craps.

Very few members were paying any attention to the general's remarks. Among the few was General Shattuc of Cincinnati, which city is noted for the number of its "crap joints." First he looked on with approval. Then his face got red. He looked embarrassed and began making signals of distress to the Nestor of the Ohio delegation. The general talked, however, until the Cincinnati pulled his coattail and ejaculated in a stage whisper heard all over the house, "Craps is a dice game."

Thereupon the general was the subject of a boisterous laugh. In the confusion that followed he said something about being thankful that there were some things about which he was not as well advised as some other persons. When General Grosvenor resumed his seat, General Shattuc engaged him in a very earnest conversation. General Shattuc swung his arms, snapped his fingers, and his jaws worked as if he were uttering the persuasive words, "Come six, baby needs new shoes," or "Here's your fever in de souf right offen de reel."

A few nights ago, when Washington was being treated to a spell of Dakota weather, rain, snow, sleet and hail coming from the clouds simultaneously, ex-Secretary John Sherman's carriage drew up in front of the Grand Opera House, where Francis Wilson was playing "The Little Corporal," says the New York World.

Mr. Sherman and his daughter alighted and hurried into the lobby of the theater. Having neglected to purchase seats, the venerable statesman was compelled to take his place in a long line of anxious people who were waiting an opportunity to pass up to the box office. While he stood in line Actor Wilson

Two hearts can make a love affair, but it takes three, at least, to make a home, and one of them must be that of a baby. The young married couples that start out in life with the idea that children are nuisances, and that they do not want and will not have them, are the kind that you read about every day in the newspapers—in the divorce column. A home without children is not a home. God and Nature never intended that there should be a place called home that did not resound with the patter of childish footsteps.

There are tens of thousands of homes that are childless because of the ill-health of the wife and would-be mother. There are tens of thousands of other homes childless because the little ones have died almost as soon as they were born. In both cases Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a sovereign remedy. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs that make wifehood and motherhood possible. It makes them well, strong, vigorous, virile, and elastic. It does away with the dangers of maternity. It banishes the usual discomforts of the expectant period and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It insures the little new comer's health and an ample supply of nourishment. The prospective mother prepares herself for maternity by taking the "Favorite Prescription" and gives her child a fair start in life by giving it a strong and well developed body. Thousands of homes that were childless, to-day echo with babies' laughter, and bless this great medicine. Thousands of women who were weak, nervous, despondent invalids, are to-day happy, healthy wives and mothers because of this medicine. Medicine dealers sell it.

THE SAME OLD STORY.

Told on the Streets of East Liverpool as Well as Elsewhere.

Some things you cannot tell too often. Repetition gives them added strength. The same old story is pleasant to hear.

Having heard Doan's Kidney Pills so highly spoken of, I made up my mind to try them, and I procured a box at W. & W. pharmacy. I did not take over half of it before I was entirely free from any trouble, my appetite good and my old time vigor restored. I recommended them to many of my friends, among them P. J. Green, V. WILL SEND A DELEGATE

McKinley Club to Be Represented at Dayton.

MEETING TO BE CALLED SOON

The Organization Is Entitled to a Representation of Ten Members, But It Is Believed That Only One Will Go—It Is an Important Political Gathering.

It is probable the old McKinley club will be represented at the annual meeting of the Ohio Republican league, to be held in Dayton Feb. 11.

Each club is entitled to 10 delegates, who will be splendidly entertained by the people of the fortunate town where the convention will be held, but the local organization will be content with one representative. It is understood that one member of the club will attend the meeting, and in order that he may be armed with the proper credentials a meeting of the club will be called in a few weeks to pass the necessary resolution. The McKinley club has long since ceased to exist as an active political factor, but it is listed as a member of the League, and if possible that membership will be retained.

The meeting at Dayton is for the purpose of electing officers and honoring the memory of Lincoln, the last feature taking the form of a banquet where Colonel Roosevelt and other prominent Republicans of state and nation will speak. The session will likely be of interest to those men who are supporting gubernatorial booms.

BROKE THE WHIP.

Deputy Golden Took the Law In His Own Hands.

A few days ago as L. L. Golden, who acts as deputy humane agent, was driving to the city from Wellsville he found a party from the city with a team that had stalled near Brady's cut. The fellow thought the team should be able to pull the load, and made the remark that he would wear the whip out on them, and began to beat his horses.

Golden ordered him to stop, but he refused, and the officer, not knowing whether his jurisdiction extended that far, decided to take the law in his own hands and grabbed the man, and taking the whip from him broke it up and then made him take off a portion of the load.

STEADILY INCREASING.

Crockery Shipments Are Becoming More Gratifying.

Freight business at the depot since Monday has been increasing, and yesterday and today a fair number of cars were loaded and sent out from the out-bound platform.

Most of the potteries have resumed packing, and upon their shipments depend the business of the freight platforms. A fair amount of ware was on the platform for shipment this morning. The checkmen on the receiving platform are busier now than they have been for several days.

Was the Operation Performed Upon the Arm of James Hall.

Mrs. James B. Hall, of Kossuth street, returned last evening from Pittsburg after spending a few days at the bedside of her husband who is undergoing treatment at the Mercy hospital.

The operation performed upon the arm of Mr. Hall was very successful, and he is fast regaining his health, but it will be some weeks before he is able to be home.

STRANGER ILL.

He Is From Erie and Has Been Here Since Saturday.

Charles C. Hart, a salesman for an Erie, Pa., house, is seriously ill at his rooms in the Thompson House. He came to this city Saturday and was compelled to go to bed immediately. He has been suffering with a severe attack of the grip and malaria. His condition last evening was much improved.

Mr. Jackson In Steubenville.

Presiding Elder Jackson, of the Steubenville district of the Methodist Episcopal church, returned to his home this morning. He had charge of the services in the First M. E. church last evening, and will return to the city this evening to repeat his work of last night.

Steel Going South.

The towboat Relief, which passed this city this morning going south, had in tow three model barges of steel rails from the Carnegie rail mill at Homestead. The rails were consigned to a southern road and are to be delivered at New Orleans.

His Mongoose Experience.

"Although I sold tickets in a red circus wagon for years," continued the dime museum man, "I was badly fooled once in an animal deal. I mean by this that I fooled myself. I got a letter from a collector, who wanted to know if I would buy a mongoose. I wrote back to have it shipped at once, and it was to be in the museum ready for exhibition one Monday morning. I had a rather hazy idea of what the beast looked like, but I was sure that it was something big, with tusks, and I told our artist to go ahead on that idea and spread himself."

"He did. The picture he evolved would catch any one's eye at any range. He took a whole frame of canvas and painted for a background a tropical island, with the mongoose chewing up sailors on the shore."

"The picture was finished Sunday, and I couldn't help but rub my hands when I looked at it. The moment it was hung out people flocked around it, and the early morning attendance Monday was remarkable. The doors were opened before I got down, and as I went up stairs I could hear a subdued growl. "That's the mongoose," I said to myself. "The idiots haven't fed it."

"It wasn't the mongoose. It was the crowd growling like a Roman mob behind the scenes. They had been lured by the picture, and when they got to the cage labeled 'Mongoose' they could not see the beast at all. It had buried itself in the straw."—Chicago Tribune.

The Leopard and the Pan.

One day a worthy Kulu housewife came out from her cooking and, standing on the ledge of rock at her door, emptied a pan of boiling water into the rank herbage growing below. It fell, splash, on the back of a sleeping leopard, who jumped perpendicularly into the air as high as the roof of the hut. What might have happened next? Who can say? But the astonished woman dropped the pan with a clang upon the rock, and the leopard took one leap down hill. The pan followed, and the leopard's downward leaps became longer and swifter as the pan bounded after it from rock to rock.

When last seen the leopard had just achieved a leap of about 350 feet to the very bottom of the ravine, thousands of feet below, and the pan had whirled about 500 feet over it on to the opposite side. The leopard would have eaten the old woman with pleasure, but a pan which first scalded half the hide off him and then bounded clanging in his wake from the top of the Himalayas to the plains below was something which he could not face.—Good Words.

Is Your Name Here?

A contributor has been amusing himself by trying to answer the question or series of questions, What man in the history of the world whose name began with A—and after that every other letter of the alphabet in order—exerted the greatest influence upon the thought and conduct of mankind?

Of course there are some letters which are not very prolific in the names of great men, but we think most of our readers will be surprised to see how many of the most illustrious names in history are included and how few are excluded.

In some cases the compiler seems to have selected names quite as much with a view to comprehending in the list men of many countries, as because the name given was that of the greatest man of his time. The list follows:

Aristotle, Baco, Confucius, Darwin, Ezra, Franklin, Goethe, Homer, Isaiah, Justinian, Kant, Luther, Mohammed, Newton, Ossian, Plato, Quintillian, Rousseau, Shakespeare, Tasso, Uhlard, Virgil, Washington, Xavier, Young, Zoroaster.—London Globe.

Dangers of Laughter.

It is surprising to learn from the highest medical authority in England that laughter may be injurious.

Laughter in itself, says the British Medical Journal, cannot very well kill, but it may do harm. Hysterical girls and boys with kindred nervous affections are often given to immoderate laughter, which tends to increase nervous exhaustion.

Dr. Feilchenfeld relates an instructive case in which a little girl suffered from very definite cardiac symptoms after immoderate laughter. The patient was 13 years old and had previously been free from any sign of heart disease. After laughing on and off for nearly an hour with some companions she suddenly felt stabbing pains in the chest and was seized with fits of coughing, followed by cardiac dyspnea, very well marked. Feilchenfeld believes that the cardiac disease directly resulted from immoderate laughing.

Defending His Profession.

"Now," said the attorney for the defense, "let us take up the bill presented by the plaintiff in this case for alleged services rendered to my client. I say alleged services, gentlemen of the jury, because these figures show every indication of having been doctored."

"Would it not be better to say law-yered?" asked an indignant physician who was serving as one of the jurors.—Chicago Tribune.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Washington Bibliophile Pays $125 For a Field Primer.

CHAMP CLARK ACTS AS SALESMAN.

William E. Curtis, Washington correspondent of the Chicago Record, tells of a remarkable case of barter on the floor of the house recently. Mr. Frank L. Hanvey, a Washington bibliophile, in the presence of Congressmen Cochran and Benton of Missouri, handed Congressman Champ Clark $125, and in return received from Mr. Clark a much worn little book with a blue cover. The book was one of the seven existing copies of the original edition of Eugene Field's "Model Primer" and was the property of Mrs. Bob White of Mexico, Mo.

When subscriptions were being raised in Missouri for the Field monument, J. West Goodwin, the well known Missouri editor, conceived the idea of reprinting the Field "Model Primer" and selling facsimiles. In writing an account of the manner in which he proposed to raise a Field monument fund he related how he had secured a copy of the first edition from Mrs. White. Mr. Goodwin's story fell into the hands of Mr. Hanvey of this city, and he at once opened a correspondence with Mrs. White. She did not care to part with her treasure, but when Mr. Hanvey told her he was willing to have her name her own price she referred him to Congressman Clark.

An interview took place during the holidays at which Mr. Hanvey offered $125. The book arrived the other day, and the next morning Mr. Hanvey met Mr. Clark on the floor of the house by appointment just before the opening of the session, handed him the check for $125 and received the book. Mr. Hanvey told Mr. Clark he would not feel perfectly satisfied the book was genuine until after he had shown it to Francis Wilson, the comedian, who is an authority upon the works of Eugene Field. Mr. Clark assured Mr. Hanvey that if Mr. Wilson did not pronounce the book a copy of the original edition he would, of course, return him the money. Mr. Hanvey is a contractor at 213 Twelfth street, Washington.

"Come seben," "come leben," "big Joe's my point," "got you faded," "fever in de souf," and a few similar expressions are perfectly plain English to General Grosvenor now. They were not before the other afternoon, says the Washington Post.

The story of how he came to appreciate the significance of those terms the whole house of representatives knows. The house was considering penal laws when the instructing of the general took place. The proposed law prohibits all gambling "with cards or dice" particularly. The general arose to move an amendment so as to include the seductive game called "craps." The Buckeye statesman went on to explain that he understood that craps was one of the worst gambling games ever invented. He thought the youth and manhood of the frozen territory should be protected. Therefore he proposed that the prohibition should be extended to include craps.

Very few members were paying any attention to the general's remarks. Among the few was General Shattuc of Cincinnati, which city is noted for the number of its "crap joints." First he looked on with approval. Then his face got red. He looked embarrassed and began making signals of distress to the Nestor of the Ohio delegation. The general talked, however, until the Cincinnati pulled his coat and ejaculated in a stage whisper heard all over the house, "Craps is a dice game."

Thereupon the general was the subject of a boisterous laugh. In the confusion that followed he said something about being thankful that there were some things about which he was not as well advised as some other persons. When General Grosvenor resumed his seat, General Shattuc engaged him in a very earnest conversation. General Shattuc swung his arms, snapped his fingers, and his jaws worked as if he were uttering the persuasive words, "Come six, baby needs new shoes," or "Here's your fever in de souf right offen de reel."

A few nights ago, when Washington was being treated to a spell of Dakota weather, rain, snow, sleet and hail coming from the clouds simultaneously, ex-Secretary John Sherman's carriage drew up in front of the Grand Opera House, where Francis Wilson was playing "The Little Corporal," says the New York World.

Mr. Sherman and his daughter alighted and hurried into the lobby of the theater. Having neglected to purchase seats, the venerable statesman was compelled to take his place in a long line of anxious people who were waiting an opportunity to pass up to the box office. While he stood in line Actor Wilson

Two hearts can make a love affair, but it takes three, at least, to make a home, and one of them must be that of a baby. The young married couples that start out in life with the idea that children are nuisances, and that they do not want and will not have them, are the kind that you read about every day in the newspapers—in the divorce column. A home without children is not a home. God and Nature never intended that there should be a place called home that did not resound with the patter of childish footsteps.

There are tens of thousands of homes that are childless because of the ill-health of the wife and would-be mother. There are tens of thousands of other homes childless because the little ones have died almost as soon as they were born. In both cases Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a sovereign remedy. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs that make wifehood and motherhood possible. It makes them well, strong, vigorous, virile, and elastic. It does away with the dangers of maternity. It banishes the usual discomforts of the expectant period and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It insures the little new comer's health and an ample supply of nourishment. The prospective mother prepares herself for maternity by taking the "Favorite Prescription" and gives her child a fair start in life by giving it a strong and well developed body. Thousands of homes that were childless, to-day echo with babies' laughter, and bless this great medicine. Thousands of women who were weak, nervous, despondent invalids, are to-day happy, healthy wives and mothers because of this medicine. Medicine dealers sell it.

Mrs. G. Y. Travis is in Toronto
where she was called by the serious illness of her father, Amos Aiken.

Charles Frey and Hugh McCarron returned today to Marion, Ind., after spending several weeks in the city visiting relatives.

Edward Dobbs, of Hailsville, Ind., arrived in the city yesterday. He will take a position in one of the river pot-
teries.

A new lamp has been placed in the window of the ticket office at the passenger station. It is an improvement
that has been long needed.

Doctor Crawford is somewhat improved today. He slept well last night, and his physician now believes he is well on the way to recovery.

The damage caused by the storm of last Saturday to the telephone wires in this section has been repaired and the system is again in good working order.

The floors of several stalls at the fire station were replaced yesterday. The floors are of wood and are rendered useless after horses stand on them several months.

A large number of operative potters
are out of the city at present, visiting friends until they receive word as to the time when work will begin in the potteries.

Engineer Hunt, of trains 835 and 836,
is ill at his home in Cleveland suffering
from the effects of a dental operation.
His condition is such that his friends
think he cannot recover.

A small boy who was hanging to the steps of a street car was thrown at the junction of Washington and Sixth streets this morning. He was not badly hurt, but went away crying.

The scarcity of houses in the city continues. One family recently moved here
from Wellsville, where they went three weeks ago because they could not find a place of abode in Liverpool.

Evangelist Nash, who will arrive Friday to conduct a week's services at the Young Men's Christian association,
Sunday evening will occupy the pulpit
of the First Presbyterian church.

Engineer Thomas Moore, of the Cleveland and Pittsburg freight department, has been granted several weeks vacation. He left for a short trip through the east yesterday afternoon.

The petition asking the board of parcels to recommend the release from the penitentiary of Jesse McGregor has been liberally signed in Wellsville, and it is said a number of local people have added their names.

This morning a crowd of boys from East End, about 15 in number, with 45
dogs left for the country where they went for the purpose of chasing rabbits.
The boys had no firearms with them
and only went on the trip for the fun
they would obtain.

It is learned from an absolutely reliable source that four or five capitalists
of the city yesterday took an option on the C. Metsch property, the price asked being $35,000. The parties are very anxious to secure the land, and it is probable the deal will be closed in a few days. It is not known what they wish to do with the property.

The three cars which were ordered from a Buffalo firm recently by the street railway company, arrived at the power house early this morning. They were taken from the cars at the lower freight depot, and from there to the power house. The cars are unlike any
now in use on the line, being painted yellow and lettered in red. They will be equipped with motors immediately.

THE VANDERBILT BALL.

Cornelius Senior Entertains In Honor of His Second Son.

WEALTH AND BEAUTY THERE.

One o'clock Cotillon Led by Worthington Whitehouse and Mrs. Harry
Payne Whitney—Women Blaze
With Jewels—Two Dinners Were Served—First Vanderbilt Ball In Three Years.

The Vanderbilt ball the other night
in New York was an affair of stately grandeur. There were 500 guests in the Fifth avenue palace, and 500 richer, better dressed or handsomer men and women were never gathered under one roof.

The mansion was displayed in all its lavish magnificence. The guests trod upon carpets that have felt the feet of oriental royalty; they dined off plate
that might have come from the wedding chest of a princess with a fairy godmother; they looked upon paintings
the least of which represented more than a poor man earns in a lifetime of labor.

Magnificence was the watchword of the occasion. It is not often the Vanderbilts entertain, but when they do the tale is worth the telling. The half thousand who were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt were a fitting company for the regal halls, the rich
carving, the tapestries and the general
riot of grandeur of the most sumptuous private palace in America if not in the world.

It was the first time the grand ballroom has fulfilled the purpose of its creation in three years. The ball was in honor of the son, a mere boy at college, but heir to $50,000,000.

Only inferentially was the grand ball
to celebrate the engagement of this lad
to marry. The bride to be—at least everybody considered her the bride to be
—Miss Elsie French, was not among
the guests. She is at present abroad
with her mother.

There was, however, a prospective
Vanderbilt bride among the merrymakers. Miss Fair, the betrothed of young Willie K. Vanderbilt, a nephew of the house, attracted more attention than
the pictures, the flowers and the music.
When she danced, the eyes of the exclusive multitude were upon her. The story had been generally circulated and was generally believed that the grand resumption of Vanderbilt hospitality
would also mark a reconciliation in the family, but Cornelius junior and his wife were not there.

There were two separate dinners served during the evening. The first, a buffet luncheon for the older people, was spread in the dining saloon, but the young people's dinner was served everywhere. Tables were spread for convenient little parties in the halls,
the picture galleries and the many beautiful smaller rooms, and there the young people ate and drank at their ease.

The cotillon began at 1 o'clock in the morning. It was led by Worthington
Whitehouse and Lida Vanderbilt
Sloane, the daughter of Mrs. Douglas Sloane. The favors were varied and gorgeous enough to be in keeping with the magnificence of the rest of it.

There were Venetian lanterns on stands as high as a small woman's head, tambourines for the ladies, sashes of
silver, whips and canes and boutonnières
and good luck trophies. A most beautiful picture was that presented by the dancers, decked with their trophies, in that fairy cavern of a ballroom.

It was the court ball of the richest set of the richest city in the world, and the women had dressed for it as they had probably never dressed for a ball in New York. They were a-glitter with gems, and the white flashes of diamonds
and the red and green gleams of rubies
and emeralds answered back the challenge of the electric lights that shone
from the frieze and corruscated from
the giant candelabra.

The guests entered at the Fifty-eighth street entrance under the porte cochere,
which admitted them to the main hall.

Relieved of their wraps, they burst
like butterflies from a chrysalis, and in all their glory swarmed up the stately winding staircase to the water color
room. There Mrs. Vanderbilt received her guests alone. The water color room is in the style of Louis XVI. On the walls are the soft beauties from the brushes of Madeleine Lemaire, Childe
Hassam, Pizarro, Claude Mottet, Do-
mingo, Burne-Jones and Abbey.

From the water color room the progress was direct to the ballroom, a stately chamber, the most beautiful dancing
apartment in any private residence in America. It is 65 feet long, as wide as an ordinary city lot, and the ceiling is 35 feet above the floor.

The ceiling is one grand panel framed
in gold and suspended five or six feet
the top of the wall are the hidden electric lights. In the four corners are great clusters of other lights, rising in great lilylike bouquets.

The musicians' bay, at the end of the room opposite the entrance, was occupied by the Lander orchestra and the Nahan Franko orchestra, which alternated in the music. During supper the orchestras rendered selections from

"Harly Burly," Stromberg; "Runaway Girl," Caryl; "Carmen," Bizet, and
"Serenade," Herbert.—Special Philadelphia Press.

Added—Marine Corps Increased.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The house passed the naval personnel bill. By its provisions the line and the engineer corps are welded into an amalgamated line; staff officers are given positive rank, but their command is limited to their own corps and a system of voluntary and compulsory retirement on three-quarters pay as next higher rank
of 40 officers a year is established,
which is designed to remove the congestion in the lower rank at 45. The bill also practically equalizes their pay with that of army officers. One amendment creates a judge advocate corps,
another abolishes prize money and a third provides for the retirement on three-quarters pay of enlisted men and petty officers in the navy after 30 years'
service.

A substitute for the organization of the marine corps was adopted, by which the corps is to consist of 6,000 enlisted men and petty officers, with general officers and staff. This will increase the marine corps by 1,300 men and increase the cost of its maintenance
$1,500,000.

CANAL BILL CONSIDERED.

The Rawlins Amendment Defeated In
the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Almost the entire session of the senate was devoted to consideration of the pending Nicaragua canal bill. Speeches were made in support of the measure by Mr. Chil-
ton (Tex.) and Mr. Turner (Wash.),
and in opposition to it by Mr. Spooner
(Wis.).

The first vote reached was on an amendment offered by Mr. Rawlins (Utah), which in brief provided that the United States should have absolute control of the canal for military or naval purposes with power to dictate the use of the waterway during the existence of war. It was defeated by a vote of 38 to 9. A provision was inserted in the bill providing that no more than $5,000,000 should be paid the Maritime Canal company for its concession and work already done on the canal. When adjournment was taken the substitute measure offered by Mr. Caffery (La.)
was before the senate.

Eagan's Testimony Toned Down.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The war investigating commission decided to make public the amended statement filed by Commissary General Eagan. The commission permitted the representatives of the press to read the statement and it was formally announced to the newspaper men that General Eagan had eliminated all objectionable statements,
and therefore the document would be accepted officially by the commission as evidence.

A HALL OF CHRIST.

Plan to Be Inaugurated by Chautauqua
Trustees—Helen Gould Contributed $5,000.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 18.—Business of much importance to the friends of the great Chautauqua movement will be transacted at the annual meeting of the trustees of the assembly in this city tonight. One thing decided upon will be the removal of the headquarters
to Cleveland. Hereafter all the publications, including The Chautauquan, will be issued in this city.

One of the projects that is to be undertaken at the assembly ground next summer is the erection of the building to be called the Hall of Christ, for which Miss Helen Gould contributed $5,000. The structure, which is to be of brick and terra cotta, will stand upon
an eminence in the grounds.

The hall will be emblematic of the Savior and will illustrate the different events in his life. In the apex will be a colossal figure of Christ. The cost of the structure will be $25,000.

The committee in charge of the project met and perfected the report that is to be submitted to the trustees tonight. It consisted of Bishop J. H.
Vincent, William Thomas of Meadville,
Pa., E. G. Lisenberry of Portville, N. Y., and F. W. Hyde of Jamestown, N. Y.

BRYAN VISITED DENVER.

The Colonel Spoke to Legislators and
at a Big Meeting.

DENVER, Jan. 18.—Colonel William
J. Bryan made two public speeches in Denver, both of which were listened to
by audiences only limited by the capacity of the auditoriums. The first was in the hall of the house of representatives, to which only those who had tickets were admitted. The other was at Coliseum hall.

After this address to the legislature
Mr. and Mrs. Bryan repaired to the residence of Governor Thomas, where they were entertained at dinner, to which half a dozen of the leading Democrats of the state, including ex-
Governors Grant and Adams, and a number of ladies, were guests.

There were about 5,000 persons in Coliseum hall and probably as many more on the outside pressing for admission.

Introduced by Lentz.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Representative Lentz of Ohio introduced a resolution providing for the discharge of such volunteers as entered the service for the war with Spain. It also provides that troops to the number of 13,000 may be raised among the natives of the islands acquired by the United States.

ATKINSON GOT A BOOST.

Third District People Boomed the Governor For Senator.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 18.—The governor and the state senate have not formally recognized the house as being organized and ready for business. The senate adjourned before the house committee had an opportunity to notify it
of that fact and no message of any character has yet been sent to the house
by the governor.

A large and representative gathering
of business men of the two districts,
but who reside chiefly in the Kanawha valley, was held, J. L. Henry of Ray-
ette presided and Alexander McVeigh
Miller of Monroe was secretary. Speeches were made in which the principal statement was that Governor Atkinson was a native of Kanawha and had grown to manhood here and the Third district was proud to claim him
as her own. Resolutions were adopted endorsing him in unmeasured terms as the candidate of the people, irrespective
of locality or politics.

WANTS HEROES REWARDED.

President McKinley Wrote to Congress
Regarding Rescue of Whalers.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—President Mc-Kinley sent a message to congress recounting as "another glorious page in the history of American seamen" the valorous deeds of the officers and men of the revenue cutter Bear in rescuing
the imperiled whaling fleet in Arctic waters last year.

The president concluded by asking
the thanks of congress to the officers and men of the party, with gold medals
of honor to those of the overland expedition, and $2,000 for the bestowal of rewards to W. T. Lopp and native
herders who aided the relief expedition.

MAY BE THE PAUL JONES.

Mayor Taggart Heard of a Launch
Stranded on an Island.

MOBILE, Jan. 18.—Thomas Taggart,
mayor of Indianapolis, who is here, received a telegram from Fort Morgan saying a report had reached there that a launch had been seen stranded on Daupin island, at the entrance to Mobile bay.

Mr. Taggart at once ordered a boat sent to investigate. It is not known what time the boat left Fort Morgan.

Fort Morgan is 35 miles from this city.

Mr. Taggart has a daughter on the missing pleasure launch Paul Jones.

To Fight the Treaty.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The Democratic opponents of the peace treaty
were in conference several hours devising ways and means for conducting their contest. They resolved to insist upon an amendment placing the Philippines on the same footing in their relation to the United States as Cuba, and to make a persistent fight if this concession was not granted.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Trades council will hold an important meeting this evening.

Knowles, Taylor & Knowles yesterday mailed 700 handsome calendars to their customers.

The street force yesterday cleaned Walnut street, and are busy today cleaning the principal streets.

Mrs. G. Y. Travis is in Toronto where she was called by the serious illness of her father, Amos Aiken.

Charles Frey and Hugh McCarron returned today to Marion, Ind., after spending several weeks in the city visiting relatives.

Edward Dobbs, of Hailsville, Ind., arrived in the city yesterday. He will take a position in one of the river potteries.

A new lamp has been placed in the window of the ticket office at the passenger station. It is an improvement that has been long needed.

Doctor Crawford is somewhat improved today. He slept well last night, and his physician now believes he is well on the way to recovery.

The damage caused by the storm of last Saturday to the telephone wires in this section has been repaired and the system is again in good working order.

The floors of several stalls at the fire station were replaced yesterday. The floors are of wood and are rendered useless after horses stand on them several months.

A large number of operative potters are out of the city at present, visiting friends until they receive word as to the time when work will begin in the potteries.

Engineer Hunt, of trains 835 and 836, is ill at his home in Cleveland suffering from the effects of a dental operation. His condition is such that his friends think he cannot recover.

A small boy who was hanging to the steps of a street car was thrown at the junction of Washington and Sixth streets this morning. He was not badly hurt, but went away crying.

The scarcity of houses in the city continues. One family recently moved here from Wellsville, where they went three weeks ago because they could not find a place of abode in Liverpool.

Evangelist Nash, who will arrive Friday to conduct a week's services at the Young Men's Christian association, Sunday evening will occupy the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church.

Engineer Thomas Moore, of the Cleveland and Pittsburg freight department, has been granted several weeks vacation. He left for a short trip through the east yesterday afternoon.

The petition asking the board of parsons to recommend the release from the penitentiary of Jesse McGregor has been liberally signed in Wellsville, and it is said a number of local people have added their names.

This morning a crowd of boys from East End, about 15 in number, with 45 dogs left for the country where they went for the purpose of chasing rabbits. The boys had no firearms with them and only went on the trip for the fun they would obtain.

It is learned from an absolutely reliable source that four or five capitalists of the city yesterday took an option on the C. Metsch property, the price asked being $35,000. The parties are very anxious to secure the land, and it is probable the deal will be closed in a few days. It is not known what they wish to do with the property.

The three cars which were ordered from a Buffalo firm recently by the street railway company, arrived at the power house early this morning. They were taken from the cars at the lower freight depot, and from there to the power house. The cars are unlike any now in use on the line, being painted yellow and lettered in red. They will be equipped with motors immediately.

THE VANDERBILT BALL.
Cornelius Senior Entertains In Honor of His Second Son.
WEALTH AND BEAUTY THERE.

One o'clock Cotillon Led by Worthington Whitehouse and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney—Women Blaze With Jewels—Two Dinners Were Served—First Vanderbilt Ball In Three Years.

The Vanderbilt ball the other night in New York was an affair of stately grandeur. There were 500 guests in the Fifth avenue palace, and 500 richer, better dressed or handsomer men and women were never gathered under one roof.

The mansion was displayed in all its lavish magnificence. The guests trod upon carpets that have felt the feet of oriental royalty; they dined off plate that might have come from the wedding chest of a princess with a fairy godmother; they looked upon paintings the least of which represented more than a poor man earns in a lifetime of labor.

Magnificence was the watchword of the occasion. It is not often the Vanderbilts entertain, but when they do the tale is worth the telling. The half thousand who were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt were a fitting company for the regal halls, the rich carving, the tapestries and the general riot of grandeur of the most sumptuous private palace in America if not in the world.

It was the first time the grand ball-room has fulfilled the purpose of its creation in three years. The ball was in honor of the son, a mere boy at college, but heir to $50,000,000.

Only inferentially was the grand ball to celebrate the engagement of this lad to marry. The bride to be—at least everybody considered her the bride to be—Miss Elsie French, was not among the guests. She is at present abroad with her mother.

There was, however, a prospective Vanderbilt bride among the merry-makers. Miss Fair, the betrothed of young Willie K. Vanderbilt, a nephew of the house, attracted more attention than the pictures, the flowers and the music. When she danced, the eyes of the exclusive multitude were upon her. The story had been generally circulated and was generally believed that the grand resumption of Vanderbilt hospitality would also mark a reconciliation in the family, but Cornelius junior and his wife were not there.

There were two separate dinners served during the evening. The first, a buffet luncheon for the older people, was spread in the dining saloon, but the young people's dinner was served everywhere. Tables were spread for convenient little parties in the halls, the picture galleries and the many beautiful smaller rooms, and there the young people ate and drank at their ease.

The cotillon began at 1 o'clock in the morning. It was led by Worthington Whitehouse and Lida Vanderbilt Sloane, the daughter of Mrs. Douglas Sloane. The favors were varied and gorgeous enough to be in keeping with the magnificence of the rest of it.

There were Venetian lanterns on stands as high as a small woman's head, tambourines for the ladies, sashes of silver, whips and canes and boutonnières and good luck trophies. A most beautiful picture was that presented by the dancers, decked with their trophies, in that fairy cavern of a ballroom.

It was the court ball of the richest set of the richest city in the world, and the women had dressed for it as they had probably never dressed for a ball in New York. They were a-glitter with gems, and the white flashes of diamonds and the red and green gleams of rubies and emeralds answered back the challenge of the electric lights that shone from the frieze and corruscated from the giant candelabra.

The guests entered at the Fifty-eighth street entrance under the porte cochere, which admitted them to the main hall.

Relieved of their wraps, they burst like butterflies from a chrysalis, and in all their glory swarmed up the stately winding staircase to the water color room. There Mrs. Vanderbilt received her guests alone. The water color room is in the style of Louis XVI. On the walls are the soft beauties from the brushes of Madeleine Lemaire, Childe Hassam, Pizarro, Claude Mottet, Domingo, Burne-Jones and Abbey.

From the water color room the progress was direct to the ballroom, a stately chamber, the most beautiful dancing apartment in any private residence in America. It is 65 feet long, as wide as an ordinary city lot, and the ceiling is 35 feet above the floor.

The ceiling is one grand panel framed in gold and suspended five or six feet above the side walls. In the frieze on the top of the wall are the hidden electric lights. In the four corners are great clusters of other lights, rising in great lilylike bouquets.

The musicians' bay, at the end of the room opposite the entrance, was occupied by the Lander orchestra and the Nahan Franko orchestra, which alternated in the music. During supper the orchestras rendered selections from "Hurly Burly," Stromberg; "Runaway Girl," Caryl; "Carmen," Bizet, and "Serenade," Herbert.—Special Philadelphia Press.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Trades council will hold an important meeting this evening.

Knowles, Taylor & Knowles yesterday mailed 700 handsome calendars to their customers.

The street force yesterday cleaned
Walnut street, and are busy today cleaning the principal streets.

Mrs. G. Y. Travis is in Toronto
where she was called by the serious illness of her father, Amos Aiken.

Charles Frey and Hugh McCarron returned today to Marion, Ind., after spending several weeks in the city visiting relatives.

Edward Dobbs, of Hallsville, Ind., arrived in the city yesterday. He will take a position in one of the river pot-
teries.

A new lamp has been placed in the window of the ticket office at the passenger station. It is an improvement
that has been long needed.

Doctor Crawford is somewhat improved today. He slept well last night,
and his physician now believes he is
well on the way to recovery.

The damage caused by the storm of
last Saturday to the telephone wires in this section has been repaired and the system is again in good working order.

The floors of several stalls at the fire station were replaced yesterday. The floors are of wood and are rendered useless after horses stand on them several months.

A large number of operative potters
are out of the city at present, visiting friends until they receive word as to the time when work will begin in the potteries.

Engineer Hunt, of trains 835 and 836,
is ill at his home in Cleveland suffering
from the effects of a dental operation.
His condition is such that his friends
think he cannot recover.

A small boy who was hanging to the
steps of a street car was thrown at the junction of Washington and Sixth streets this morning. He was not badly hurt, but went away crying.

The scarcity of houses in the city continues. One family recently moved here
from Wellsville, where they went three weeks ago because they could not find a place of abode in Liverpool.

Evangelist Nash, who will arrive
Friday to conduct a week's services at
the Young Men's Christian association,
Sunday evening will occupy the pulpit
of the First Presbyterian church.

Engineer Thomas Moore, of the Cleveland and Pittsburg freight department, has been granted several weeks
vacation. He left for a short trip
through the east yesterday afternoon.

The petition asking the board of par-
cens to recommend the release from the centenary of Jesse McGregor has been liberally signed in Wellsville, and it is said a number of local people have
added their names.

This morning a crowd of boys from East End, about 15 in number, with 45
dogs left for the country where they went for the purpose of chasing rabbits.
The boys had no firearms with them
and only went on the trip for the fun
they would obtain.

It is learned from an absolutely reliable source that four or five capitalists
of the city yesterday took an option on the C. Metsch property, the price asked being $35,000. The parties are very anxious to secure the land, and it is probable the deal will be closed in a few days. It is not known what they wish
to do with the property.

The three cars which were ordered
from a Buffalo firm recently by the street railway company, arrived at the power house early this morning. They were taken from the cars at the lower freight depot, and from there to the power house. The cars are unlike any
now in use on the line, being painted yellow and lettered in red. They will be equipped with motors immediately.

Cornelius Senior Entertains In Honor of His Second Son.

WEALTH AND BEAUTY THERE.

One o'clock Cotillon Led by Worth-
ington Whitehouse and Mrs. Harry
Payne Whitney—Women Blaze
With Jewels—Two Dinners Were Served—First Vanderbilt Ball In Three Years.

The Vanderbilt ball the other night
in New York was an affair of stately grandeur. There were 500 guests in the Fifth avenue palace, and 500 richer,
better dressed or handsomer men and women were never gathered under one roof.

The mansion was displayed in all its lavish magnificence. The guests trod
upon carpets that have felt the feet of oriental royalty; they dined off plate
that might have come from the wedding chest of a princess with a fairy
godmother; they looked upon paintings
the least of which represented more than a poor man earns in a lifetime of labor.

Magnificence was the watchword of
the occasion. It is not often the Vanderbilts entertain, but when they do the tale is worth the telling. The half thousand who were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt were a fitting company for the regal halls, the rich
carving, the tapestries and the general
riot of grandeur of the most sumptuous
world.

It was the first time the grand ballroom has fulfilled the purpose of its creation in three years. The ball was
in honor of the son, a mere boy at college, but heir to $50,000,000.

Only inferentially was the grand ball
to celebrate the engagement of this lad
to marry. The bride to be—at least everybody considered her the bride to be
—Miss Elsie French, was not among
the guests. She is at present abroad
with her mother.

There was, however, a prospective
Vanderbilt bride among the merrymakers. Miss Fair, the betrothed of young Willie K. Vanderbilt, a nephew of the house, attracted more attention than
the pictures, the flowers and the music.
When she danced, the eyes of the exclusive multitude were upon her. The story had been generally circulated and
was generally believed that the grand resumption of Vanderbilt hospitality
would also mark a reconciliation in the family, but Cornelius junior and his wife were not there.

There were two separate dinners served during the evening. The first, a buffet luncheon for the older people,
was spread in the dining saloon, but
the young people's dinner was served everywhere. Tables were spread for convenient little parties in the halls,
the picture galleries and the many beautiful smaller rooms, and there the young people ate and drank at their ease.

The cotillon began at 1 o'clock in the morning. It was led by Worthington
Whitehouse and Lida Vanderbilt
Sloane, the daughter of Mrs. Douglas Sloane. The favors were varied and gorgeous enough to be in keeping with
the magnificence of the rest of it.

There were Venetian lanterns on
stands as high as a small woman's head,
tambourines for the ladies, sashes of silver, whips and canes and boutonniere
and good luck trophies. A most beautiful picture was that presented by the
dancers, decked with their trophies, in
that fairy cavern of a ballroom.

It was the court ball of the richest
set of the richest city in the world, and
the women had dressed for it as they had probably never dressed for a ball in New York. They were a-glitter with gems, and the white flashes of diamonds
and the red and green gleams of rubies
and emeralds answered back the challenge of the electric lights that shone
from the frieze and corruscated from
the giant candelabra.

The guests entered at the Fifty-eighth
street entrance under the porte cochere,
which admitted them to the main hall.

Relieved of their wraps, they burst
like butterflies from a chrysalis, and in all their glory swarmed up the stately
winding staircase to the water color
room. There Mrs. Vanderbilt received her guests alone. The water color room
is in the style of Louis XVI. On the walls are the soft beauties from the
brushes of Madeleine Lemaire, Childe
Hassam, Pizarro, Claude Mottet, Do-
mingo, Burne-Jones and Abbey.

From the water color room the progress was direct to the ballroom, a stately chamber, the most beautiful dancing
apartment in any private residence in America. It is 65 feet long, as wide as an ordinary city lot, and the ceiling is 35 feet above the floor.

The ceiling is one grand panel framed
the top of the wall are the hidden electric lights. In the four corners are great clusters of other lights, rising in
great lilylike bouquets.

The musicians' bay, at the end of the
room opposite the entrance, was occupied by the Lander orchestra and the Nahan Franko orchestra, which alternated in the music. During supper the orchestras rendered selections from

"Hurly Burly," Stromberg; "Runaway Girl," Carly; "Carmen," Bizet, and
"Serenade," Herbert.—Special Philadelphia Press.

NAVAL BILL PASSED.

Amendment Abolishing Prize Money Was Added—Marine Corps Increased.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The house
passed the naval personnel bill. By its provisions the line and the engineer
corps are welded into an amalgamated
line; staff officers are given positive
rank, but their command is limited to their own corps and a system of voluntary and compulsory retirement on
three-quarters pay as next higher rank
of 40 officers a year is established,
which is designed to remove the congestion in the lower rank at 45. The bill also practically equalizes their pay
with that of army officers. One amendment creates a judge advocate corps,
another abolishes prize money and a third provides for the retirement on
three-quarters pay of enlisted men and petty officers in the navy after 30 years'
service.

A substitute for the organization of
the marine corps was adopted, by which
the corps is to consist of 6,000 enlisted
men and petty officers, with general
officers and staff. This will increase the marine corps by 1,300 men and increase the cost of its maintenance
$1,500,000.

CANAL BILL CONSIDERED.

The Rawlins Amendment Defeated In
the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Almost the entire session of the senate was devoted to consideration of the pending Nicaragua canal bill. Speeches were made in support of the measure by Mr. Chil-
ton (Tex.) and Mr. Turner (Wash.),
and in opposition to it by Mr. Spooner
(Wis.).

The first vote reached was on an amendment offered by Mr. Rawlins (Utah), which in brief provided that the United States should have absolute
control of the canal for military or naval purposes with power to dictate the
use of the waterway during the existence of war. It was defeated by a vote of 38 to 9. A provision was inserted in the bill providing that no more than $5,000,000 should be paid the Maritime Canal company for its concession and work already done on the canal. When adjournment was taken the substitute
measure offered by Mr. Caffery (La.)
was before the senate.

Eagan's Testimony Toned Down.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The war investigating commission decided to make public the amended statement filed by Commissary General Eagan. The commission permitted the representatives of the press to read the statement and
it was formally announced to the newspaper men that General Eagan had
eliminated all objectionable statements,
and therefore the document would be accepted officially by the commission as evidence.

A HALL OF CHRIST.

Plan to Be Inaugurated by Chautauqua
Trustees—Helen Gould Contributed $5,000.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 18.—Business of
much importance to the friends of the great Chautauqua movement will be transacted at the annual meeting of
the trustees of the assembly in this city tonight. One thing decided upon
will be the removal of the headquarters to Cleveland. Hereafter all the publications, including The Chautauquan, will be issued in this city.

One of the projects that is to be undertaken at the assembly ground next summer is the erection of the building to be called the Hall of Christ, for which Miss Helen Gould contributed $5,000. The structure, which is to be of brick and terra cotta, will stand upon
an eminence in the grounds.

The hall will be emblematic of the Savior and will illustrate the different events in his life. In the apex will be a colossal figure of Christ. The cost of the structure will be $25,000.

The committee in charge of the project met and perfected the report that is to be submitted to the trustees tonight. It consisted of Bishop J. H.
Vincent, William Thomas of Meadville,
Pa., E. G. Lisenberry of Portville, N.
Y., and F. W. Hyde of Jamestown,
N. Y.

BRYAN VISITED DENVER.

The Colonel Spoke to Legislators and
at a Big Meeting.

DENVER, Jan. 18.—Colonel William
J. Bryan made two public speeches in Denver, both of which were listened to
by audiences only limited by the capacity of the auditoriums. The first was in the hall of the house of representatives, to which only those who had tickets were admitted. The other was
at Coliseum hall.

After this address to the legislature
Mr. and Mrs. Bryan repaired to the residence of Governor Thomas, where they were entertained at dinner, to
which half a dozen of the leading
Democrats of the state, including ex-
Governors Grant and Adams, and a number of ladies, were guests.

There were about 5,000 persons in Coliseum hall and probably as many more on the outside pressing for admission.

Introduced by Lentz.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Representative Lentz of Ohio introduced a resolution providing for the discharge of such volunteers as entered the service for the war with Spain. It also provides
that troops to the number of 13,000 may
be raised among the natives of the islands acquired by the United States.

ATKINSON GOT A BOOST.

Third District People Boomed the Governor For Senator.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 18.—The
governor and the state senate have not formally recognized the house as being organized and ready for business. The senate adjourned before the house committee had an opportunity to notify it
of that fact and no message of any character has yet been sent to the house
by the governor.

A large and representative gathering
of business men of the two districts,
but who reside chiefly in the Kanawha
valley, was held, J. L. Henry of Ray-
ette presided and Alexander McVeigh
Miller of Monroe was secretary. Speeches
were made in which the principal
statement was that Governor Atkinson was a native of Kanawha and
had grown to manhood here and the Third district was proud to claim him
as her own. Resolutions were adopted
endorsing him in unmeasured terms as
the candidate of the people, irrespective
of locality or politics.

President McKinley Wrote to Congress
Regarding Rescue of Whalers.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—President Mc-Kinley sent a message to congress recounting as "another glorious page in the history of American seamen" the
valorous deeds of the officers and men
of the revenue cutter Bear in rescuing
the imperiled whaling fleet in Arctic
waters last year.

The president concluded by asking
the thanks of congress to the officers
and men of the party, with gold medals
of honor to those of the overland expedition, and $2,500 for the bestowal of rewards to W. T. Lopp and native
herders who aided the relief expedition.

Mayor Taggart Heard of a Launch
Stranded on an Island.

MOBILE, Jan. 18.—Thomas Taggart,
mayor of Indianapolis, who is here, received a telegram from Fort Morgan
saying a report had reached there that
a launch had been seen stranded on Dauphin island, at the entrance to Mobile bay.

Mr. Taggart at once ordered a boat sent to investigate. It is not known
what time the boat left Fort Morgan.
Fort Morgan is 35 miles from this
city.

Mr. Taggart has a daughter on the missing pleasure launch Paul Jones.

To Fight the Treaty.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The Democratic opponents of the peace treaty
were in conference several hours devising ways and means for conducting
their contest. They resolved to insist upon an amendment placing the Philippines on the same footing in their relation to the United States as Cuba, and
to make a persistent fight if this concession was not granted.

THE FOURTH PAID.

Mustering Out of Coit's Command Commenced.

DEDUCTION WAS NOT MADE.

Acting Paymaster General Carey Sent an Order to Major Guild Not to Do It—A Decision Modified by Comptroller Tracewell.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18.—The Fourth Ohio was paid at noon and mustered out. The men were paid in full. Major Guild, the paymaster here, having received the following order from Acting Paymaster General Carey:

"No stoppage or deduction will be made in soldiers' pay on account of any payment made to him by the governor of a state or state authorities as a militiaman before his acceptance into volunteer service of the United States. Deductions required by general order No. 1 of 1898 should not be made."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Comptroller Tracewell of the treasury has modified a former decision regarding the pay of volunteer soldiers, in which he held that:

"No deductions should be made by the pay department from the pay that would be due a soldier under the act of July 7, 1898, on account of any payment that may have been made under the state militia law to him by the governor or state authorities from the date of his enrollment or joining for duty to the date of his acceptance into the volunteer army of the United States."

"The governor or state authorities make this payment to him as a state soldier, and because congress has seen fit by the act of July 8, 1898, to reimburse the governor or state for these payments is no sufficient reason for the government, by indirection, to take away from the soldier what had been paid him by a state, and no sufficient reason why the act of July 7, 1898 should be evaded."

SHERIFF LAW UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

State Supreme Court Ousts All of the Interim Appointees.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18.—The Ohio supreme court declared unconstitutional the law changing the time of commencement of term of sheriffs from January to September on the ground that the legislature has no power to provide an interval between the term of a sheriff and the one elected to succeed him.

The decision affirms the title of the duly-elected sheriffs, ousting all appointees for the interim. The law has caused confusion in nearly every county and in some a conflict between the newly elected sheriff and his predecessor who sought to hold over until September.

Wished He Could Punish Powell Too.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 18.—Wallace Bennett and his wife who, it was claimed, "badgered" several men out of money, among them William Powell, a New York traveling man, were fined $200 each and sentenced to serve six months in the workhouse by Judge Fiedler, at the Central police court. In passing sentence the judge said: "I do not wish to be misunderstood when I sentence these people. It is not to satisfy Powell; it is to satisfy society. So far as Powell is concerned, I am sorry that I can not punish him."

A PEACEFUL OPENING.

Joint Convention of Operators and Miners Convened.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 18.—A show of good feeling attended the opening of the second annual joint convention of coal operators and miners at Carnegie hall, Allegheny. M. D. Ratchford, the retiring president of the United Mine Workers of America, called the convention to order. He said that peace and good feeling had prevailed thus far under the Chicago agreement, and expressed the hope that the contract would be renewed at the present conference on such terms as to continue this condition and avoid all strikes.

As a representative of the miners he nominated Operator Alexander Dempster of Pittsburgh as permanent chairman of the joint convention. Operator S. M. Dalzell of Illinois seconded the nomination and Mr. Dempster was elected unanimously.

As the well-known Pittsburgh operator came forward to take his proper place in the convention Mr. Ratchford extended his hand and congratulated him, while the convention applauded. Mr. Dempster stated his appreciation of the honor, and expressed the hope that peace would follow the conference.

MINERS ELECTED OFFICERS.

Mitchell Chosen President and Davis Vice President.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 18.—The miners' convention elected these officers:

Ill.; George W. Purcen, Terre Haute, Ind.; W. R. Fairley, Pratt City, Ala. Delegates to the American Federation of Labor Convention—John Mitchell, Indianapolis, Ind.; W. C. Pearce, Indianapolis, Ind.; John M. Hunter, Streator, Ill.; Fred Ditcher, Nelsonville, O. Alternates, William Warner, Pittsburg; Patrick Dolan, Pittsburg; J. H. Kennedy, Terre Haute, Ind.; William Dods, Pittsburg.

LIBRARIAN YOUNG DEAD.

Died at His Residence in Washington From Bright's Disease and Complications and Overwork.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—John Russell Young, librarian of the congressional library, died at his residence here after an illness of several weeks.

There were with him at his death Mrs. Young, Berkeley Young, his son; Dr. Frear, his physician, and Ralph J. Meeker, one of the old newspaper friends of the librarian.

Dr. Frear, the attending physician, made a brief written statement that death was due to "acute Bright's disease, with complications. Overwork and too much brain work."

John Russell Young was born in Downingtown, Chester county, Pa., Nov. 20, 1841. The family moved to Philadelphia and he was educated in the public schools of that city. Later he went to New Orleans, where an uncle lived, and continued his school work in the New Orleans high school. Returning to Philadelphia he secured a place on the Philadelphia Press in 1857 as copy boy, and from this dated his newspaper work. When John W. Forney came to Washington in 1861, to become secretary of the senate, he brought along Young, who, by that time, had become a fluent writer. While acting as Colonel Forney's private secretary Mr. Young continued his writings to the Philadelphia Press, and it was by his description of the first battle of Bull Run that he won his spurs as a war correspondent, at which he continued for a time.

On returning he became managing editor of the Philadelphia Press, which he resigned in 1865 to start The Morning Post, which, however, was not a success.

In 1866 Young became managing editor of the New York Tribune. At that time Young was only 25 years old. His leisure time he devoted to the study of the law, and in 1867 was admitted to the bar in New York city. In 1870 he again tried the establishment of a newspaper of his own, this time The Standard. About this time, however, Secretary of the Treasury Boutwell induced Young to go abroad to attend to financial affairs. While abroad on this mission the awful days of the Paris commune occurred and Mr. Young's account of the rise and fall of the commune, and of the stirring days through which the French capital passed is regarded as one of the best examples of English descriptive writing.

In 1872 he became the European representative of the New York Herald and spent two years in London and Paris and another year in work and travel on the continent. In 1877 Grant started upon his memorable trip around the world, and on his invitation Mr. Young joined the party. After the return Mr. Young wrote "Around the World with General Grant."

During this trip Mr. Young was specially interested in China, to which country President Arthur sent him in 1881 as United States minister. He remained in China until the opening of the first Cleveland administration, when he returned to this country and engaged in literary and business pursuits.

When the new library of congress was completed, President McKinley named Mr. Young on July 1, 1897, as librarian, which place he retained until his death.

The funeral will be held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at St. John's Episcopal church in this city. The service will be rendered by Rev. Alexander Mackay-Smith. The interment will be in Washington and will be private.

SOLDIER MAY DIE.

Private Hughes Understood to Have Been Found Guilty by a Courtmartial.

HAVANA, Jan. 18.—The trial of private Joseph Buckley, Company E, Second Louisiana volunteers, for the killing of private John D. Hughes of the same company on January 7, was concluded at Mariano. It is understood that the finding of the court is for the death of the accused, but the verdict will not be announced until it has been reviewed in the usual way. In answering Buckley's plea of insanity the prosecution brought forward officers of the regiment and Buckley's comrades, who testified that his behavior prior to the killing had shown no signs that he was mentally unbalanced.

Of the four hundred policemen who have been provisionally accepted for service in Havana in the reconstituted force no fewer than one hundred, it is said, are Spaniards. Chief of Police Menocal has decided to appoint his three brothers as inspectors.

QUAY AGAINST FIELD.

Losch and Shaw of the Anti-Quayites Voted For Quay—All Democrats Except Timlin Cast Their Ballots For Jenks. Anti-Quayites Divided Votes.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 18.—The end of the first day's fight in the battle for United States senator leaves the result very much in doubt. It is Senator Quay against the field and the indications are that there will be a deadlock lasting some days at least. The Republicans are divided between Mr. Quay and eight "favorite sons," and the Democrats are united on George A. Jenks. The senate and house voted separately and they will take a ballot today in joint session.

There was no election and should the ballot show no election today the balloting will continue daily until election is made. Senator Quay's total strength in both houses was 112 votes, 16 less than the number necessary to elect on joint ballot assuming that the full membership of 254 is present, a condition that does not seem possible, as there are several on the sick list now.

The first ballot showed that there was practically no break in the line of either of the Republican factions. Of the original signers to the anti-Quay pledge Senator Samuel A. Losch of Schuylkill and Representative John I. Shaw of Allegheny voted for Senator Quay. Representative Frank L. Snyder of Luzerne, who was too ill to qualify when the legislature organized, took his seat. He was claimed by both factions and pleased neither by voting for Alvin Markle, the Hazleton millionaire coal operator and banker.

The 51 Republican senators and members who signed the second anti-Quay pledge voted as they promised. Representative Clinton Rogers Woodruff of Philadelphia, who was opposed to Senator Quay, but declined to act with his opponents, voted for President Judge Charles E. Rice of the superior court. This made 52 votes which the anti-Quay leaders claim Senator Quay cannot get while he is a candidate. Representative Timlin (Dem.) of Lackawanna, cast his ballot for Superior Court Judge Peter P. Smith of Scranton. He was the only Democrat who failed to vote for Jenks, the party choice.

The essence of the situation is that so long as the anti-Quay Republicans are united and the Democrats vote for Jenks, Senator Quay cannot be re-elected. His friends are confident, however, that he will steadily gain votes after today, while the leaders of the other side are just as confident that he has reached the high-water mark. Governor Stone is the senator's friend and is aiding him in his campaign. The senator is on the ground managing his canvass, and expects to stay during the early stages of the contest.

The anti-Quay Republican senators and members agreed to meet daily until the fight is settled. They are divided on congressmen Dalzell and Stone and other independent Republicans. Their leaders say it is too early to concentrate on one candidate against Senator Quay. There does not seem to be any prospects of a combination between the anti-Quay Republicans and the Democrats on the senatorship. Although not a single vote was cast in either house for Senator Chris L. Magee of Pittsburg, he is regarded as a most important factor in the contest.

He has for years been opposed to Senator Quay's control of the state, but he declined to stay away from the Republican caucus, of which he was made the nominee, and voted for him during the balloting. The Pittsburg senator and his friends took part in the caucus and showed their opposition to Mr. Quay by voting for B. F. Jones of Pittsburg. Before the vote was announced Mr. Magee moved to make Senator Quay's nomination unanimous. The motion carried, and the Pittsburg senator has since abided by the decision of the caucus. This has made him popular with the friends of Senator Quay and did not apparently diminish his popularity with the anti-Quay Republicans. Many of Senator Magee's friends in both factions are predicting that their favorite will be chosen to succeed Senator Quay in the event of it being demonstrated that the latter cannot win.

When the senate met Lieutenant Governor Gobin announced that agreeable to the constitution the chamber must proceed with the election of a United States senator. The chamber was crowded to suffocation. The balloting resulted as follows: Matthew Stanley Quay of Beaver, 27; George A. Jenks of Jefferson, 12; John Dalzell of Pittsburg, 3; George A. Huff of Westmoreland, 1; Charles Emory Smith of Philadelphia, 1; Colonel E. A. Irwin of Clearfield, 1; Charles W. Stone of Warren, 1; John Stewart of Franklin, 1.

The members lined up as follows: For Quay—Messrs. Brown of Philadelphia, Brown of Lawrence, Brown of Westmoreland, Crawford, Cummings, Eby, Gibson, Grady, Hardenburg, Hertzier, Hummel, Losch, McCarrell, Magee, Meredith, Merrick, Mitchell of Bradford, Mitchell of Jefferson, Muehlbronner, Osborn, Scott of Luzerne, Scott of Philadelphia, Snyder, Stinson, Stober, Vare and Vaughan—total 27.

For Jenks—Messrs. Boyd, Cochran, Haines; Heine, Kemmerer, Lee, Miller of Berks, Miller of Cumberland, Neeley, Stiles, Washburn and Wentz—total 12.

For Dalzell—Messrs. Flynn, Henry and Marlin—total 3.

For Huff—Mr. Rice.

For Smith—Mr. Sproul.

For Colonel Irwin—Mr. Holzworth.

For Stone—Mr. Weller.

For Judge Stewart—Mr. Chisholm.

Matthew S. Quay—Ackerman, Adams, Ebnzer, Adams, James W. Aliman, Baldwin, Bare, Bricker, Britton, Cassel, Chew, Christian, Clark, Colville, Crittenden, Dempsey, Fahey, Garvin, Gransback, Harris, Heidelberg, Henderson, Hersch, Hossack, Hoskins, Koper, Keyser, Klump, Kreps, Leard, Lewis, Lloyd, McAnlis, McClain, McConnell, McFarlane, McLarn, McNeess, McWhinney, MacIver, Mackey, Marshall, Meads, Meyer, Miller, Milliken, Morrison, Mulkie, Murdock, Nisbet, Noblit, Parshall, Peoples, Reitzel, Richmond, Riebel, Robison, Rutherford, Salter, Schoffstall, Scheur, Scott, Seal, Seidel, Selby, Shaw, Simon, Slater, Smith, Albert, M., Srodes, Stevens, Stubb, Thompson, Horace J., Tiffany, Todd, Towler, Turner, Voorhees, Weaver, Whittingham, Williams, Wilson, Henry J.; Yates, Youngson, Zerbe, Farr (speaker)—total, 85.

George Jenks, Democrat—Anderson, Boyle, Brooks, Brown, Brown, E. Brown, Thomas; Burnett, Castner, Chrisman, Constain, Craig, Cressy, Christie, Cutshall, Dayarnon, Dixon, Doty, Drase, Dumbauld, Engler, Fay, Fisher, Foster, Fow, Grover, Guenther, Haag, Hasson, Heil, Hersch, Hock, Hoy, Johnson, Kayler, Kegan, Kessler, Kramlich, Larzelore, Lingie, McAndrews, Macomber, Maloney, Manning, Miller, B. Frank; Moyer, Myers, Nafzinger, Noecker, O'Brien, Osler, Palm, Pratt, Ralston, Reiff, Rosenberry, Roth, Rothrock, Sheridan, Shutt, Skinner, Smith, John H.; Smith, Jos. W.; Smith, Sylvester; Spalz, Squier, Sterner, Stewart, Samuel E.; Stranahan, Thompson, John H.; Tighe, Wetzel—total, 70.

John Dalzell—Dindinger, Edmiston, Edwards, Fetterolf, Ford, Foster, McCandless, McElhany, Manley, Moore, Stradling, Wilkinson and Winner—total, 13.

Charles W. Stone—Caldwell, Keater, Kendall, Norton, Shone, Shane, Stall, Stewart and William F. Wadsworth—total, 9.

John Stewart—Abrams, Allen, Bliss, Clarence, Jeffries, Koontz, Nyce and Rendall—total, 8.

George F. Huff—Hargrave, Reed, Savage, and William Wilson—total, 4.

Charles E. Rice—Coray, Woodruff—total 2.

Alvin Markle—Snyder.

Charles Tubbs—Laubach, Martin, Smith, Frederick B.; Young—total 4.

Gausha A. Grow—Robb.

Peter P. Smith, Democrat—Timlin.

E. A. Irwin—Alexander, Linton—total 2.

Absent and not voting—Brophy, Cole, Dutera, Harold—total 4.

Necessary to a choice, 101.

Of the members marked absent and not voting, the first three are Democrats and the fourth Republican.

The house adjourned after the speaker had announced the result of the vote until 11 o'clock today.

Willing to Throw His Strength to Any One Who Can Beat Quay.

BRADFORD, Jan. 18.—Hon. George A. Jenks, who had been looking after the interests of one of his clients in the court of McKean county, left this evening for Harrisburg. In a chat with a reporter Mr. Jenks expressed himself in favor of the fusion idea in his senatorial fight.

"If the Democrats and anti-Quay Republicans stand together in this contest," he said, "I believe Quay can be defeated. I will go to Harrisburg and if I find that any one of the various candidates can muster enough strength to overcome the Quay vote, I will certainly throw my strength to such candidate. I believe that it is my duty to the state and the country to do this."

TROOPS ABOARD TRANSPORT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Amid the waving of handkerchiefs and general farewells the United States army transport Grant, with Major General W. Lawton and 1,800 troops on board, bound for Manila, pulled out from pier 22, East river, Brooklyn, last night and proceeded to a point off Liberty island, where she dropped anchor to remain until today.

General Robert A. Hall of the Fourth regiment will be in command of all the troops on board the transport, Major General Lawton and his staff going as passengers. A few of the men on board managed to obtain a short leave of absence and two of them failed to return within the time limit. They were taken in custody by the police of the Fifty-third precinct and brought to the vessel in a patrol wagon.

They were given in charge of the corporal of the guard and consigned to the guardroom at once.

General Lawton arrived about the same hour, and was followed soon after by the members of his staff. There were four Red Cross nurses aboard.

Members of the house and senate committees, Adjutant General Corbin and several other army officers reached the city early this morning, boarded the Grant and made a thorough inspection.

Gift to Copenhagen.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 18.—Carl Jacobsen, the well-known brewer, notified the municipal authorities here of his intention to present the city with his splendid collection of art treasures, valued at over 5,000,000 crowns ($1,750,000) on condition that a suitable building is provided for their care and display.

ARREST FOR EAGAN.

An Army Officer to Serve Notice on Him Today.

HE WILL BE COURT MARTIALED.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The president announced to the cabinet that he had decided to order a courtmartial to try Commissary General Eagan for the abusive and violent language he had used respecting Major General Nelson A. Miles while on the witness stand before the war investigating commission last Thursday.

Before the cabinet session he held a conference with the secretary of war and Adjutant General Corbin. It was not long in duration, but the action to follow General Eagan's utterances was decided and when the cabinet met the president announced that he had reached his decision in the matter. He said he had determined that there was only one course to adopt and that was to order a courtmartial to be convened at once to try General Eagan. The decision met the unanimous approval of the members of the cabinet. Three of the president's official advisers, Secretary Alger, Secretary Wilson and Postmaster General Emory Smith, were absent, but in each instance their views are known to coincide thoroughly with the president's decision.

The mention of General Merritt's name as probable president of the court was due to the fact that he is the only available major general of the regular army, the others being General Brooke in Cuba and General Miles here, neither regarded as available. The friends of General Merritt are hoping that he will not be elected, fearing that he will be accused of prejudice by one or perhaps both sides. The penalty for the offense with which General Eagan probably will be tried, conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman, is one of the most severe known in the army, being dismissal.

Prior to the cabinet meeting General Miles made a rather unusual call upon two members of the cabinet, Secretaries Hay and Long. He had just returned to the city from New York and when spoken to with reference to the Eagan case adhered to his original declaration that this was not a time for him to act, if at all, leaving the implication that if the commission did not act, or the administration, it would then be time for him to take some step.

The commissary general, prior to the cabinet meeting, said that he was prepared to accept loyally whatever action the president might decide to take.

Secretary Alger confirmed the announcement made by members of the cabinet that a courtmartial for the trial of Commissary General Charles P. Eagan would be ordered.

He made this statement as he was leaving the White House, with Adjutant General Corbin, after a conference of half an hour with the president. As to the charges to be preferred against the commissary general, the secretary declined to say anything nor would he talk respecting the personnel of the court, adding that this would be announced tonight about 9 o'clock. General Eagan has not yet been relieved of his duties in anticipation of his prospective trial, but it is understood that the order for his arrest preparatory to trial will of itself carry with it his relief from official duties. It was said at the war department that the order for arrest may be served on General Eagan by an officer of the army some time during the official day today.

QUIET IN PHILIPPINES.

General Otis Cabled Good News—McKinley's Commission Named.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Advices were received from Manila that the situation on the islands is very quiet.

At Iloilo affairs are progressing satisfactorily, and a gratifying fact reported in the cablegram was that the officers aboard our ships and the individual insurgents were fraternizing freely on shore, and that there was no sign of trouble.

President McKinley announced during the session that he had finally passed on the personnel of the commission to visit and report on the Philippine islands as follows: Messrs. Schurmann, Dewey, Otis, Denby and Worcester.

New United States Senators.

Weather Forecast.

Western Pennsylvania and Ohio—Threatening, followed by fair; much colder; brisk northerly winds.

BIG PRICES OFFERED

Investors Have Now Turned to Fifth Street.

Some One Was After the Kitchel Property, and a Good Offer Was Made For the Home of Henry C. Deidrick—Another Wanted the Fisher Block.

The parties who are after local real estate continue to select what land they want in the business section and offer large prices, but to the present it has not been learned that any deal of considerable proportions has been made.

From a reliable source it is learned that within a week an offer was made to purchase the residence property of F. D. Kitchel in Fifth street at a price not far from $14,000. The offer was promptly refused. At the same time some one decided he wanted the property owned by Henry C. Deidrick in the same street, and tendered $10,000. This offer too was refused. The last of the list is the Fisher block for which $26,000 was offered, but the deal was not consummated, as it is understood it is not in the market.

The names of the parties who are back of this movement cannot be learned, further than that they are local capitalists who have idle money and desire to put it in real estate.

BASE CONDUCT.

Creatures of This Character Will Win Sure Reward.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW—There are two married men now residing in East Liverpool who are posing as unmarried men, and who have been and are now paying attention to ladies of good repute and respectability, the ladies in question being unaware of the true condition of affairs. In my estimation, such men are plain, everyday scoundrels, and there should be some law on the docket by and through which hot punishment should be meted out to the cowards. It would be the very essence of righteous judgment to have the wives of these poltroons appear upon the scene of action and make public exposure of the fellows, so that the great mass of our people, always in favor of the right in such emergencies, could deal out to the contemptible creatures the punishment they so richly deserve.

JUSTICE.

INSTALLED OFFICERS.

Captain McConnell's Staff Given Their Positions Last Night.

The Sons of Veterans met last evening, and the following members of Captain McConnell's staff were installed:

Chief of staff, George Obney; inspecting sergeant, Allen J. Hargreaves; sergeant of guard, S. J. Witherow; chief of guard, Joseph Heckathorn; color sergeant, Archie Searight; principal musician, W. H. Lyth; camp guard, Edward Kilmer; provost guard, William Shreeves.

John J. Rose was elected a member of the camp council, but the place of quartermaster was not filled.

On the River.

Some rain fell in the upper valleys last night, and this will cause the river to remain at a good stage for some days. Much colder weather than that of today is predicted, and it is difficult to tell just what effect this will have on the river. The boats on their way up are making fast trips in order that they may turn south on the present rise with tows.

The marks at the wharf this morning registered 21 feet and stationary.

Pleasant Events.

Prominent among the most pleasant events of the social season was the fancy work party given by Mrs. E. H. Sebring at her home in Sixth street yesterday afternoon. Almost 40 young ladies were present, and amusements other than that announced added materially to the pleasure of the occasion. A dainty lunch was served.

Mrs. Healy entertained a number of ladies in East End yesterday afternoon, and Mr. and Mrs. Healy had as their guests a large number of young people last evening. Whist served to pass the time pleasantly, the party being brought to the city after midnight by special car.

BABOON ON A MAD DRUNK.

Omaha Stage Wrecked, and Employees Flee For Their Lives.

People in the Creighton theater were treated to the spectacle of a big baboon in a drunken frenzy the other day. He was at liberty for 20 minutes, and during that time caused more damage about the arcade of the building and on the stage of the theater than three men could in that time. Three long pier mirrors in as many dressing rooms were broken by the beast. These mirrors were the objects of his special fury.

The baboon belonged to a performing troupe of dogs and monkeys. He is usually chained in a dressing room by himself. The other morning, when the stage hands, headed by Stage Manager Stewart, entered the stage they were confronted by the animal, who sprang at them. Not being able to bite, being heavily muzzled, the beast twined his arms about Stewart's legs and threw him down, and then jumped for the next man, Stage Carpenter Landon, but he fled through the door, with the baboon in hot pursuit. Landon dodged him, and the baboon entered the Lewis saloon through an arcade door.

As he jumped on to the bar the bartender fled. A bottle of whisky and two bottles of beer were on the bar. The baboon grasped them and fled into his dressing room. On the way he met Manager Rosenthal, who had come out of his office to see what the trouble was. A bottle of beer shied at Rosenthal's head caused him to run for safety. Instead of getting into his own room the baboon got into Miss Maud Bael Price's room, where he drank a portion of the whisky and threw the bottle through the mirror. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Milton Royle's room and that of Labelle Wilmas were next visited, and both the mirrors were broken and general havoc wrought with clothing and grease paints. The baboon had his own way until Professor Kart, who had been sent for, arrived. The drunken baboon was soon sleeping off his frolic with a towel about his head.—Chicago Record.

NEW FLYING MACHINE MAN.

C. E. Hite Thinks He Has Solved Problem in a Dirigible Balloon.

To a Philadelphian may fall the honor of solving the problem of aerial navigation. Charles E. Hite, a young inventor who has a laboratory in Philadelphia, believes he has even now a dirigible balloon that will travel in the air under perfect control. He says he believes it will revolutionize the methods of warfare and make the navies of the powers to all intents and purposes useless.

More than a year ago Mr. Hite experimented in relation to power applied to a series of disk fans as propellers. Contrary to certain theories and calculations, the efficiency of a fan as a propelling agent he found to be increased by inclosing the fan in the forward end of a tube of about the same length as the diameter, forcing the air backward through the tube.

Dr. W. P. Wilson of the Philadelphia museums, who saw Mr. Hite's experiments, remarked that he could see nothing to prevent the successful working of a practical machine, and he believes Mr. Hite will accomplish valuable results. Mr. Hite has nearly completed a machine of such size that it will carry four or five persons. This is now at his workshop in Trenton. Mr. Hite expects soon to make a trial of his balloon, assisted by Samuel A. King of Philadelphia.—Special New York Press.

FAST TIME BY ST. BERNARDS.

Welsh's Record Trip From Dawson to Skaguay by Dog Team.

The speediest winter trip by dog team from Dawson City to Skaguay has recently been accomplished by W. H. Welsh, who made it in 17 days with three St. Bernards. Some dashes made by this trio of snow racers were as follows: From Five Finger Rapids to Little Salmon, a distance of 50 miles, ten hours; from the foot of Lake La Barge to Canyon hotel, White Horse, 69 miles, 12 hours; from the foot of March lake to Caribou Crossing, 46 miles, one day, although they had to break trail all the way, and over the 30 long miles of Thirty-Mile river, ten hours.

A speed test was made on the ten miles from Lake Bennett to Log Cabin and over the roughest part of the trail. The distance was covered in 1 hour and 55 minutes.—New York Sun.

Skated Down a Cataract.

James Hindmarsh, aged 14 years, of Galt, Ont., had a frightful experience at noon the other day, and his escape from death was marvelous indeed. He was skating across the dam above the falls, with his coat opened as a sail, when he was blown by a strong wind, which sprung up suddenly, clear over the falls, descending in the cold, foaming river. The alarm was at once given, and two lads named Thomas Elliott and John Daniels ran to the water's edge at the upper bridge and, wading in the river up to their shoulders, caught Hindmarsh as he came floating down, half drowned and unconscious. His escape from death was a very close one.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

MILLIONAIRES IN THE SENATE

They Are Not Especially Numerous. Though the Higher Body Is Called Their Club—President's Inquiry Into How the News of Secretary Bliss' Resignation Got Out—Hotel of the Presidents.

The senate is popularly known as "the Millionaires' club," but when one gets down to the point of looking over carefully the list of senators not more than 15 out of the 90 require seven figures to indicate their actual wealth.

John P. Jones of Nevada is perhaps the richest man in the senate. The other millionaires are Hanna of Ohio, Aldrich of Rhode Island, Elkins of West Virginia, Hale of Maine, Wetmore of Rhode Island, Stewart of Nevada, Smith of New Jersey, Sewell of New Jersey, Platt of New York, Perkins of California, McMillan of Michigan, Mitchell of Wisconsin and possibly Fairbanks of Indiana.

A score or more of others are comfortably fixed, at least a dozen counting their earthly possessions up in the hundreds of thousands. But there are more poor men in the senate than rich. It may be that a senate seat is a purchasable commodity, but there are a number of men in the senate who if informed that the capitol were to be sold at auction couldn't hear the bell ring.

The president would like to know how the news of Secretary Bliss' retirement from the cabinet became public at the time it did. He had hoped to keep the matter quiet until a successor to the present secretary was found and so informed his cabinet family when Mr. Bliss' positive wish was made known. For at least a week after the resignation was handed in the secret was kept.

The day before the news of the resignation leaked out a correspondent, who had a private tip on the matter, asked a cabinet officer as to its authenticity. So careful was he to guard the secret well that he poo-pooed the suggestion and talked about the rumor in a humorous strain.

The following day the president and his cabinet started on their southern tour. When they awoke the next morning and the Atlanta papers were brought into the car, it was found that the fact that Mr. Bliss had asked leave to retire had been published. The president was among the first to see it. Members of the cabinet were seated around him, reading the news, when the president removed his glasses, and, looking around the car, said: "It's out. The newspapers have got on to Bliss' resignation." Then he squared himself in his chair, and, pointing his glasses at Secretary Gage, said jokingly:

"Speak up, Gage. What do you know about this?" The laugh went around, and the cabinet ministers all assured the president humorously that they had not "leaked." The president pointed to each man and asked for an explanation, but he was not enlightened. That put the laugh on the president, who was told that it would be impossible to keep such an important bit of news from the press.

In all the large cities of the country where a political pot boils the year round there is always some one hotel or barroom or clubhouse where politicians congregate. In New York, for instance, the Fifth Avenue hotel is known as political headquarters for the Republicans, while the Hoffman House is the meeting place of Democrats.

The Jefferson in Richmond, the Tremont in Boston, the Great Northern in Chicago, the Southern in St. Louis, the Brown Palace in Denver, the St. Charles in New Orleans, the Palace in San Francisco, the Portland in Portland, Or.; the Kimball in Atlanta, the Norris in Birmingham, Ryan's in St. Paul, the Burnett in Cincinnati, the Reed House in Chattanooga, the Peabody in Memphis, the Walton in Philadelphia, the Plankinton in Milwaukee—these are but a few of the most prominent hotels in the United States where a political atmosphere prevails.

The most noted political hotel in the country, apart from the old Fifth Avenue, is perhaps the Arlington, in Washington. For more than a quarter of a century this hotel has been famous throughout the country as the rendezvous of politicians, senators and representatives. It is known as the presidents' hotel, because every president in the past 20 years, save McKinley, has lived there during the three or four days prior to inauguration.

The lobby of the Arlington is always crowded after nightfall with legislators and camp followers of congress. A half dozen senators—Platt of Connecticut, Platt of New York, Smith of New Jersey, Aldrich of Rhode Island, Simon of Oregon and Wilson of Washington—live there, while a dozen or more representatives make this hotel their home during the sessions of congress.—Special New York World.

IT'S NEXT MONDAY NOW

Manufacturers Believe Work Will Then Begin.

OLD COMPACT PRICE ADOPTED

Circulars Were Mailed Yesterday Afternoon to All Concerns in the Combination Bearing Instructions Regarding Selling Rate.

The belief is general throughout the city that every pottery will be in operation next Monday.

"Everything points in that direction," said a well informed manufacturer this morning, "and I can see no reason why anyone should be disappointed. No definite instructions have come as yet, but they should not long be delayed. A glance over the situation will show you there is reason for the belief. Appraisements have been made, and, I understand, papers have been sent east covering almost all the potteries, while the others will soon be ready. There will be no start, in my opinion, until the settlement is made. But that should be done in a few days at farthest. Everybody expects it, and would not be surprised to see the order come at any time."

THE OLD LIST

Manufacturers Receive an Order From the Trust.

The managers of all potteries connected with the American Potteries company yesterday evening received an order regarding the future selling price of ware. It was in the form of a circular letter, and was mailed in this place.

The letter provides that ware shall be sold according to the schedule adopted by the White Granite association organized here last January. There are a few changes, but they are unimportant, the object of the management evidently being to stick to the old list as closely as possible.

The announcement at this time of the prices that are to prevail is taken as an indication that the day of starting is not far distant.

STILL AFRAID.

Trenton People, Not in the Pottery Deal, Fear Results.

The Crockery Journal seems to reflect upon the intelligence of Trenton when it says:

"The inhabitants of the old town of Trenton who are outside of the pottery deal wag their heads in a doubting way when the subject of trust and syndicate is up for discussion, and many of them have become so pessimistic that they predict the direct disaster to the town, for they argue that many good and useful citizens will find their occupations gone. That is more than probable, for it is within the purpose of the organization to exercise the utmost economy, and to put it bluntly, its executive officers are bound to get rid of every stick of dead wood, whether it is in Trenton or in East Liverpool. The long and short of it is that they must make a profit on $27,000,000 if they are to pay dividends; and if they do it by economical management they will not do much harm to the town in general. A few individuals may have to gaze upon their terminus, but beyond that the change will not be noticeable. If the American Potteries company should employ more people at the bench the change would be for the better."

IN TWO WEEKS

Secretary Kling Will Be Here to Talk Association Matters.

Secretary Platts today received a letter from State Secretary Kling stating that he would be here Monday, Jan. 30, unless something happened to change his plans.

When the secretary arrives he will hold a conference with the board of trustees and Ladies' auxiliary, and expects to spend a day in the city.

Sent Out Some Mail.

Yesterday an uptown pottery sent through the postoffice over 1,300 pieces of mail. The majority of the pieces contained two cent stamps, while on many 5 and 10 cent stamps were used. The cost of mailing the matter for this firm for the day was in excess of $100.

The Grip Holding On.

A leading physician stated this morning that the grip still had a firm hold on the city, and scores of people were suffering, but he knew of none where the patient was in danger.

HIGH TRAVELING PRICES.

Water Twenty Cents a Glass and Other Things in Proportion.

Passengers who have occasion to go to and from Hongkong and Manila are loud in their complaint about the exorbitant charges for the 60 hours' run and the scandalous treatment on board the steamers. In one German steamer, after charging $125 passage on deck, because cabins were not available, they had to pay 20 cents per glass for water. The regular lines have raised their fares to $75, but take such a quantity of passengers in excess of the accommodation that first class passengers are obliged to pay an extra $80 for one of the officers' cabins or else go down into the hold, where canvas screens have been erected to give the place an appearance of a cabin. Servants are charged $20, children under 12 years $40.

A family who went from Singapore to Hongkong by one of the mail lines paid in all $900 for their passage. The same family from Hongkong to Manila paid $1,215, with cabins for the ladies and children only! Passengers bound from Hongkong for Manila would do well to have a proper understanding with the Hongkong agents before embarking, or they may become victims of these agents' informality.—Hongkong Cor. A Two States Man.

The Hon. John J. Upchurch lives on the boundary line between Florida and Georgia. He is a wealthy mill man, and so popular on both sides of the line that he alternates his public services as a legislator between the two states. Before that he was sent to the lower house of the Georgia assembly, and further back was in the Florida house and Georgia senate in alternate sessions.—Florida Times-Union and Citizen.

BELASCO'S NEW PLAY.

"Zaza" a Drama of Tremendous Human Power.

DARING THEATRICAL REALISM.

The Play Is Adapted From the French of Berton and Simon—Mrs. Leslie Carter Achieves a Veritable Triumph In the Title Role—Story of the Play.

In "Zaza," as bold and daring a play as the metropolitan boards have harbored in many a day, but a drama of tremendous human power, Mrs. Leslie Carter at the Garrick theater in New York the other night achieved a veritable dramatic triumph. It is no superfluous praise to say that Bernhardt herself could not have surpassed the stupendous effect which Mrs. Carter created at the close of the fourth act. The audience applauded and cheered her until the curtain had been raised and lowered a dozen times. Belasco, who adapted the play from the French of Berton and Simon, made a speech in which he extolled the grit and determination of his pupil, and the star herself murmured a few words of grateful thanks.

"Zaza," like "Camille," has a coquette for its heroine. Her social status, however, is lower than that of the Dame aux Camelias. She is a chanteuse eccentric in a provincial music hall. Coarse, vulgar, seductive, imperious and violent tempered, she is withal generous and kind to those in need of sympathy and help.

The first act takes place upon the stage of the theater. On the left is the star's dressing room. The mysteries of the stage are exploited, and with almost brutal frankness the laxities of professional life, Gallic at least, are openly revealed. The realism here is daring. The manner in which it is worked out technically is marvelous in its detail.

To Zaza is introduced a Bernard Dufrene. He is a man of 38, a typical Frenchman. Zaza with her composer makes a bet that she will force him to take her out to supper. Beneath her seductive blandishments the weak man yields, and when the curtain next goes up on the couple at St. Etienne Zaza for six weeks has for the first time realized true happiness. She loves and is beloved. But the happiness is short lived. When her lover departs, she hears that he is a married man. For herself she will learn the truth, and to Paris she goes, jealous and vindictive, to revenge herself upon the wife. There shall be a scene, she promises the friend who accompanies her, but her wild rage melts away when instead of the wife she meets—his child. There is some good left in Zaza, and the innocent prattle touches the heart of the woman of the gutter, and she silently withdraws.

Back to the little house at St. Etienne the scene next shifts. Broken hearted at her lover's perfidy she returns. She will give him up. No; she will look upon what she has learned as a dream. With comforting sophistry she persuades herself that that is the best course for all concerned. Dufrene comes back. Why did he not tell her he was married? He excuses himself. He never dreamed of the relations they were to enter upon when he met her for the first time. It was his fault. But who could withstand her charm and smile?

She mentions his wife and the daughter Toto. When he learns that she has dared to enter his home, he upbraids her with a violence almost personal. Jealous and mad with rage, she retorts. In the interchange of recrimination Zaza realizes her true position. Real love for her there was none. She was his plaything, now despised, and with a sweep of passion, volcanic in force, she drives him from the house. In the final act Zaza has become a successful star. Paris is at her feet. Again Dufrene crosses her path and urges her to elope with him. "Let us become again what we were to each other," he says. "No," she replies. "Kiss Toto for me. We part forever."

"Zaza" will hereafter take its place in the theatrical repertory as one of the great test parts. It is a creation as complete in its depth, variety, power, humor and emotional force as "Camille" and "Frou-Frou" combined. What Mrs. Carter did with this exacting role is to say that she realized its every subtle point and meaning. Here is an impersonation that will rank with Bernhardt's Marguerite Gautier or Duse's rendering of Cesarine in "La Femme de Claude."

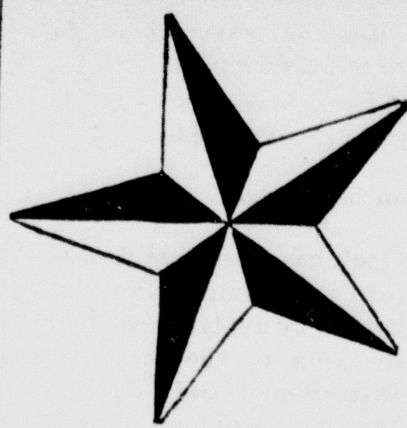

"Zaza" is the dramatic sensation of the season.—New York World.

To Uncle Sam.

"We're gloomy o'er your future," Says the European state.
"In fact, we have been gloomy Ever since you have been great. We have offered, very kindly, Our advice, which went astray, For you won't consent to run things In our dear, old fashioned way."

"You have broken quite abruptly From this long respected crowd, And you've prospered so completely We're afraid you may grow proud, And that's the explanation Of the way we plead and fret. The more you are successful, Why, the gloomier we get."

ANDREW CARNEGIE is keeping strangely silent these days. So much the better for Andrew.

EVIDENCES of prosperity under the Dingley law continue to multiply, and the year is well started with prospects that have never before been equaled. If this is not the banner year in the history of the country, even the calamity criers will be disappointed.

THE establishing of schools in Cuba goes steadily on and a great many American teachers are going to the island. They have a great work to do and under the guiding hand of the government will doubtless accomplish much before the troops are withdrawn—if that time ever comes.

BRYAN is now talking silver in the west. He should come east where the unconverted are said to reside if he believes he can accomplish anything for his cause. A better view, perhaps, is that he will be satisfied to hold old ground rather than attempt failure in more sensible sections of the country.

GENERAL EAGAN cannot complain, it matters not what may be the verdict of the court martial by which he is to be tried. He knows the laws and usages of military sufficient to have realized before he appeared before the commission the result of his highly colored language. He can blame no one but General Eagan.

THE reorganization of the army is a most important matter and one which should not be undertaken unless there is a determination to make it what it ought to be—a perfect military organization and not a political machine. There are few who believe the latter even a possibility, for the thorough American soldier is less politician than anything else. Sometimes he is unfortunate in possessing overzealous friends.

THE REPORT.
The statement is made that President McKinley will soon be in possession of the report of the war commission, and that it will tell the whole truth as near as the members have been able to determine from the vast amount of testimony placed at their disposal.

That is what the public desires. So much has been said and so many names have been involved that millions of American citizens are interested in knowing whether the stories of neglect and incompetency were true, together with the names of the responsible parties. They want no whitewashing, no cutting down of one man's shortcomings in order that they may be placed upon the back of another, perhaps some overloaded officer with a burden already too great to be borne with ease and comfort. Americans are always fair. They have no sympathy with injustice, and when convinced that injury has been done a public official they would see reparation made. The men who comprise the commission are citizens of this class, selected as much for that quality as for their knowledge of military affairs. It is therefore but reasonable to believe they will place the blame where it belongs, and show to the world what officers of the American army can be trusted and what dangers are to be avoided in time of war. Their duty was made to them very plain.

MUST WORK.

Tramps Can no Longer Live Here In Idleness.

Mayor Bough has been notified that in the future all tramps who desire work can have it by applying at his office. In speaking of the matter this morning Mayor Bough said:

"There have been a number of tramps sheltered in jail recently, and they were turned out the following morning.
They are very numerous about the city, and seldom does a night pass but what a number of them are given lodging.
When an officer asks them where they are going they say to Pittsburg, Washington or some other eastern city in search of work. They all claim they came from the west and were unable to secure work in any of the towns they have visited. In the future these men will be put to work on the streets and a man has been secured to keep their time, and they will have steady work all year. If there had been a stone pile in the city these men would be placed at work there, but on the streets the men will benefit the town more."

No one was given lodging last night, but as the weather is becoming colder
it is probable several will be given work within a short time.

FRIENDS SURPRISED.

Solicitor M. J. McGarry and Mrs. Clara B.
Humerickhouse Married.

M. J. McGarry and Mrs. Clara B.
Humerickhouse left the city this morning on the 8 o'clock train for the east, and when they return in a few days they will have been married. They will be at home to their friends after Tuesday, Jan. 24.

Mr. McGarry is the well known attorney, at present city solicitor, and his bride is well and popularly known in society. While their marriage comes as a surprise to many of their friends, the congratulations they will receive will be none the less hearty and sincere.

ABANDONED THE PROJECT.

Baseball Cranks Believed That Spring Had Come.

The warm weather of the last two days caused the ardor of the baseball cranks to blossom forth, and they commenced to talk of holding a meeting to organize for the season of 1899. The cold weather today dampened their spirits and the proposed meeting has been abandoned. It is probable nearly all the players who were members of minor leagues last year and received their release before the season was over will be delegated to stay at home this year, and the city should have a good amateur team.

NO MORE FOOTBALL

Will Be Played by the Rovers Until They Have a Winning Team.

The Rovers have almost decided to play no more association football in the city.

The season was not a success to them financially, and probably never will be until a winning team can be secured.
With the loss of Captain Stanway they lose their best player and he was rated one of the best men in the league. They would not have a chance to win any of the remaining games of the schedule, and knowing this the management have about decided to quit.

ESCAPED THE WORKS.

Louis Call Arranged to Pay His Fine Last Night.

No arrests were made during the night or this morning and no cases were before Mayor Bough for his disposal.

Louis Call, who was fined $7.60 Monday, was released last night, arrangements having been made to pay his fine.
The jail is now empty; the first time in several weeks.

YOUNG BOY IS MISSING

When Last Seen Was Going Toward Pittsburg.

HIS PARENTS ARE MYSTIFIED

They Cannot Imagine What Would Prompt Him to Leave His Home--Big Crowd Heard Amanda Smith Last Evening--All the News.

The family of Frank Chandler, of West End, are very much exercised over the absence of their 15-year-old son.

A gentleman who knows the boy reports that he saw him yesterday a short distance above Smith's Ferry making his way toward Pittsburg. The cause for the disappearance of the boy is not known as he seemed very well contented at home and evidenced no desire to try his fortunes in new fields.
It is expected he will follow the example of all runaway youngsters and return home in a few days.

Kicked the Wrong Boy.

William Carpenter complains to Mayor Dennis that Florence Bisman wilfully laid violent hands on his 9-year-old son. No action has yet been taken.

The cause of the encounter was chalk marks that had been put upon Bisman's coat, in passing a crowd of boys, but Mr. Carpenter says the wrong boy, his son, was seized and made to suffer for the act of another.

To Settle a Question.

The Sorosis Literary society, of Congo, met last night. A large crowd and a full literary program was given.

Arrangements were made for a debate on the subject of "Expansion" for the next meeting which will be in two weeks. A. C. Vandyke and Samuel Thorn, of Wellsville, together with two gentlemen from West Virginia will participate in the debate.

Returned to the Hospital.

Conductor George Packer, who was badly injured while coupling cars at Smith's Ferry recently, returned to the West Penn hospital at Pittsburg yesterday afternoon. He has been spending several days with his family at Wells-ville, and the hospital physicians have given out the word his arm can be saved and within a few months will be as firm
as before the accident.

Big Crowd Present.

Amanda Smith last evening occupied the pulpit at the Methodist Episcopal church and preached to an enormous crowd, the church being filled to overflowing. She talked on the old style religion and delivered an excellent discourse, pleasing the entire audience. If possible, she will hold another meeting in the church this evening.

Postponed an Entertainment.

High school students have been preparing for an entertainment to be given on Friday next, but finding it impossible to complete arrangements they have postponed the entertainment until the following Friday, when they expect to give one of the best entertainments ever presented in town.

Paid For Being Drunk.

Yesterday afternoon William Black was arrested by Officer Mick in the alley near city hall for being drunk and disorderly. This morning he was brought before Mayor Dennis where he pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $4.60. He paid and received his liberty.

MRS. STEWART IS DEAD

She Fell and Was Injured Six Weeks Ago.

HAD LIVED HERE MANY YEARS

The Lady Has Been In a Serious Condition Since the Accident Occurred, but It Was Not Believed Her Life Was In Danger Until Recently.

Mrs. Susan Stewart died last evening at 5:40 o'clock at her home in Sixth street.

About six weeks ago Mrs. Stewart started for church, and in going out of the gate slipped and fell, fracturing her hip. The fracture was reduced and the bone had knit and she would have been able to walk in a few weeks, but owing to her advanced age the strain was too great for her nervous system and she gradually weakened and last evening she passed away.

Mrs. Stewart was 73 years of age, and was born in Madison township, and had been a resident of the county all her life. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Croft, and on December 24, 1850, was united in marriage to W. C. Stewart, her husband dying in 1873. Shortly after their marriage the happy couple took up their residence on the Stewart farm about two miles north of the city where she resided until 1882, when she moved to this city and has since resided here.

Deceased was very well known to many residents of the city and was highly respected by all. She was a member of the First U. P. church and had been an earnest Christian all her life, being prominently identified with all church work that would tend to the upbuilding of the Master's kingdom. No children are left to mourn her loss, but the relatives have the satisfaction of knowing that she has passed into the sunshine of the Master's presence.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock from her late residence, Dr. J. C. Taggart, officiating. Interment will be made at the Calcutta U. P. cemetery. The remains can be viewed this evening from 7 to 9 o'clock.

JUDGE WELLS

Will Assist Prosecutor Brookes In the Pryor Trial.

LISBON, Jan. 18.—[Special]—Sheridan Mullins secured a judgment of $22.37 against James Fullman before Justice Rose in Liverpool. Plaintiff brought suit for $26.27, and the defendant not being satisfied has appealed.

The will of Isaac Walters, late of Liverpool, has been offered for probate.

Wilson Wright has been appointed administrator of Annie Hoffner, Liverpool. Bond $1,400. The appraisers are William Erlanger, Thomas Arbuckle and George Viney.

A marriage license has been issued to J. I. Ansley and Retta Thompson, of Calcutta.

Former Probate Judge W. G. Wells has been appointed to assist Prosecutor Brookes in the Pryor murder trial.

There are now but four prisoners in the county jail awaiting the action of the next grand jury. Two are charged with felonies and two with misdemeanors.

LISBON, Jan. 18.—[Special]—Z. Tetlow has sold to Catherine Grove, lot 120, Leetonia, $220; Wellsville Fair Association to Henry Aten, lot 104, $180; Henry Aten to G. M. Aten, same lot, $225.

ALL GOING EAST.

Many Tramps Are In Town These Days.

An unusually large number of tramps were in town yesterday and today, and several when questioned said they were bound for Pittsburg. One claimed he was a paper maker, and had made his way from Indiana. They were a hard looking lot and the majority seemed like professionals since they begged from house to house as though the occupation was by no means new.

A Strange Tale.

A laughable story is told of a resident of Jefferson street. Yesterday a lady acquaintance was passing the house in question, and noticed what was supposed to be crepe hanging on the door. Going in the house next door she inquired who had died. The two women then went in the home in question, and upon inquiry found no one dead, but on the front door was hung a pair of her husband's trousers.

Inquiry failed to find the person who placed them there.

Has Resigned the Pastorate of the Christian Church.

At a called meeting of the official board of the Christian church, held last night, Prof. O. S. Reed handed in his resignation as pastor, and the same was accepted. The reverend gentleman will remain in East Liverpool for some time, and will preach the dedicatory sermon of the new edifice now being builded by the congregation.

It is not positively known as to the future movements of Rev. Reed, but rumor has it that he may enter the lecture field, while the same authority speaks of him as taking charge of a church in Steubenville.

Professor Reed has a host of friends in our city who will hear with regret of his decision to depart from among us. He is an able and fearless man, doing the right as God gives him to see the right. He has been a power for good in East Liverpool. His record was that of a gallant soldier during the Civil war, and he is fully as fearless in his onslaughts upon sin and evil communications. The News Review, in company with a host of friends, wishes him success wherever he may go.

DROPPED DEAD.

Prominent Resident of St. Clair Township Passed Suddenly Away.

Alexander Calhoun, a well known resident of Calcutta, dropped dead last evening at the home of his nephew, Robert Whitehill.

Deceased was well up in years and has been making his home the last few weeks with his nephew near Calcutta. He has been enjoying good health, and last Wednesday evening attended prayer meeting and lead in prayer. He had been staying with H. V. Meeks over Sunday, and yesterday went to the home of his nephew, Robert Whitehill, who lives about one mile from Calcutta. When he arrived he made no complaint of not feeling well, and in the evening was playing with the children and said he felt cold and pulled his chair closer to the fire. He then threw out his arms and in three minutes was dead. He leaves no children, but has a brother in Texas. The arrangements for the funeral have not been made. The remains will probably be interred in Long's Run cemetery.

Professor Rayman Wound It Up Yesterday.

NOT A DEATH IN THE MONTH

But There Was a Notable Increase In the Number of School Children Who Are Ill, While Truancy Was Marked—Best Report of the Year.

Superintendent R. E. Rayman has completed his statistical report for the month of December. It is as follows:

New enrollment, males, 39, females, 38; entire enrollment, males, 1359, females, 1351; monthly enrollment, males, 1239, females, 1223; re-enrollment No. 1, males, 19, females, 15; re-enrollment No. 2, males, 7, females, 4; average daily attendance, males, 1032, females, 1032; per cent attendance, males, 93, females, 92; promoted, 1. Last month several were promoted. Demoted, none; pupils absent, males, 770, females, 743; pupils withdrawn, males, 51, females, 44; cases of tardiness, males, 168, females, 106; cases of truancy, males 10, females 2; corporal punishment 40; teachers absent 3; visits by patrons, males 25, females 109; visits by board, 3; cases of sickness, males 333, females 313. This report shows an increase of several hundred cases of sickness over the report of last year. Visits by superintendent, 101; deaths, none; roll of honor, males 418, females 451.

The report is one of the most complete that has yet been submitted to the board of education, notwithstanding that the report includes two weeks' vacation.

Lander's Retort at School.

One day in full school Master Lander had an apple of singular size and beauty. He had his Livy in one hand and this apple in the other and read and read and munched and munched till the sound struck the doctor. He espied the delinquent and ordered him to bring that apple to him. He put it on his desk, coram populo, and then, half relenting, said: "There, sir. Now, if you want that again you had better go and sit down and make me a short line on the occasion." "Oh, I can do that and stand here," says Master Lander. "Do it then." The boy thought a moment, and soon obliged him with a pentameter, "Esuriens doctor dulcia poma rapit."

"Hum!" says Dr. James. "And pray, sir, what do you mean by e-suriens doctor?" "The gormandizing doctor." "Take it, sir. You are too hard for me, you are too hard for me," said the doctor, delighted with his pupil. "Rouse's History of Rugby School."

Steel Balls.

The largest center in the world for the manufacture of steel balls for ball bearings is situated at Schweinfurt, in Bavaria. A couple of factories there, owned by one firm, produce close upon 300,000,000 balls annually with the labor of 600 men working ten hours daily. The total production of Germany is stated to be about 650,000,000, while England and France combined turn out only about 70,000,000 additional.

THE NEXT CANDIDATES

For Honor at the Hands of the People

Some Councilmen Will Be on the Ticket Again, But There Promises to Be Contests in the First and Second Wards. Some Other Positions.

The time for holding the spring primaries is not so far away, but candidates are not fast in making their appearance.

There is a councilman to be elected in each ward, as the terms of James Chalmers, First ward; W. C. Stewart, Second ward; George Peach, Third ward; George Olmhausen, Fourth ward, expire in April. The gentlemen have been interviewed as to whether they would be candidates for re-election, and with the exception of Mr. Olmhausen, they expressed an opinion that it was too early to discuss the matter. Mr. Olmhausen stated most emphatically that he would not stand for re-election. Numerous candidates have been suggested, and it is probable the fight for councilmen in the First and Second wards will be hotly contested. But there has not as yet been any candidate announced for the Third ward. The retirement of Mr. Olmhausen in the Fourth ward will no doubt bring forth numerous candidates from the second precinct of that ward and a vigorous campaign can be expected.

There is also a constable to be elected, and the first candidate to announce himself is Leo Golden, who was a candidate three years ago. There will no doubt be the usual large number of applicants for this office, and it will probably be the only canvass in which a great deal of interest is taken. The other office to be filled is that of justice of the peace.

The time for holding the primaries has not yet been set, but will probably take place Saturday, March 18.

AT EAST END

The Appraisers Looked Carefully Over the Plant.

George C. Murphy, William Cartwright and Mr. Kleber have completed the inspection of the East End pottery, checking the inventory made a few days ago.

The work of going over the potteries is rapidly drawing to a close, but much of the clerical work remains to be done. The force at the Thompson House are hard at it until a late hour every night, and the end is not yet in sight. A great many papers have been forwarded to New York, and a number are still unfinished.

Packing is going on in almost all the potteries, and a large number of decorators are employed, but the clay departments are still shut down.

Association News.

The Young Men's Christian Association glee club met last evening and held a rehearsal.

The religious work committee will meet this evening at 9 o'clock.

A Disputed Hero.

"I suppose that Whittom is a great hero in your community," said a Detroitite to a friend from one of the interior towns.

"Oh, I don't know!" "Don't know? Why, man, his bravery was remarkable! I read all about it in the papers. When his store was on fire, he rushed to the scene, disregarded the warnings shouted to him, pushed his way through the blinding smoke and seething flames and dropping firebrands to his office, dropped on his knees in the live coals before the safe, worked the hot knob until the combination caused the glowing doors to open, seized a valuable paper, rammed it beneath his vest to protect it from the raging element and staggered forth again from the consuming caldron. It was one of the most thrilling acts of bravery I ever heard of."

"Do you happen to know what that paper was for which Whittom risked his life?"

"No, but it must have been a very important document. No man would incur such danger without his very fortune was at stake."

"You'd think so, wouldn't you? Well, sir, that paper was the pedigree of Whittom's trotting horse that never beat 2:28 and never will."—Detroit Free Press.

Hope of a Disturbance.

He had been tossed about uncomfortably for 30 years. He had a gentle, contemplative, book reading disposition, was fond of pretty things, good manners and repose. But he had had to work hard at things which ruffled his spirit. "Intolerable" was the word most frequently on his lips. But now he has an easy, salaried position, congenial work, and for the time is comfortable.

The other evening he sat in his cheerful apartment, with a warm dressing gown about him, and talked to a friend about how the troubles of life had fallen away from him, how at last he had arrived in the haven. His friend told him that he was just in the condition to experience a new disturbance, deeper than all the others; that this rest was only a lull in the storm.

"What do you mean?" he asked. The reply was a counter question.

"Are you as much resolved as ever to live alone?" this friend asked.

There was a pause. Then the contemplative man said slowly, "As an abstract proposition marriage doesn't seem as disagreeable to me as it did."

His friend smiled. "You will find that you will be deeply disturbed again before very long," he said.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Convictions, Indeed!

"What a whip likes," said Mr. Labouchere in London Truth, "is a sheep that never opens its mouth and which submissively goes into the pen to which the whip's finger points. Years ago I remember once voting on some very trifling issue against Liberal officialdom. The next time I met the chief whip he glared at me as though I were a monster of iniquity and asked me whether I could give any explanation of my conduct."

"I modestly replied that I had thought that the other side was right. He almost had a fit and gobbled at me like an irate turkey. I asked him whether I was to vote against my own convictions. 'D—n your convictions!' he said. 'A pretty pass things are coming to when one of our lot talks about convictions!'"

Not So Bad.

Brown lived between Gray and Green. Green was as quiet a neighbor as you could wish to have, and so was Gray, for that matter, but he had a barking dog that was the torment of Brown's life. One day in his desperation he told Gray that if he would get rid of the dog he would give him $5.

"All right," said Gray. "I'll do it." Meeting Gray down town that afternoon Brown asked, "Have you done what you agreed to do and got rid of that dog?"

Gray—Yes, I've got rid of him. Brown—Thank goodness! Now I shall sleep nights. By the way, what did you do with him?

Gray—I sold him to Green. He gave me $3 for him. Not so bad, eh?—Boston Transcript.

He Never Complained.

"I never complained," once said Sa'di, the poet, "of my condition but on a single occasion, when my feet were bare and I had not money to buy shoes, but I saw a man without feet and became instantly contented with my lot."

Being asked from whom he learned his philosophy, Sa'di replied, "From the blind, because they never advance a step until they have tried the ground."

"They asked me," Sa'di writes in the Gulistan, "Of whom didst thou learn manners?" I replied: "From the unmannerly. Whatever I saw them do which I disapproved of, that I abstained from doing."

Scotland's Strange Birds.

From the small island of St. Kilda, off Scotland, 20,000 young gannets and an immense number of eggs are annually collected, and although this bird lays only one egg per annum and is four years in obtaining its maturity its numbers do not diminish. Obviously such birds must reach a great age, or they would long ago have been exterminated.

NEW PERIL TO EYESIGHT

Hot Towels In Barber Shops Breed Microbes.

Prominent Young St. Louis Lawyer's Narrow Escape From Blindness. Physicians Sound a Warning Cry Against a Recent Western Innovation Which Has Proved Dangerous.

It behooveth men who get shaved in public places to write down a new "don't" in their "don't books" if they wish to reserve their eyesight. A fresh microbe is abroad in the land. He lives in the towels which some barbers lay across the eyes of the men who get shaved in public places.

He is a hardy microbe, who is not inconvenienced by hot water. He transplants himself from the towel to the eyes of man and sets up a terrible state of things in quick order.

Within the past few weeks many men in St. Louis have come to oculists with eyes in which a virulent irritation had been set up. When they were questioned, all of them said they had been patronizing barber shops where the custom obtains of giving the upper part of the face a sort of Turkish bath by means of a towel which has been dipped in hot water.

The condition was almost identical in each case, an infection so pronounced that a film began forming over the pupil and pus was exuded, and the destruction of the sight was imminent.

There is now at the Baptist sanitarium a young lawyer and politician from the east who came perhaps nearer than anybody else to losing his eyesight. The young man has been passing the holidays in St. Louis visiting friends. The other day his right eye began troubling him. He supposed something had lodged in it which would wash out and the inflammation would subside.

But the irritation became more intense as the day passed. He had engaged to accompany a young lady to the Philharmonic Symphony society concert in the evening. In spite of the severest suffering he called at her home to keep the engagement.

The young lady suggested that he go to see a doctor whose residence was next door. He did so, and the doctor examined the eye carefully. "There is no foreign substance in your eye," he said. "It has become infected in some manner. I advise that you consult a specialist without delay."

Instead of going with him to the concert the young lady accompanied him to the office of a well known oculist near Beaumont street and Washington avenue. The specialist said: "You are in great danger of losing your eyesight. Prompt and thorough treatment is necessary to save it. An operation may be necessary. You will have to go immediately to the Baptist sanitarium."

The doctor dismissed his other patients, and entering the carriage in which the young man had come accompanied him to the sanitarium. It was a bit unusual for a man to go to a hospital in evening dress and high hat, but his sight was more precious to him than a precise regard for the fitness of raiment.

An operation was not necessary, but the use of the knife could not have inflicted more acute pain. The eyeball was swabbed and scraped and cleansed and packed and the young man says, with a shudder, he thinks it was sand-papered and chiseled. The left eye was subjected to like heroic treatment as a precautionary measure, and for 24 hours the young man was in anxious, bandaged darkness.

When the bandages were removed by the surgeon, a hopeful exclamation escaped him. He feels confident now there will be no ill effects, but if surgical interposition had been delayed a few hours longer the sight of one and possibly both eyes would have been destroyed.

The towel microbe has also been at work in Chicago. A few days ago a gentleman was asked in one of the well shops in St. Louis if he would have a hot towel over his eyes. "Not for anything," he said. "I was blind three months in Chicago as a result of the application of a hot towel to my eyes."

The use of a hot, damp towel seems to be a western innovation. It is not used in eastern barber shops. The young man at the Baptist sanitarium is well known in St. Louis. He withheld permission to use his name because he feared his parents would be unduly alarmed.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Law Against "Hoochinoo."

The name of firewater in Alaska is "hoochinoo," and the other day the house gave its official sanction to the word by enacting that no whisky, beer or "hoochinoo" shall be sold in Alaska. The word indicates a place infested with bears, "hoo" meaning bear and "chinoo" home. When the United States laws established prohibition for Alaska, the natives of that territory began furnishing a mixture of rum and molasses, which has gradually taken the name of "hoochinoo." This is the first legal recognition of the word, and congress is ahead of the dictionary makers.—New York World.

WILL SEND A DELEGATE

McKinley Club to Be Represented at Dayton.

MEETING TO BE CALLED SOON

The Organization Is Entitled to a Representation of Ten Members, But It Is Believed That Only One Will Go—It Is an Important Political Gathering.

It is probable the old McKinley club will be represented at the annual meeting of the Ohio Republican league, to be held in Dayton Feb. 11.

Each club is entitled to 10 delegates, who will be splendidly entertained by the people of the fortunate town where the convention will be held, but the local organization will be content with one representative. It is understood that one member of the club will attend the meeting, and in order that he may be armed with the proper credentials a meeting of the club will be called in a few weeks to pass the necessary resolution. The McKinley club has long since ceased to exist as an active political factor, but it is listed as a member of the League, and if possible that membership will be retained.

The meeting at Dayton is for the purpose of electing officers and honoring the memory of Lincoln, the last feature taking the form of a banquet where Colonel Roosevelt and other prominent Republicans of state and nation will speak. The session will likely be of interest to those men who are supporting gubernatorial booms.

BROKE THE WHIP.

Deputy Golden Took the Law In His Own Hands.

A few days ago as L. L. Golden, who acts as deputy humane agent, was driving to the city from Wellsville he found a party from the city with a team that had stalled near Brady's cut. The fellow thought the team should be able to pull the load, and made the remark that he would wear the whip out on them, and began to beat his horses.

Golden ordered him to stop, but he refused, and the officer, not knowing whether his jurisdiction extended that far, decided to take the law in his own hands and grabbed the man, and taking the whip from him broke it up and then made him take off a portion of the load.

STEADILY INCREASING.

Crockery Shipments Are Becoming More Gratifying.

Freight business at the depot since Monday has been increasing, and yesterday and today a fair number of cars were loaded and sent out from the outbound platform.

Most of the potteries have resumed packing, and upon their shipments depend the business of the freight platforms. A fair amount of ware was on the platform for shipment this morning. The checkmen on the receiving platform are busier now than they have been for several days.

Was the Operation Performed Upon the Arm of James Hall.

Mrs. James B. Hall, of Kossuth street, returned last evening from Pittsburgh after spending a few days at the bedside of her husband who is undergoing treatment at the Mercy hospital.

The operation performed upon the arm of Mr. Hall was very successful, and he is fast regaining his health, but it will be some weeks before he is able to be home.

STRANGER ILL.

He Is From Erie and Has Been Here Since Saturday.

Charles C. Hart, a salesman for an Erie, Pa., house, is seriously ill at his rooms in the Thompson House. He came to this city Saturday and was compelled to go to bed immediately. He has been suffering with a severe attack of the grip and malaria. His condition last evening was much improved.

Mr. Jackson In Steubenville.

Presiding Elder Jackson, of the Steubenville district of the Methodist Episcopal church, returned to his home this morning. He had charge of the services in the First M. E. church last evening, and will return to the city this evening to repeat his work of last night.

Steel Going South.

The towboat Relief, which passed this city this morning going south, had in tow three model barges of steel rails from the Carnegie rail mill at Homestead. The rails were consigned to a southern road and are to be delivered at New Orleans.

His Mongoose Experience.

"Although I sold tickets in a red circus wagon for years," continued the dime museum man, "I was badly fooled once in an animal deal. I mean by this that I fooled myself. I got a letter from a collector, who wanted to know if I would buy a mongoose. I wrote back to have it shipped at once, and it was to be in the museum ready for exhibition one Monday morning. I had a rather hazy idea of what the beast looked like, but I was sure that it was something big, with tusks, and I told our artist to go ahead on that idea and spread himself.

"He did. The picture he evolved would catch any one's eye at any range. He took a whole frame of canvas and painted for a background a tropical island, with the mongoose chewing up sailors on the shore.

"The picture was finished Sunday, and I couldn't help but rub my hands when I looked at it. The moment it was hung out people flocked around it, and the early morning attendance Monday was remarkable. The doors were opened before I got down, and as I went up stairs I could hear a subdued growl.

"That's the mongoose," I said to myself. 'The idiots haven't fed it.' "It wasn't the mongoose. It was the crowd growling like a Roman mob behind the scenes. They had been lured by the picture, and when they got to the cage labeled 'Mongoose' they could not see the beast at all. It had buried itself in the straw."—Chicago Tribune.

The Leopard and the Pan.

One day a worthy Kulu housewife came out from her cooking and, standing on the ledge of rock at her door, emptied a pan of boiling water into the rank herbage growing below. It fell, splash, on the back of a sleeping leopard, who jumped perpendicularly into the air as high as the roof of the hut. What might have happened next? Who can say? But the astonished woman dropped the pan with a clang upon the rock, and the leopard took one leap down hill. The pan followed, and the leopard's downward leaps became longer and swifter as the pan bounded after it from rock to rock.

When last seen the leopard had just achieved a leap of about 350 feet to the very bottom of the ravine, thousands of feet below, and the pan had whirled about 500 feet over it on to the opposite side. The leopard would have eaten the old woman with pleasure, but a pan which first scalded half the hide off him and then bounded clanging in his wake from the top of the Himalayas to the plains below was something which he could not face.—Good Words.

In Your Name Here?

A contributor has been amusing himself by trying to answer the question or series of questions, What man in the history of the world whose name began with A—and after that every other letter of the alphabet in order—exerted the greatest influence upon the thought and conduct of mankind?

Of course there are some letters which are not very prolific in the names of great men, but we think most of our readers will be surprised to see how many of the most illustrious names in history are included and how few are excluded.

In some cases the compiler seems to have selected names quite as much with a view to comprehending in the list men of many countries, as because the name given was that of the greatest man of his time. The list follows:

Aristotle, Baco, Confucius, Darwin, Ezra, Franklin, Goethe, Homer, Isaiah, Justinian, Kant, Luther, Mohammed, Newton, Ossian, Plato, Quintilian, Rousseau, Shakespeare, Tasso, Uhland, Virgil, Washington, Xavier, Young, Zoroaster.—London Globe.

Dangers of Laughter.

It is surprising to learn from the highest medical authority in England that laughter may be injurious.

Laughter in itself, says the British Medical Journal, cannot very well kill, but it may do harm. Hysterical girls and boys with kindred nervous affections are often given to immoderate laughter, which tends to increase nervous exhaustion.

Dr. Feilchenfeld relates an instructive case in which a little girl suffered from very definite cardiac symptoms after immoderate laughter. The patient was 13 years old and had previously been free from any sign of heart disease. After laughing on and off for nearly an hour with some companions she suddenly felt stabbing pains in the chest and was seized with fits of coughing, followed by cardiac dyspnea, very well marked. Feilchenfeld believes that the cardiac disease directly resulted from immoderate laughing.

Defending His Profession.

"Now," said the attorney for the defense, "let us take up the bill presented by the plaintiff in this case for alleged services rendered to my client. I say alleged services, gentlemen of the jury, because these figures show every indication of having been doctored."

"Would it not be better to say 'lawyer'?" asked an indignant physician who was serving as one of the jurors.—Chicago Tribune.

The deserts of Arabia are specially remarkable for their pillars of sand, which are raised by whirlwinds and have a very close resemblance in their appearance to waterspouts.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Washington Bibliophile Pays $125 For a Field Primer.

CHAMP CLARK ACTS AS SALESMAN.

William E. Curtis, Washington correspondent of the Chicago Record, tells of a remarkable case of barter on the floor of the house recently. Mr. Frank L. Hanvey, a Washington bibliophile, in the presence of Congressmen Cochran and Benton of Missouri, handed Congressman Champ Clark $125, and in return received from Mr. Clark a much worn little book with a blue cover. The book was one of the seven existing copies of the original edition of Eugene Field's "Model Primer" and was the property of Mrs. Bob White of Mexico, Mo.

When subscriptions were being raised in Missouri for the Field monument, J. West Goodwin, the well known Missouri editor, conceived the idea of reprinting the Field "Model Primer" and selling facsimiles. In writing an account of the manner in which he proposed to raise a Field monument fund he related how he had secured a copy of the first edition from Mrs. White. Mr. Goodwin's story fell into the hands of Mr. Hanvey of this city, and he at once opened a correspondence with Mrs. White. She did not care to part with her treasure, but when Mr. Hanvey told her he was willing to have her name her own price she referred him to Congressman Clark.

An interview took place during the holidays at which Mr. Hanvey offered $125. The book arrived the other day, and the next morning Mr. Hanvey met Mr. Clark on the floor of the house by appointment just before the opening of the session, handed him the check for $125 and received the book. Mr. Hanvey told Mr. Clark he would not feel perfectly satisfied the book was genuine until after he had shown it to Francis Wilson, the comedian, who is an authority upon the works of Eugene Field. Mr. Clark assured Mr. Hanvey that if Mr. Wilson did not pronounce the book a copy of the original edition he would, of course, return him the money. Mr. Hanvey is a contractor at 213 Twelfth street, Washington.

"Come seben," "come leben," "big Joe's my point," "got you faded," "fever in de souf," and a few similar expressions are perfectly plain English to General Grosvenor now. They were not before the other afternoon, says the Washington Post.

The story of how he came to appreciate the significance of those terms the whole house of representatives knows. The house was considering penal laws when the instructing of the general took place. The proposed law prohibits all gambling "with cards or dice" particularly. The general arose to move an amendment so as to include the seductive game called "craps." The Buckeye statesman went on to explain that he understood that craps was one of the worst gambling games ever invented. He thought the youth and manhood of the frozen territory should be protected. Therefore he proposed that the prohibition should be extended to include craps.

Very few members were paying any attention to the general's remarks. Among the few was General Shattuc of Cincinnati, which city is noted for the number of its "crap joints." First he looked on with approval. Then his face got red. He looked embarrassed and began making signals of distress to the Nestor of the Ohio delegation. The general talked, however, until the Cincinnati pulled his coat and ejaculated in a stage whisper heard all over the house, "Craps is a dice game."

Thereupon the general was the subject of a boisterous laugh. In the confusion that followed he said something about being thankful that there were some things about which he was not as well advised as some other persons. When General Grosvenor resumed his seat, General Shattuc engaged him in a very earnest conversation. General Shattuc swung his arms, snapped his fingers, and his jaws worked as if he were uttering the persuasive words, "Come six, baby needs new shoes," or "Here's your fever in de souf right offen de reel."

A few nights ago, when Washington was being treated to a spell of Dakota weather, rain, snow, sleet and hail coming from the clouds simultaneously, ex-Secretary John Sherman's carriage drew up in front of the Grand Opera House, where Francis Wilson was playing "The Little Corporal," says the New York World.

Mr. Sherman and his daughter alighted and hurried into the lobby of the theater. Having neglected to purchase seats, the venerable statesman was compelled to take his place in a long line of anxious people who were waiting an opportunity to pass up to the box office. While he stood in line Actor Wilson

Two hearts can make a love affair, but it takes three, at least, to make a home, and one of them must be that of a baby. The young married couples that start out in life with the idea that children are nuisances, and that they do not want and will not have them, are the kind that you read about every day in the newspapers—in the divorce column. A home without children is not a home. God and Nature never intended that there should be a place called home that did not resound with the patter of childish footsteps.

There are tens of thousands of homes that are childless because of the ill-health of the wife and would-be mother. There are tens of thousands of other homes childless because the little ones have died almost as soon as they were born. In both cases Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a sovereign remedy. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs that make wifehood and motherhood possible. It makes them well, strong, vigorous, virile, and elastic. It does away with the dangers of maternity. It banishes the usual discomforts of the expectant period and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It insures the little new comer's health and an ample supply of nourishment. The prospective mother prepares herself for maternity by taking the "Favorite Prescription" and gives her child a fair start in life by giving it a strong and well developed body. Thousands of homes that were childless, to-day echo with babies' laughter, and bless this great medicine. Thousands of women who were weak, nervous, despondent invalids, are to-day happy, healthy wives and mothers because of this medicine. Medicine dealers sell it.

Constipation kills slowly—but it kills. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it.

THE SAME OLD STORY.

Told on the Streets of East Liverpool as Well as Elsewhere.

Some things you cannot tell too often. Repetition gives them added strength. The same old story is pleasant to hear.

When it brings happiness to home, Brings joy to the afflicted, Tells how burdens can be raised, How the back can be relieved, All the pains and aches removed, Proves how easily it's done. East Liverpool people tell this story. Friends and neighbors talk of it. They talk about their kidneys ills. How they suffered—how the cures came.

What they think of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here's what a citizen says: Mr. G. H. Garner, the well known manufacturer of ice cream, at 168 Jackson street, says:

"My trouble set in with a soreness and stiffness over my whole body, my appetite was poor and I was annoyed a good deal with a bloating at the stomach. There was also a urinary difficulty, and I felt, generally used up. I tried two or three different remedies, but they did not do me the least good. Having heard Doan's Kidney Pills so highly spoken of, I made up my mind to try them, and I procured a box at W. & W. pharmacy. I did not take over half of it before I was entirely free from any trouble, my appetite good and my old time vigor restored. I recommended them to many of my friends, among them P. J. Green, V. S., and they all speak of them in the highest terms. I can honestly endorse Doan's Kidney Pills in every particular, knowing them to be No. 1 and well worth a trial by anyone."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers, price 50 cents per box, or sent by mail on receipt of price by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

"There's John Sherman," said a friend of Wilson, who was hurrying by. He halted, looked down the line and, recognizing the statesman, approached, tapped him gently on the shoulder and asked him into the theater. The daughter joined her father, while Wilson hurried into the box office and took the best seats in the house and presented them to Mr. Sherman with the compliments of "The Little Corporal." Mr. Sherman was most profuse in his thanks and Wilson made a friend for life.

Chinese Back Scratcher.

No Chinese home is without a back scratcher, while many there be in otherwise happy American households who do not know its joys. Therefore are they compelled to hitch around on chairs to dislodge the itch.

The oriental does better. He shoves down his back an instrument which has a carved bone or ivory hand with sharp claws. This is mounted on a flexible handle of cane or bone, and with a few pushes the annoyance ceases.—Hong-kong Correspondence.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Trades council will hold an important
meeting this evening.

Knowles, Taylor & Knowles yesterday mailed 700 handsome calendars to
their customers.

The street force yesterday cleaned
Walnut street, and are busy today cleaning the principal streets.

Mrs. G. Y. Travis is in Toronto
where she was called by the serious illness of her father, Amos Aiken.

Charles Frey and Hugh McCarron returned today to Marion, Ind., after spending several weeks in the city visiting relatives.

Edward Dobbs, of Hailsville, Ind., arrived in the city yesterday. He will take a position in one of the river pot-
teries.

A new lamp has been placed in the window of the ticket office at the passenger station. It is an improvement
that has been long needed.

Doctor Crawford is somewhat improved today. He slept well last night,
and his physician now believes he is
well on the way to recovery.

The damage caused by the storm of
last Saturday to the telephone wires in this section has been repaired and the system is again in good working order.

The floors of several stalls at the fire station were replaced yesterday. The floors are of wood and are rendered useless after horses stand on them several months.

A large number of operative potters
are out of the city at present, visiting friends until they receive word as to the time when work will begin in the potteries.

Engineer Hunt, of trains 835 and 836,
is ill at his home in Cleveland suffering
from the effects of a dental operation.
His condition is such that his friends
think he cannot recover.

A small boy who was hanging to the
steps of a street car was thrown at the junction of Washington and Sixth streets this morning. He was not badly hurt, but went away crying.

The scarcity of houses in the city continues. One family recently moved here
from Wellsville, where they went three weeks ago because they could not find a place of abode in Liverpool.

Evangelist Nash, who will arrive
Friday to conduct a week's services at
the Young Men's Christian association,
Sunday evening will occupy the pulpit
of the First Presbyterian church.

Engineer Thomas Moore, of the Cleveland and Pittsburgh freight department, has been granted several weeks
vacation. He left for a short trip
through the east yesterday afternoon.

The petition asking the board of par-
cens to recommend the release from the penitentiary of Jesse McGregor has been liberally signed in Wellsville, and it is said a number of local people have
added their names.

This morning a crowd of boys from East End, about 15 in number, with 45
dogs left for the country where they went for the purpose of chasing rabbits.
The boys had no firearms with them
and only went on the trip for the fun
they would obtain.

It is learned from an absolutely reliable source that four or five capitalists
of the city yesterday took an option on the C. Metsch property, the price asked being $35,000. The parties are very anxious to secure the land, and it is probable the deal will be closed in a few days. It is not known what they wish
to do with the property.

The three cars which were ordered
from a Buffalo firm recently by the street railway company, arrived at the power house early this morning. They were taken from the cars at the lower freight depot, and from there to the power house. The cars are unlike any
now in use on the line, being painted yellow and lettered in red. They will be equipped with motors immediately.

Cornelius Senior Entertains In Honor of His Second Son.

WEALTH AND BEAUTY THERE.

One o'clock Cotillon Led by Worthington Whitehouse and Mrs. Harry
Payne Whitney—Women Blaze
With Jewels—Two Dinners Were Served—First Vanderbilt Ball In Three Years.

The Vanderbilt ball the other night
in New York was an affair of stately grandeur. There were 500 guests in the Fifth avenue palace, and 500 richer,
better dressed or handsomer men and women were never gathered under one roof.

The mansion was displayed in all its lavish magnificence. The guests trod
upon carpets that have felt the feet of oriental royalty; they dined off plate
that might have come from the wedding chest of a princess with a fairy
godmother; they looked upon paintings
the least of which represented more than a poor man earns in a lifetime of labor.

Magnificence was the watchword of
the occasion. It is not often the Vanderbilts entertain, but when they do the tale is worth the telling. The half thousand who were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt were a fitting
company for the regal halls, the rich
carving, the tapestries and the general
riot of grandeur of the most sumptuous private palace in America if not in the world.

It was the first time the grand ballroom has fulfilled the purpose of its creation in three years. The ball was in honor of the son, a mere boy at college, but heir to $50,000,000.

Only inferentially was the grand ball
to celebrate the engagement of this lad
to marry. The bride to be—at least everybody considered her the bride to be
—Miss Elsie French, was not among
the guests. She is at present abroad
with her mother.

There was, however, a prospective
Vanderbilt bride among the merry-
makers. Miss Fair, the betrothed of young Willie K. Vanderbilt, a nephew of the house, attracted more attention than
the pictures, the flowers and the music.
When she danced, the eyes of the exclusive multitude were upon her. The story had been generally circulated and
was generally believed that the grand resumption of Vanderbilt hospitality
would also mark a reconciliation in the family, but Cornelius junior and his wife were not there.

There were two separate dinners served during the evening. The first, a buffet luncheon for the older people,
was spread in the dining saloon, but
the young people's dinner was served everywhere. Tables were spread for convenient little parties in the halls,
the picture galleries and the many beautiful smaller rooms, and there the young people ate and drank at their ease.

The cotillon began at 1 o'clock in the morning. It was led by Worthington
Whitehouse and Lida Vanderbilt
Sloane, the daughter of Mrs. Douglas Sloane. The favors were varied and gorgeous enough to be in keeping with
the magnificence of the rest of it.

There were Venetian lanterns on
stands as high as a small woman's head,
tambourines for the ladies, sashes of
silver, whips and canes and boutonnières
and good luck trophies. A most beautiful picture was that presented by the dancers, decked with their trophies, in
that fairy cavern of a ballroom.

It was the court ball of the richest
set of the richest city in the world, and
the women had dressed for it as they had probably never dressed for a ball in New York. They were a-glitter with gems, and the white flashes of diamonds
and the red and green gleams of rubies
and emeralds answered back the challenge of the electric lights that shone
from the frieze and corruscated from
the giant candelabra.

The guests entered at the Fifty-eighth
street entrance under the porte cochere,
which admitted them to the main hall.

Relieved of their wraps, they burst
like butterflies from a chrysalis, and in all their glory swarmed up the stately
winding staircase to the water color
room. There Mrs. Vanderbilt received her guests alone. The water color room
is in the style of Louis XVI. On the walls are the soft beauties from the
brushes of Madeleine Lemaire, Childe
Hassam, Pizarro, Claude Mottet, Do-
mingo, Burne-Jones and Abbey.

From the water color room the progress was direct to the ballroom, a stately chamber, the most beautiful dancing
apartment in any private residence in America. It is 65 feet long, as wide as an ordinary city lot, and the ceiling is 35 feet above the floor.

The ceiling is one grand panel framed
above the side walls. In the frieze on
the top of the wall are the hidden electric lights. In the four corners are great clusters of other lights, rising in
great lilylike bouquets.

The musicians' bay, at the end of the
room opposite the entrance, was occupied by the Lander orchestra and the Nahan Franko orchestra, which alternated in the music. During supper the orchestras rendered selections from

"Hurly Burly," Stromberg; "Runaway Girl," Caryl; "Carmen," Bizet, and
"Serenade," Herbert.—Special Philadelphia Press.

NAVAL BILL PASSED.

Amendment Abolishing Prize Money Was Added—Marine Corps Increased.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The house
passed the naval personnel bill. By its provisions the line and the engineer
corps are welded into an amalgamated
line; staff officers are given positive
rank, but their command is limited to their own corps and a system of voluntary and compulsory retirement on
three-quarters pay as next higher rank
of 40 officers a year is established,
which is designed to remove the congestion in the lower rank at 45. The bill also practically equalizes their pay
with that of army officers. One amendment creates a judge advocate corps,
another abolishes prize money and a third provides for the retirement on
three-quarters pay of enlisted men and petty officers in the navy after 30 years'
service.

A substitute for the organization of the marine corps was adopted, by which
the corps is to consist of 6,000 enlisted
men and petty officers, with general
officers and staff. This will increase the marine corps by 1,300 men and increase the cost of its maintenance
$1,500,000.

CANAL BILL CONSIDERED.

The Rawlins Amendment Defeated In
the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Almost the entire session of the senate was devoted to consideration of the pending Nicaragua canal bill. Speeches were made in support of the measure by Mr. Chil-
ton (Tex.) and Mr. Turner (Wash.),
and in opposition to it by Mr. Spooner
(Wis.).

The first vote reached was on an amendment offered by Mr. Rawlins (Utah), which in brief provided that the United States should have absolute
control of the canal for military or naval purposes with power to dictate the use of the waterway during the existence of war. It was defeated by a vote of 38 to 9. A provision was inserted in the bill providing that no more than $5,000,000 should be paid the Maritime Canal company for its concession and work already done on the canal. When adjournment was taken the substitute
measure offered by Mr. Caffery (La.)
was before the senate.

Eagan's Testimony Toned Down.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The war investigating commission decided to make public the amended statement filed by Commissary General Eagan. The commission permitted the representatives
of the press to read the statement and
it was formally announced to the newspaper men that General Eagan had
eliminated all objectionable statements,
and therefore the document would be accepted officially by the commission as evidence.

A HALL OF CHRIST.

Plan to Be Inaugurated by Chautauqua
Trustees—Helen Gould Contributed $5,000.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 18.—Business of
much importance to the friends of the great Chautauqua movement will be transacted at the annual meeting of
the trustees of the assembly in this city tonight. One thing decided upon
will be the removal of the headquarters
to Cleveland. Hereafter all the publications, including The Chautauquan, will
be issued in this city.

One of the projects that is to be undertaken at the assembly ground next summer is the erection of the building to be called the Hall of Christ, for which Miss Helen Gould contributed $5,000. The structure, which is to be of brick and terra cotta, will stand upon
an eminence in the grounds.

The hall will be emblematic of the Savior and will illustrate the different events in his life. In the apse will be a colossal figure of Christ. The cost of the structure will be $25,000.

The committee in charge of the project met and perfected the report that is to be submitted to the trustees tonight. It consisted of Bishop J. H.
Vincent, William Thomas of Meadville,
Pa., E. G. Lisenberry of Portville, N.
Y., and F. W. Hyde of Jamestown,
N. Y.

BRYAN VISITED DENVER.

The Colonel Spoke to Legislators and
at a Big Meeting.

DENVER, Jan. 18.—Colonel William
J. Bryan made two public speeches in Denver, both of which were listened to
by audiences only limited by the capacity of the auditoriums. The first was in the hall of the house of representatives, to which only those who had tickets were admitted. The other was
at Coliseum hall.

After this address to the legislature
Mr. and Mrs. Bryan repaired to the residence of Governor Thomas, where they were entertained at dinner, to which half a dozen of the leading
Democrats of the state, including ex-
Governors Grant and Adams, and a number of ladies, were guests.

There were about 5,000 persons in Coliseum hall and probably as many more on the outside pressing for admission.

Introduced by Lentz.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Representative Lentz of Ohio introduced a resolution providing for the discharge of such volunteers as entered the service for the war with Spain. It also provides
that troops to the number of 13,000 may
be raised among the natives of the islands acquired by the United States.

ATKINSON GOT A BOOST.

Third District People Boomed the Governor For Senator.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 18.—The governor and the state senate have not formally recognized the house as being organized and ready for business. The senate adjourned before the house committee had an opportunity to notify it
of that fact and no message of any character has yet been sent to the house
by the governor.

A large and representative gathering
of business men of the two districts,
but who reside chiefly in the Kanawha
valley, was held, J. L. Henry of Ray-
ette presided and Alexander McVeigh
Miller of Monroe was secretary. Speeches were made in which the principal statement was that Governor Atkinson was a native of Kanawha and
had grown to manhood here and the Third district was proud to claim him
as her own. Resolutions were adopted
endorsing him in unmeasured terms as
the candidate of the people, irrespective
of locality or politics.

President McKinley Wrote to Congress
Regarding Rescue of Whalers.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—President Mc-Kinley sent a message to congress recounting as "another glorious page in the history of American seamen" the
valorous deeds of the officers and men of the revenue cutter Bear in rescuing
the imperiled whaling fleet in Arctic
waters last year.

The president concluded by asking
the thanks of congress to the officers
and men of the party, with gold medals
of honor to those of the overland expedition, and $2,500 for the bestowal of rewards to W. T. Lopp and native
herders who aided the relief expedition.

Mayor Taggart Heard of a Launch
Stranded on an Island.

MOBILE, Jan. 18.—Thomas Taggart,
mayor of Indianapolis, who is here, received a telegram from Fort Morgan
saying a report had reached there that
a launch had been seen stranded on Dauphin island, at the entrance to Mobile bay.

Mr. Taggart at once ordered a boat sent to investigate. It is not known
what time the boat left Fort Morgan.

Fort Morgan is 35 miles from this
city.

Mr. Taggart has a daughter on the missing pleasure launch Paul Jones.

To Fight the Treaty.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The Democratic opponents of the peace treaty
were in conference several hours devising ways and means for conducting
their contest. They resolved to insist upon an amendment placing the Philippines on the same footing in their relation to the United States as Cuba, and
to make a persistent fight if this concession was not granted.
